PIGGYBACK COMMUTING?

San Rafael Man Proposes Minibus On A Trailer Rig

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

A plan for solving the commuter problem which involves neither trains, big buses nor ferries was proposed today by Steen Schellenberg, a San Rafael business economist and life underwriter.

If his brand-new approach works as he believes it would, it also would be self-supporting, requiring no continuing public subsidy.

Schellenberg's plan calls for lending Volkswagen minibuses (or similar vehicles) to commuters who would drive them onto tractor-trailers that would haul them to San Francisco.

The same tractor-trailers would make money by hauling containerized garbage, mail, and commercial freight in the off-hours on a three-shift, 24-hour day.

Here's how the plan would work, as outlined by Schellenberg in a proposal sent to Assemblyman William T. Bagley, Sen. Alan Cranston, the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, and the Marin County Transit District:

"We have a special vehicle designed and built. It is a line-haul tractor-trailer combination slightly modified. It is wider. It has a corridor and stairs. It is a double decker. And it will accommodate, on a piggy-back style, five nine-passenger Volkswagen buses. They have sliding doors, remember.

"This van is equipped with lighting, air conditioning and even electric plug-ins for the buses, if need be. Buses drive onto the van under their own power, passengers and all. Van leaves on schedule. While aboard, passengers from one bus may wish to transfer to another bus delivery to U.C. Medical Center, instead of downtown, etc.

"Van arrives at City Hall, San Francisco. Buses drive off van and deliver their loads to downtown office buildings, medical center, etc."

The minibuses would be bought by the transit authority (Schellenberg refers to it as "Transit, Inc.," but it could be the bridge district or a newly

Wider Variety Of Protests Set In Marin's Second Moratorium

Renewed public expression of antiwar sentiment is expected in Marin this week in a series of marches and demonstrations planned to mark the second Vietnam moratorium within a month.

Much of the protest is being directed by a coalition of groups called the Marin Vietnam Moratorium Committee. The coalition was formed after the Oct. 15 moratorium, which saw hundreds of Marin residents and students at Sonoma State College publicly urging immediate U.S. troop withdrawal from Vietnam.

Antiwar activities are scheduled tomorrow, Friday and Saturday. At least four marches are scheduled — at 7 a.m. tomorrow at the Golden Gate Bridge, at 10 a.m. Friday from the Red Hill Shopping Center in San Anselmo to the San Rafael courthouse, at 10 a.m. Saturday from the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo to the courthouse and at noon Saturday in Saturday in Fairfax, with marchers starting at either end of the city and converging for a rally at the city park.

In a countermove, the Novato City Council has declared Saturday as Vietnam Veterans Appreciation Day. Two Novato groups plan to visit Letterman General Hospital at the Presidio of San Francisco and Oak Knoll Naval Hospital in Oakland to distribute gifts to wounded veterans.

City Councilman Joseph Gargiulo, who is planning the program, said public response has been overwhelmong, adding that many gifts for the veterans have been received at city hall.

The peace march at the Golden Gate Bridge is being organized by the Student Mobilization Committee, a member of the coalition. Other coalition members are Women's International League for Peace and Freedom,

9,000 Riot Units Move Into Capital

Pentagon Preparing For Weekend Antiwar Events

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government today began moving about 9,000 riot trained regular troops into the Washington area as a "purely precautionary measure" in advance of this week's antiwar demonstrations.

In the meantime, the Vietnam protesters have won the right to march down Pennsylvania Avenue—a street the government had insisted was off limits—but will avoid the White House, once a prime target of their demonstrations.

The Pentagon announced that paratroopers of the Army's 82nd Airborne Division arrived from Fort Bragg, N.C. A regiment of the 2nd Marine Division from Camp Lejeune, N.C., will arrive tonight.

About 4,000 paratroopers and Marines will be in position at federal military installations today, with the remaining units pulling in tomorrow from bases in Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina.

Jerry Friedheim, deputy assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, emphasized that "this is a precautionary action only," adding:

"No final decision has been made to utilize federal personnel and . . . these personnel will remain on federal installations unless the Department of Justice, coordinating with local civilian officials, requests assistance."

The three-day perior of demonstrations expected to climax Saturday with as many as 200,000 antiwar demonstrators marching through the capital.

At the White House, Mayor Walter Washington of the District of Columbia, said "I don't anticipate at this point any violence."

Until the Justice Department reversed its field yesterday and granted a permit for demonstrators to parade along Pennsylvania Avenue Saturday, Washington said, "an attitude of anger and confrontation seemed to be building."

The mayor said he felt the mood was changing and "it's getting close to" the mood of the Oct. 15 moratorium demon-

SPLIT RULING

Juvenile's Jury Plea Timing Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — Over the dissent of its two senior liberal justices, the Supreme Court declined today to give juveniles accused of man-sized crimes the right to a jury trial.

The 6-2 action, announced in an unsigned opinion, dismissed the appeal of a Nebraska boy whose case once seemed to be the likely vehicle for this civil liberties extension.

The court ducked, however, largely because hearings on his case began March 28, 1969, two months before the Supreme Court May 20, 1968 decision that established jury trials as a constitutional right even for adults.

Justices Hugo L. Black and William O. Douglas, who for more than 30 years have been in the forefront of extending Bill of Rights protections to state defendants, dissented sharply.

"There is, as I see it, no constitutionally sufficient reason to deprive the juvenile of this right," Douglas said.

Black, in a separate opinion, scored the court for giving certain constitutional rights only prospective application, thereby cutting off those citizens who were tried or accused of crime before the date of the high court decision.

The appeal had been made for Clarence J. DeBacker, a Fremont, Neb., boy who was committed to the Boys Training School at Kearney, Neb., last year at the age of 17 on a charge that he forged a $30 check on his father's bank account. Forgery is an adult crime in Nebraska.

The jury trial decision was limited by the court on June 17, 1968 to cases which began no earlier than May 20, 1968. Thus all adults who had been tried before May 20, 1968, without a jury could not use the decision to demand new trials, this time before a jury.

Are Heroin Suspect's Needy Children Real?

A 37-year-old San Rafael blonde, arrested Friday on suspicion of dealing in heroin, had been receiving $228 per month in welfare aid for the care of her two children, aged 12 and 2.

Marin officials were checking today to see if the children really exist.

Rosita Dolores Branstetter of 8 Marian Court had received a total of $798 under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program since she went on Marin welfare on Aug. 1. The last two semi-monthly checks, each for $114, were found uncashed in her wallet, along with $4,000 in cash when narcotics agents raided her apartment Friday.

"We are in the process of looking for the children and have asked the district attorney to investigate," said Donald M. Sanford, administrative assistant to Betty Presley, director of the Department of Public Social Services.

Miss Branstetter moved to Marin in June or July from San Mateo County. "She said she had no income and no employment and had received aid in San Mateo County and in San Francisco," said Sanford. She identified her children as Margo, 12, and Stephen, 2.

"We have not seen the children, and we have scanty information about their parentage," Sanford said. "The district attorney is also looking for the father."

The AFBC grants were authorized on the basis of her statements and the fact that she had been getting similar aid in San Mateo county, Sanford explained.

The department of public social services does not make family checks on each recipient but uses the random spot check method employed by the Internal Revenue Service to check on the accuracy of statements made in the welfare applications.

Marin narcotics agents said they confiscated $11,000 worth of suspected heroin found hidden between the mattress and springs of Miss Branstetter's bed. The suspected drugs were packaged in little red balloons.

Two men found in Miss Branstetter's apartment and a third man who drove away from her home while narcotics agents watched were also jailed.

The blonde, freed on $12,500 bail, was to appear in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Ralph Thomas said this morning he was drafting a formal complaint against Miss Branstetter. "I think we'll charge her with possession of drugs for sale," said Thomas.

BB Shooter Blamed For Wounded Eye

A 12-year-old boy who accidentally shot a Santa Venetia man in the eye with a BB gun Monday has been cited to appear before juvenile officers today.

The boy was firing the gun at the ground about 60 yards away from Joseph P. Mellow, 46, of 9 Sunnyoaks Drive, Santa Venetia when the accident happened, according to sheriff's deputies.

Mello was treated by a private doctor who removed glass splinters from his eye caused by shattered eyeglasses. Mellow said that the eye was already blind from a World War II wound.

Mellow told sheriffs deputies that he was working in a yard in front of 60 North San Pedro Road when he saw the boy and a companion firing a gun. Suddenly he was knocked to the ground, he said, by a shot. He said he chased the youth and caught him about 200 yards away.

Mellow said that the boy told him, "I'm sorry. I didn't mean to do it."

The BB gun was confiscated by deputies.

JUST A PILOT'S PAL

That Non-Radioactive, Non-New, Non-Dangerous Thing's A Vortex

It looks like a missile, at least from a distance. But it's not.

It looks as if it might be from outer space, but an investigation by brave newsmen found no spacemen around it taking giant steps for anyone.

It looks new, but the government says it's been up there since April 10, 1959.

It says it's radioactive, but the government says it's not.

What is it?

"It" is a white, conical device perched an a ridge above Tennessee Valley in Southern Marin. It belongs to the Federal Aviation Agency. Donald Tom, an electronic engineer at the FAA's area office in Burlingame, says it is one of the agency's vortex — or VOR sites which give airlines and other pilots bearing and distance information.

It does not use roactivity, Tom said, although the letters "danger" and "radioactive" are clearly stenciled on the thing. He said an FAA official in Santa Rosa who has responsibility for such things said those words were there to scare away prowlers.

It appaaently works, he said. "Such a warning has stopped vandalism," Tom said.

Although it does not, according to the government, emit radiocativity, it does emit "R-F signals," Tom said, but all that means is radio frequency signals.

And that's what it is. According to the government.

Hijack Pair Nabbed In Air

BULLETIN

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Two dejected teen-age hijackers, bound hand and foot, were returning to Santiago today aboard a Chilean jetliner whose crew outwitted them.

They had been surprised and knocked out by the pilot and copilot after the hijacked plane took off from Antofagosta in northern Chile en route to Cuba.

The adventure began after a LAN Chile twin-jet Caravelle carrying 62 persons had taken off from Santiago on a flight to Puerto Mont in southern Chile. Fifteen minutes later the hijackers struck.

The plane flew the more than

Leak May Stall Apollo Shot

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — An apparent failure in a hydrogen tank on Apollo 12 was discovered today and threatened to delay Friday's launching of the moonbound spacecraft.

The problem was a failure in a vacuum holding area in one of the two spacecraft liquid hydrogen tanks. It was noticed while crews were loading the hydrogen this morning.

"Project officials are investigating to determine the extent of the difficulty and possible effect on Apollo 12 launch operation," the space agency said.

Liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen are used to provide gases for operation of the spacecraft fuel cells, which produce electricity.

Crews immediately began draining off the hydrogen and prepared for experts to examine the tanks.

The space agency statement said there was "an apparent failure in vacuum holding characteristics," indicating a possible leak in the system.

Leaks and other problems have cropped up in prelaunch preparations on earlier Apollo flights and were corrected in time to meet the launch time.

If the Friday launch is postponed, there will be another opportunity Sunday between 2:09 and 5:26 p.m. That would change the landing point on the moon 360 miles to the west of the target for a Friday launch.

Should a launch Friday or Sunday prove impossible, the mission would be postponed until Dec. 14.

Space agency officials said they would know by late today if repairs can be made in time.

The position of the moon and lighting conditions in the planned landing areas determine the launch opportunities.

Until the malfunction was discovered, preparations for the launch had been going smoothly.

While the liquid gases were being loaded, astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Alan L. Bean and Richard F. Gordon Jr. spent time with the complex flight plan for their 10-day mission and rehearsed in simulators.

In Boulder, Colo., the government's Space Disturbance Forecast Center said a large solar flare that erupted Nov. 2 near the rim of the sun will reappear on Friday.

Novato Promotes Two Policemen

Two patrolmen with the Novato Police Department today were promoted to sergeant, Police Chief Robert J. Di Grazia announced.

They are Donald L. Du Par and Richard H. Rudy Jr.

Du Par, 34, has been with the Novato department for 11 months. Previously he had served with the Pasadena police for eight years. He is married and he and his wife, Sheila, have three children, Candace, 8, Cherie, 5, and Jonathan, 4.

Rudy, 29, has been with the Novato department 17 months. He had served five years with the Pasadena police. He is married and he and his wife, Priscilla, have two children, Erin, 5, and Michael, 4.

Senator Holland Will Step Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., announced today that he will not seek reelection next year for a fifth full term.

Holland said his decision resulted from recent attacks of angina, a heart condition that he described as painful and a warning.

Holland, former governor of Florida, has served in the Senate since September 1946.

OVER FOR ANOTHER YEAR—Nationalist Chinese Foreign Minister Wei Tao-ming rests his head in his hands after his nation again weathered its annual crisis in the United Nations—over seating of Communist China and possible ouster of the Nationalist government. The vote last night climaxed an unusually mild debate in which neither Russia nor India backed Peking.

Peking Loses Annual U.N. Membership Try

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly voted last night to keep Communist China out for the 19th time, but six more nations changed their votes.

The 126-nation assembly rejected the proposal by a vote of 56 to 48 with 21 abstentions. The vote last year was 58 to 44 and 23 abstentions. The outcome this year was never in doubt.

Although decisively defeated, Peking picked up four nations who swung from the abstention column to the yes column: Libya, Mauritius, Ghana and Nigeria.

Two other nations switched from no last year to abstentions: Italy and Belgium. Both are negotiating to establish diplomatic relations with Peking.

The closest vote was in 1965 when the result was 47 to 47 with 20 abstentions. However, this was a defeat because the assembly has voted every year that the question of China's representation is a substantive issue requiring a two-thirds majority for assembly action rather than a procedural issue requiring only a simple majority.

This year, the U.S.-backed resolution for the two-thirds rule received 71 votes in favor, 48 against and 4 abstentions.

Seventeen Communist or nonaligned nations sponsored the resolution to seat Peking. The Soviet Union was not a sponsor and for the first time did not even speak on behalf of Red China. India, a onetime supporter, also kept silent.

Since Moscow became embroiled in its bitter power struggle with Peking, Soviet support has been growing more perfunctory each year.

It was the mildest debate since the question first came up in 1950. Most of the speakers opposing Peking omitted the usual polemics and dwelt mainly on the issue: How to admit one Chinese government without throwing out the other.

National Guard units are located in more than 2,500 American cities.

Three Blasts May Tie To Earlier Ones

NEW YORK (AP) — Police are checking possible links between yesterday's explosions at three Manhattan office buildings and earlier blasts, including an attack last month on the Armed Forces Induction Center.

More than 100 telephoned warnings of imminent bombings were received by police yesterday, all of them unfounded.

The explosive devices used yesterday at the RCA Building, the Chase Manhattan Building and the General Motors Building were "high-order explosives on the nature of dynamite connected to a timing mechanism," a police spokesman said.

Similar devices were used at the Whitehall Street induction center Oct. 7, the Federal Building in Foley Square Sept. 19, the Marine Midland Building Aug. 20 and a Grace Line pier in Brooklyn Aug. 9, the spokesman said.

Letters purporting to be from left-wing radicals took credit for the latest blasts. They were similar in style to letters mailed to news agencies after a bomb ripped through Army and Selective Service System offices in the Federal Building.

Special delivery letters were sent to the New York Times and United Press International, postmarked Monday evening.

They said: "During this week of antiwar protest, we set off explosions in the offices of Chase Manhattan, Standard Oil, and General Motors," because America's giant corporations have fomented international problems.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Peking War Jitters

HONG KONG (AP) — Travelers from the mainland report feverish war preparations, including large scale dispersals of city people and factories to rural areas, in Communist China's Fukien Provience, across the narrow Formosa Strait from the Nationalist Chinese island.

The travelers said Fukien authorities told the people that "the dispersal is for implementing Mao's war strategy of transforming the countryside into the ocean of people's war to offset Russian missile attacks against Chinese cities."

In meeting recently, the Fukien officials announced that "the Russian revisionists have made a semiofficial secret agreement with the Taiwan Kuominatang Nationalist China to jointly attack the mainland and restore Kuomintang rule on the mainland," the travelers said.

Long, Flying Drink

WASHINGTON (AP) — A helicopter has been able to hover at altitudes up to 10,000 feet, over a given location, for hours at a time by sipping fuel through a metal hose two miles long, the Navy disclosed today.

The Navy said the "elevated platform" concept has important potential uses, both military and commercial, but it did not identify them.

Feasibility tests using a standard Navy Sikorsky 5H3A helicopter were conducted for the Office of Naval Research by Space Craft, Inc., Huntsville, Ala., in a program called "Operation Long Drink."

Red Author Barred

MOSCO W(AP) — The Russian Union of Writers confirmed today that it has revoked the membership of controversial novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn for "encouraging the anit-Soviet hubbub around his name."

Explusion from the union means his works cannot be published in the Soviet Union. The action, unofficially reported for several days, was another blow to Soviet liberal writers and intellectuals.

Solzhenitsyn's last two major works, "Cancer Ward" and "The First Circle," became best-sellers in the West but are banned in the Soviet Union. His last major work published here, "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich," in 1962, was a landmark in the post-Salin cultural relaxation.

Turks In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Turkish President Cevdet Sunay and a large delegation of government officials arrived in Moscow today for the first Turkish presidential visit to the Soviet Union.

The Turks were met at Moscow's Vnkuvo Airport by President Nikolai V. Podgorny, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, Foreign Trade Minister Nikolai Patolichev and other Soviet leaders.

Famine Feared

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — More than 100,000 persons will die of starvation on the island of Lombok, east of Bali, unless emergency food supplies are immediately sent there, the student newspaper Kami reported today.

It said the local administration and the National Logistics Bureau have failed to stockpile enough rice on the island.

"Unless help comes soon, many will die of starvation in the next two months," Kami reported.

Lombok is plagued by rats, which devastate rice fields, and this year produced only 60,000 tons of rice ,compared ot 100,000 tons in 1968. Thousands of islanders died in a similar rice crisis three years ago.

Poison Admission

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has come close to stating outright that "escaped nerve agents" during an open-air test at the Dugway Proving Grounds in Utah last year killed dozens of range sheep.

"Extensive investigations finally revealed that the sheep probably ingested very low dosages of the agent V (X nerve gas)," the Army said in testimony released by a House Appropriations subcommittee.

The Army has already agreed to pay ranchers for loss of the sheep and conceded the nerve gas might have been responsible for the sheeps' deaths but has never said so unequivocably.

Thai Terror Killings

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Terrorist ambushed a police patrol last night in southern Thailand, killed seven men and wounded two. The attack took place near Wangpar, capital of Songkhla Province.

A government official said there were no reports of terrorist casualties.

Police rushed to the scene of the ambush and began a search in the jungles but reported no contact.

Mrs. Gandhi Gets Boot From Party

NEW DELHI (AP) — The "old guard" majority in the top leadership of India's badly split ruling Congress Party expelled Prime Minister Indira Gandhi from the party today and ordered Congress members of Parliament to elect a new prime minister.

The party's top policy-making body, the Congress Working Committee, took the unprecedented step against Mrs. Gandhi. She was accused of "spreading indiscipline" in the 84-year-old organization.

The action was not expected to affect Mrs. Gandhi's position as prime minister immediately. Her supporters in the party had announced previously they would not recognize any expulsion orders issued by the party president, Siddavanalli Nijalingappa, whom Mrs. Gandhi has been trying to oust.

A meeting of all Congress members in Parliament is to be held tomorrow. It was called in advance of today's action, Mrs. Gandhi was expected to seek a fresh vote of confidence then.

Her supporters claim she has an overwhelming majority among the 431 Congress members in Parliament.

A more serious test is expected after Parliament begins its winter session on Nov. 18. Then Mrs. Gandhi is certain to lose most or all of her 23-seat majority over the opposition parties because of the split within her own party. This will force her to rely on leftist, Communist and independent members to keep her government in office.

The prime minister was giving a luncheon for visiting Hungarian President Pal Losonczi when the expulsion decision was taken, and she was not immediately available for comment.

The Congress Working Committee issued a communique after a three-hour meeting saying the committee was "regretfully obliged" to expel her from the party because she had set up a rival working committee and a rival All—India Congress Committee, which is composed of some 700 delegates from all of the 17 states.

The expulsion was voted by only 11 of the 21 members of the working committee. Mrs. Gandhi and her supporters have boycotted the past three meetings of the committee to protest the party president's dismissal of three of her faction from the group.

Schools War On Vandalism In Cotati

The plans of the Cotati School District to prevent school vandalism won approval last night from its citizen's advisory committee.

The committee, which had been studying vandalism prevention with Superintendent Duncan A. Coleman, recommended that signs prohibiting trespasing after school hours should be posted. Coleman said that police will be instructed to chase persons from school grounds after 4:30 p.m.

The committee, headed by James Uren, recommended that both Cotati and Rohnert Park police be contacted about providing extra coverage for school grounds.

A recommendation that interior school lights be turned on 24 hours a day brought a negative response from the board, saying the plan would be too expensive. They said they would reconsider the light plan if it can be shown to be a preventive factor at certain schools.

The Cotati School District board also:

DONATION — Recevied an additional contribution of $15 from the Thomas Page family to be used at the Thomas Page School library.

INSPECTION — Set an inspection of the new Page school for Nov. 21 with the building committee. A time will be set later.

Pollution Parley Called By Reagan

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — California's pollution problems and what to do about them will be the subject of the forthcoming Governor's Conference on California's Changing Environment, set for Nov. 17-18 in Los Angeles, which is expected to bring together the largest cross section of experts ever assembled at one time in the state.

Gov. Rnoald Reagan, in calling the conference, said, "As California's population continues to grow, the demands of that growth often raise conflicts between preserving what we have and carrying on with the progress which must be made.

"We must seek new ways to protect what God has given us, while, at the same time, making certain that every citizen has an opportunity to enjoy the bounty of our heritage."

The Governor said that to achieve this goal, "we are calling together representatives from every segment of our society . . . members of business, and labor, environmentalists, conservationists, consumers, young people, members of the communications media, and experts on over-population, air, water and land pollution . . . to look for creative and practical solutions to these problems."

After the bridge march, a silent vigil will be held at Fort Cronkite at 10 a.m. Names of California men who have died in Vietnam since the Oct. 15 moratorium will be read.

Also Friday, all-day picketing will be conducted at the College of Marin, leaflets and petitions will be distributed and canvassing undertaken at shopping centers, government buildings and schools. Military bases also will be picketed.

Community potlucks to discuss the war will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday at St. Anselm's Church, San Anselmo; St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church in Marin City and the Mill Valley Community Church. A panel discussion on Vietnam will be held at Congregation Rodef Sholom in Santa Venetia at 8 a.m.

A student rally is scheduled at Redwood High School at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow and a memorial program for Tamalpais High School war dead was set for today at that school.

Car pooling has been organized for persons wanting to participate in the moratorium demonstration in San Francisco at 10 a.m. Saturday. Meeting points are at Congregation Rodef Sholom at 8 a.m. and at Tamalpais High School at 9 a.m.

Persons wishing to march across the Golden Gate Bridge before joining the San Francisco demonstration are asked to meet at Tam High at 8 a.m. Cars will take the participants from the San Francisco side of the bridge to the demonstration in Golden Gate Park.

Project REC Event Success

Response to the first fund raising project by the young people in Project REC was "terrific" among teens and their parents, Robert Schoen, a director of the San Rafael canal area recreation effort, reported today.

The young people held a dance Monday night at the Citadel and more than 250 attended. After expenses, the youth committee of Project REC (recreation, education and couseling) banked $145, he said.

Use of the building was donated by the owner, Irving Litchfield, with the young people taking care of the cleanup, Schoen said.

Realty Panel Adds To Push For Seashore

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The California Real Estate Association today added its voice to those urging congressional action to complete land purchases for Point Reyes National Seashore.

CREA's executive committee, in a special meeting during the association's convention here, endorsed a resolution by the Marin County Real Estate Board calling for such action. It authorized Emmett T. Gatewood of Los Gatos, CREA president, to wire President Richard M. Nixon, the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, and all California senators and congressmen urging an end to "the seven-year delay in acqusition of the seashore land."

The Interior and Insular Affairs Committee is to open hearings tomorrow on House Resolution 3786, by Representatives Don H. Clausen, R-First District, and William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, appropriating $38,365,000 to complete the seashore purchase.

650 miles up the coast from Santiago to Antofagasta to refuel.

Shortly after the landing, the hijackers allowed 12 of the 56 passengers, seven adults and five children, to leave the plane because they showed signs of hysterics.

The plane refueled and taxied to the head of the runway, when the pilot reported a malfunction of the left jet.

It was generally believed the pilot faked the malfunction.

The plane returned to the ramp, and the hijackers allowed the rest of the passengers to get off.

Another Chilean Caravelle, just in from Santiago, was sitting empty in the ramp. The hijackers forced the crew at gunpoint to switch to this plane. It refueled and took off.

The hijackers were identified as Pedro Varas Flores, 16, and Patricio Fernando Degach Vergue, 15, both students.

Vallejo Motorists Injured In Accident

Tommy L. Giles, 23, of Vallejo, was treated for a scraped forehead and chest pains at the Kaiser Clinic in San Rafael yesterday after the car in which he was riding rolled over on the Fairfax-Bolinas Road near Buena Vista Drive, the California Highway Patrol said today.

He was a passenger in a car driven by Isaac Taylor, 24, of Vallejo, which slammed into an embankment and rolled after hitting a wet sopt on a curve at 2:05 p.m., the patrol said. Taylor refused medical aid for a cut finger and chest pains.

TRANSPORT

created agency). It would lend them to commuters without charge.

The communter who agreed to be the local "bus driver" would then do just what he does now with a car pool — pick up his passengers at their homes or pre-arranged stops. But he would deliver them to the tractor-trailer at its highway stop nearest his area, driving the little bus on board. He would pay for gasoline and oil for the minibus; the transit agency would keep it in repair.

Schellenberg describes the typical operation:

"On arrival (in San Francisco) Joe drives his bus to the Russ Building, drops off three or four, on to the Wells-Fargo Building, and parks his vehicle in the garage there . . .

"On holidays, Saturdays and Sundays he has the free use of the bus for pleasure driving."

After the tractor-trailer has dropped off its minibuses in downtown San Francisco, it returns to Marin for a second load. After that load is delivered, it becomes a commercial freight carrier.

"Next it goes to the Rincon (Postoffice) Annex," continues Schellenberg's description.

"A forklift truck loads 10 loaded containers with mail for the airport . . . .At the airport it picks up another 10 when it has unloaded. Brings them to Rincon. Proceeds to the Sunset Scavenger Co.'s lot and picks up a load of containerized garbage. Hauls it to the central destruction plant in Richmond, where it picks up a load of sterilized empty containers from the day before.

"Hauls them to the Safeway distribution center for loading. Picks up a load of containerized groceries for Marin stores, delivers them, picks up Marin garbage containers; goes to Richmond with them, unloads, goes to San Francisco City Hall and picks up a load of Marinbound buses." The tractor-trailer is now hauling the commuters home.

"Joe drives his bus off at San Rafael, now loaded with the same crew he brought in that morning. Drops them off at their door-step. Necessary transfers have been made while aboard the van."

Schellenberg contends the freight revenues could pay for the entire operation. Commuters would ride free.

During the night the tractor-trailers could be put to commercial use hauling containerized freight.

"Don't compete with the truckers," he suggests. "Rent them the use of the van on an hourly plus mileage basis with driver and all. Truckers will eventually need less investment in rolling stock when they see their needs reliably and continually met."

Schellenberg believes the system would provide commuters what they want: door-to-door service, riding with acquaintances as in car pools.

Each tractor-trailer making trips each way daily would take 60 cars off the road and out of downtown parking lots and rush-hour traffic, he points out. They would employ teamsters who now drive Greyhound buses and other vehicles. Only losers would be the gasoline companies, but everyone would be a gainer through decrease in vehicle-caused air pollution.

Such a proposal would, of course, require extensive study. But Schellenberg, instead of proposing a high-cost study by some consultant firm, suggests this be done in the schools.

"We are a wasteful society indeed," he writes. "Will our college students in the statistical field learn statistics less from practicing on these problems than from practicing on those in the professor's textbook? Nonsense! . . .

"I propose that our institutions of college level put the challenges of these required studies to their students, that the board of the bridge district, and the counties of Marin and San Francisco, and the state or perhaps the federal government (mail and military cargoes, and research funds on these problems would help) get behind such a challenge."

Jury Trial Set

A jury trial has been set for the week of March 30, 1970, in Marin Superior Court for Hilton Welborn, 31, of Santa Rosa, who is charged with a felony battery on a police officer when arrested July 30 for driving 80 miles per hour on Highway 101.

stration that was notable for its peaceful nature.

Washington said he felt a key element in persuading the Justice Department to grant a permit was an agreement by mobilization leaders to abandon plans to demonstrate around the White House. The authorized parade route at no point comes closer than one block from the executive mansion.

Former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark told a news conference today there is "no real indication of any significant violence . . . and . . . the march should go off with dignity—and that's what all Americans should want whether they agree with it or not."

Clark said a lawyers' task force will be on the streets during the three days of activities to monitor the demonstrations and police response. They will be assisted by 75 clergymen.

Deploring predictions of trouble, Clark suggested, "One of the best ways to cause violence is to create the anticipation of it. We ought to talk about free speech and peaceful assembly."

The Veterans Day armistice hammered out yesterday with top Justice Department officials ended a month-long battle and paved the way for what both sides now say will be a massive, but peaceful demonstration.

The government is "not giving anything to which the people are not entitled," said one demonstration leader, Ron Young. But, he added: "We're basically happy and ready to move now."

As Young spoke at a news conference last night, Atty Gen. John N. Mitchell underscored the administration's viewpoint, telling a Milwaukee audience that "the foreign policy of this government cannot and will not be formulated in the streets of Washington—or in any other street of this nation."

But, added Mitchell, "this administration clearly recognizes the right of these people under our First Amendment to peacefully congregate in Washington and to petition the government with respect to their grievances —assumed or otherwise."

Asked if they were disappointed at not being allowed to bring the mass protest directly in front of the White House, protest leaders referred instead to their 40-hour "March Against Death." They plan this protest to send demonstrators single-file from Arlington Cemetery past the White House and to the Capitol beginning tomorrow night and ending Saturday morning. The Justice Department has not objected to this.

Before the Justice Department relented Tuesday, the New Mobilization Committee telegrammed President Richard M. Nixon, asking him to meet personally with its spokesman to break the impasse.

Asked if the President interceded on their behalf, the protest leaders replied "all government officials agreed on this permit. As far as we understand, the President agreed also."

White Blood Cells, Heart Attacks Link

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — White blood cells—the body's shock troops against invading germs —might also be among the underlying causes of heart attacks, a team of New York researchers said today.

The possibility is suggested by research on rabbits, reported Dr. Sanford C. Spraragen and several colleagues of New York City's Veterans Administration Hospital and Downstate Medical Center.

In a report prepared for the annual meeting of the American Heart Association's Council on Arteriosclerosis, Dr. Spraragen stressed that further work needs to be done before white blood cells could definitely be incriminated in human heart disease.

But he said the rabbit research adds up to this:

Certain white blood cells have the ability to invade the inner wall of an artery, lodge there, become fat-filled cells called "foam cells," and apparently can contribute to the process of "antherosclerosis" — a technical term for a dangerous form of hardening of the arteries.

In atherosclerosis, arteries are clogged with particles of fatty substances deposited on the inner lining of the blood vessel. It long has been under suspicion as a major cause of coronary heart attacks. Diets high in animal fats and oils have been blamed by many scientists as being key contributors.

"Foam cells"—whose name comes from their lacy appearance under the microscope—are basically tiny bags of fat which are believed to play a building-block role in the atherosclerotic process.

In the New York experiments, 3-month-old rabbits from the same litter were divided into two groups. Both groups were fed diets rich in cholesterol, a chemical component of animal fats and oils.

After 10 weeks, white blood cells were isolated from one group of rabbits and injected into the other animals. The blood cells were tagged with a radioactive material so they could be located later in the recipients' aortic tissue.

It was found that transplanted white blood cells invaded the arteterial wall at the site of aetherosclerotic deposits already formed there, and contributed to foam-cell formation.

A Mix-Up In Veterans Day

Only a few lonely-looking American flags, raised by individual residents, flew in San Rafael yesterday to commemorate Veterans Day.

In past years, the San Rafael Junior Chamber of Commerce has put up 100 flags in observance of the holiday, but these were not in evidence yesterday.

Douglas G. Daily, internal vice president for the junior chamber, said the lack of flags was due to a mix-up, not an oversight. He explained his organization had contracted with a group of high school students to raise the flags Nov. 11, but said, for some reason, the youngsters had failed to perform.

"We don't know why yet," Dailey said, "but we hope to have the flags out on another holiday, probably Thanksgiving to honor our country's veterans."

Small Fights, Toll Light In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — Small scattered actions were reported in South Vietnam today, with 69 enemy, three Americans and one South Vietnamese militiaman killed in clashes in the northern provinces and along Saigon's outer defenses. Thirteen Americans were wounded and two were missing.

Along the central coast near Qui Nhon, a plane with eight South Korean officers on an inspection tour crashed, killing all aboard. Three of the officers were colonels who were promoted posthumously to brigadier general. Bad weather was blamed for the crash.

Fighting was reported on three sides of Saigon but the closest encounter was 28 miles from the city, where U.S. 9th Division infantrymen killed 10 Viet Cong in one firefight.

South Vietnamese militiamen killed 15 enemy soldiers and captured three assault rifles and two grenade launchers in a skirmish 31 miles northwest of Saigon. One militiaman was killed.

American Rangers clashed briefly with enemy soldiers 40 miles northeast of Saigon, killing five. One Ranger was killed and one wounded.

The U.S. Marines reported 25 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese slain in two skirmishes in the northern provinces south of Da Nang. Two Leathernecks were wounded.

Three miles south of the demilitarized zone, infantrymen of the 5th Mechanized Division's 1st Brigade reinforced by armored personnel carriers battled North Vietnamese regulars for 12 hours before the North Vietnamese pulled back, leaving 11 bodies and three field pieces. American losses were two killed and 10 wounded.

U.S. headquarters reported 11 enemy rocket and mortar attacks during the night, but said only five caused casualties. South Vietnamese headquarters said 10 civilians, eight soldiers and one policeman were wounded in mortar barrages.

The South Korean command plane crashed into Mount Bong Chieu, 100 miles south of Da Nang, as it was preparing to land at Qui Nhon.

A South Korean spokesman said the three pilots apparently were unable to spot the Qui Nhon airfield because of heavy rains and cloud cover as they circled the field for nearly two hours. He said radio contact was lost, and the pilots might have been trying to land because they were running low on fuel.

Steps Taken On Curbing Jet Noises

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration announced today a regulation designed to cut in half the noise from jet planes arriving or leaving airports.

The regulation, effective on Dec. 1, applies only to the Boeing 747 and other air-bus and jumbo jet types not yet in service but an FAA spokesman said similar regulations are being considered for current jet planes later next year.

The industry has labelled the proposed new regulation contrary to law "in that it is not economically reasonable and technologically practicable."

VOLPE'S OUTLOOK

Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe said the new regulation "will result in an approximate halving of the noise around airports."

Initially only the 747, due to begin airline operation early next year, and the Lockheed L-1011 and Douglas DC10 coming along a year or two later, are affected by the new rule.

However, Oscar Bakke, FAA associate administrator for plans, said a similar rule for current jet planes probably will be proposed in the last half of 1970, and might go into effect six months or more later.

That rule might require engine-hushing modifications that would cost $665,000 to qualify each Douglas DC8, or $1.2 million for each Boeing 707, he said.

Immediately after the news conference at which Bakke announced the new noise limits, the Aerospace Industries Association (AIA) distributed a statement calling the proposed new regulation contrary to law "in that it is not economically reasonable and technologically practicable."

The AIA proposed less stringent regulations which it asked the FAA to substitute for its own proposal.

Finch Supports Plan On Phasing Out DDT

WASHINGTON (UPI) —HEW Secreta Robert H. Finch has endorsed a report recommending that major use of DDT be brought to an end in the United States over a two-year period, it was disclosed today.

John G. Veneman, undersecretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said Finch had discussed the proposal with two cabinet colleagues, Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin and Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel, and both "were receptive to the idea."

A high Agriculture Department source said the department expects to announce soon a ban on most —but not all — uses of the widely used pesticide.

Veneman said Finch had signed an order for an outright ban since authority to curb use of DDT on crops is under Hardin rather than the HEW secretary.

"What he did was accept a report which concludes that major use of DDT be phased out over a period of two years," Veneman told newsmen on Capitol Hill.

The Agriculture Department source commented that "we have been looking at DDT uses on a use-by-use basis. We do anticipate some action relatively soon on a use-by-use basis."

The source added he could not speculate at this time as to which or how many uses would be affected.

What Finch did was endorse a report by a committee he set up himself to study the problem.

Under federal law, the Agriculture Department is responsible for registering pesticides as safe and approved for individual uses. Finch's department sets safe residue tolerance levels for pesticides in foods.

An agriculture source said the preciese scope of actions on DDT remained hazy because they might depend on what HEW may do about present residue tolerance levels or on whether the White House may decide on broader action to prevent contamination of the environment.

Present Agriculture Department thinking, the source said, was pointed toward permitting continued registration of DDT for uses where it is urgently needed for public health reasons or where it is the only available protector for certain crops.

Woman Senator Due To Lead Murphy Fete

BUSY DOING SOMETHING

Do Something, a Sir Francis Drake High School group dedicated to the ideals of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was happily at work yesterday—a day off from school because of Veterans Day—on a community project. The students collected and refurbished 14 tricycles for delivery to Head Start children in Marin City. In the foreground are Priscilla Guastavino (left) and Janet Van Arnum (below). # Lowering Vote Age Plea To Marinites

The chairman of a national campaign to allow 18-year-olds the vote came to Marin yesterday to enlist support for his cause and alternately called today's young people "idealistic, the best educated generation in history" and "middle-aged teen-agers," unwilling to take chances.

Twenty-one-year-old Dennis M. Warren, speaking before about 70 persons, mostly young people, at Dominican College, said today's teen-ager is ready to vote because he has been forced to grow up fast.

"There is no longer a child's world," he said. "Even little kids, through television, are aware of what is happening in the world; they have seen people killing people and the bombings and riots."

He said only a small percentage of youth (about 2 per cent) are "radical reformers," the kind of young people who "scare adults in this country."

"Actually, most young people have the same ideologies as their parents," Warren said. He added that a recent national survey had found the "now" generation to be, on the whole "ready to settle for low success, rather than risk high failure, unadventurous, reluctant patriots who would rather compromise than risk all-out war and old before their time."

The young chairman of Let Us Vote (LUV) went on to point out that the youth franchise is not a new idea in this country; in 1619 the Virginia House of Burgesses allowed 17-year-olds to vote.

Warren said 53 U.S. senators favor giving the vote to the young, five Presidents have been for it and "a recent poll showed 64 per cent of the American people" were for the 18-year-old vote.

But he went on to say that the compaign for a younger voting age is doomed in California in the near future "because the political climate is wrong; many older people are fed up with youth."

Warren criticized the news media for what he said was a negative portrayal of young people. "For days on end there are front page stories on violent demonstrations and riots around the country," he said. "But if teen-agers get together and do something positive, then the story is hidden back on page 32, along with the death notices."

He said that when he was to appear on the Joey Bishop television show to promote his vote campaign, a "very important representative of the media in this country told me they would cover the show only if I could promise a violent demonstration."

When asked to name the media representative in question, Warren declined to answer.

He concluded his talk by saying 18-year-olds have all the responsibilities of adults — military service, taxation, adult criminal regulations — but none of the privileges.

"It just isn't fair," he said, and received a warm response from his youthful audience. "Young people want to be involved and I think they should be."

Guidotti Renamed To Bridge Board

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA —The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors has reappointed E. J. Guidotti to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District board after nearly a year's delay.

Guiotti's term expired in December, but the appointment was not made pending the outcome of a state Senate bill to exclude Sonoma County from a bill requiring a member of the board of supervisors and a representative of the cities to serve on the board. Guidotti, of Guerneville, is a former supervisor.

Other Sonoma representatives on the bridge board are L. E. Castner Boyes Springs and William R. Lucius, a Healdsburg councilman.

Crash Results In An Arrest

A San Rafael man was injured and arrested on suspicion of drunken driving yesterday after a two-car collision on H Street, north of Fifth Avenue, San Rafael police reported today.

Albert Frank Schmitz, 64, of 271 Fairhills Drive, was treated for a scalp cut at Marin General Hospital after his car collided with one driven by Gaetan J. Ingrassia, 38, of 3 Lindenwood Court about 6 p.m., police said.

Schmitz was booked into Marin County Jail and released on his own recognizance to appear in Marin Municipal Court on Friday.

Lansing is Michigan's capital.

Youth's Drive Flops On Draft Card Mail

The imaginative attempt by a Terra Linda youth to avoid receiving his draft notice in the mail has flopped.

Robert Blanch, 20, of 899 Greenberry Lane, complained mail from his draft board is obscene under a recent federal law and asked that no more be delivered.

Postal authorities are not even going to argue the obscenity point, according to Charles Harper, director of management procedures for the San Francisco Post Office.

The new law, Harper said, especifically says that the offending mail must offer something for sale.

A draft notice isn't selling something, Harper indicated. "It's more like Uncle Sam wants to borrow something."

A certified letter informing Blanch of the government's stand was scheduled to be mailed today to the youth.

Blanch said he made the attempt because he believes "a letter which orders people to be trained to kill can easily be classified as obscene."

Identity Wrong In Auto Theft

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting that John Hanley of 14 Magdalena Court, Mill Valley, had been arrested by the California Highway Patrol on suspicion of possessing a stolen auto.

Hanley is the owner of the stolen car.

Warner Bayley Kingsbury, 16, of 8 Magdalena Court, and Robert Dean Phipps, 14, of 5B Oliver Lane, both Mill Valley, were booked onto Marin County Juvenile Hall after they were stopped for a traffic violation on a Highway 101 frontage road while driving Hanley's car.

Cyclist Breaks Foot

Andrew Kephart, 20, of 111 Sleepy Hollow Drive, Sleepy Hollow, was treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for a broken foot suffered when his motorcycle hit a dog at 1 p.m. on San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo police reported.

Social Science Staff To Talk With Parents

Faculty members of the social sciences department will participate with parents in small discussion groups at 7:30 p.m. Monday at San Rafael High School cafeteria.

The session will afford parents a chance to ask questions about what students are being taught, reported Jane Levinsohn, program chairman, San Rafael High School Parent-Teacher Association.

Zodiac Now Says Victims Number 7

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A mystery killer who calls himself Zodiac claims his victims now number seven instead of the five previously blamed on him by police.

The killer had identified himself as the slayer of three young women and two men in a series of letters and phone calls to police and newspapers since August.

In one of two typically unpunctuated notes to the San Francisco Chronicle disclosed in today's editions, he said:

"This is the Zodiac speaking up to the end of Oct I have killed 7 people."

The other note carried the notation "Des July Aug Sept Oct —7." With it came a coded message, so far undeciphered, of 340 characters and a piece of bloody shirt torn from a taxicab driver Zodiac boasted of killing Oct. 11.

Police interpreted "Des" in the list of months as December. One of the previously recorded murders occurred last December, and there also were Zodiac murders in July, September and October.

But the police were unable to link any murders with Zodiac in August.

A newspaper spokesman said the undeciphered code message might contain clues.

Last month Zodiac threatened to flatten the tires of school buses with gunfire and "pick off the kiddies as they come bouncing out." Police assigned 60 men to escort the buses, but the killer did not appear.

In his latest communication to the Chronicle, Zodiac says he is "rather angry with police for telling lies about me" and goes on:

"So I shall change the way the collecting of slaves . . . "

Gina Lollobrigida To Wed Non-Fan

ROME (AP) — Actress Gina Lollobrigida announced today she is going to marry George S. Kaufman, a New York real estate man who said he has never seen one of her movies.

Miss Lollobrigida, 41, made the announcement at a news conference before she and Kaufman, 40, flew to New York from Rome.

The marriage, which Miss Lollobrigida said would take place "as soon as possible," will be the second for both of them.

It will automatically excommunicate the auburn-haired beauty from the Roman Catholic Church and theoretically leave her open to bigamy charges in Italy, which has no provision for divorce.

This is because in the eyes of the Church and of Italian authorities, she is still married to a Yugoslav-born doctor and publisher from whom she was separated in 1967 after 17 years of wedlock. Kaufman is divorced.

"I hope we will be able to marry in the States," said Kaufman, a tall, dark-haired man who looks younger than his 40 years.

"We don't know the where and when, but we will announce it in New York," he said.

Miss Lollobrigida said her lawyers were taking care of legal aspects of the wedding. She is technically still married in Italy to Milko Skofic, a Yugoslav-born doctor and publisher.

They were legally separated two years ago.

Skofic obtained a divorce in Vienna, Austria, last March. It is not valid in Italy.

Kaufman said he was married once and the marriage ended in divorce three years ago. He has two daughters, aged 14 and 12.

He said the daughters — Cynthia and Valerie — "have met Gina in New York and they love her."

Miss Lollobrigida has one child by the Skofic marriage, Milko Jr. He is now 12. Technically in her custody, he is currently living in a boarding school in Switzerland.

Span Leap Stopped

Patricia Rose Blynn, 32, of Alameda, was committed to San Francisco General Hospital for observation yesterday after the California Highway Patrol stopped her from jumping off the bridge, the patrol reported officers said yesterday.

Teen-Ager Given A Year In Jail

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court has ordered Michael Vincent St. Martin, 18-year-old San Rafael youth who admitted two burglaries and two misdemeanor offenses connected with burglaries, to spend one year in jail.

He also placed the youth on three years probation Monday and told him to submit to periodic testing to determine if he is using narcotics.

Warning the youth that he faces state prison if he commits any more offenses, he ordered that St. Martin be given credit for time already served in jail.

Earlier in the same court, St. Martin's older brother, Jeremiah Jerome St. Martin, 23, also admitted taking part in the burglary at a San Anselmo antique shop July 21.

Judge Wilson set sentencing for the older St. Martin for Dec. 22.

A Bomb Threat

A telephoned bomb threat yesat 1 p.m. Monday to Kresky Manufacturing, Second and H streets, Petaluma, caused employees to search the building, police reported. No bomb was found and work was not disturbed.

Bugging The Bug Bugging Phone Lines

As gardeners battle aphids and farmers crop-destroying insects, Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. fights the lead cable borer, nicknamed the "short circuit beetle."

The beetles bug the firm by making holes about one-tenth of an inch in diameter in cables.

"Since moisture is an enemy of telephone wires each beetle hole is a potential danger to telephone calls," explained C. H. Russell, business manager, San Rafael office of the firm.

To track down the beetles' dirty work, the company is using an electronic listening device, similar to the "shotgun mike" television networks use at football games to pick up the sounds of field combat.

There is constant air pressure in the cable, and when a beetle makes a hole, air escapes, Russell reported.

With the ultra sonic device, company employees can pick up the sound of air escaping from a range of about 20 feet. Battery operated and featuring a parabolic reflector, it is aimed at the cable by a maintenance splicer standing beneath the cable.

Once a leak is located, the maintenance splicer reaches the hole by a truck lift, plugs the hole and wraps the cable, sealing it against the weather.

"Each hole located by the maintenance splicer is one less potential source of trouble," Russell said.

Railroads Plea For Freight Rate Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's railroads, seeking support for the third freight rate hike in three years, told the Interstate Commerce Commission today inflation is cutting their profits to "the thinest of margins."

Answering protests filed against the 6 per cent rate hike appeal filed Oct. 10, the Association of American Railroads said unless the request is granted "even the present minimal earnings will disappear."

Kappas Is Given Payment Deadline

The Tamalpais Fire District board has given Sausalito houseboat-lord George Kappas two weeks to come up with the money to extend fire protection by the district to his Gate 6½ houseboat colony.

Trustee Benard Lenhart reported that the district board voted Monday to send Kappas a registered letter asking him to submit a check for $585 to cover his share of hydrant fittings and other necessary installations.

Kappas's tenants in the houseboat colony have launched a rent strike against him because of his alleged inaction in improving the property. One of their chief complaints involved the lack of adequate fire protection.

59 Strep Cases

Fifty-nine cases of streptococcus infection, 31 of gonorrhea, two of infectious hepatitis and one each of salmonella and shigella were reported in Marin last week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, County health director.

Boone Promoted To Assistant Post

Wayne D. Boone, assistant principal at San Rafael High School, last night was named assistant superintendent for instructional services, San Rafael City Schools, at a salary of $20,000 a year.

Boone, 43, will take over his new job Dec. 1, succeeding James L. Nelson who resigned in September. His current salary is $18,200 a year.

Supt. John F. Plank reported there were 40 applicants for the post, and eight were interviewed by a screening committee with Boone emerging as the top choice.

The San Rafael Board of Education, acting on the committee recommendation, appointed Boone under a contract until June 30, 1971.

Boone, who has been at his high school post for five years, previously worked in the Oakland Unified School District for eight years, first as a teacher of mathematics and then as curriculum coordinator for a junior high school.

Before his experience in Oakland, he taught music for two years at Midwestern University, Texas.

A native of Durant, Okla., he holds a bachelor's degree from Southeastern State College, Okla., a master's degree in education from Midwestern University, Tex., and is nearing completion of a docorate in education at the University of California at Berkeley.

During World War II, he served in the Navy.

Six Children Die In Ohio Inferno

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Fire swept through a two and one-half story frame house on the city's East Side today, claiming the lives of six children — two girls and four boys.

The victims, ages 3 through 9, were identified as children of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Jackson.

The mother, Shirley, 28, was sleeping on the first floor, firemen said, and managed to escape the fire. She was treated for smoke inhalation and shock at Marymount Hospital.

The father was not at home at the time, firemen said.

Firemen said they were told the children were on the second floor but the fire was too intense to reach them.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Damage to the home was estimated at $15,000. Firemen said only part of the first floor of the house remained standing.

Vermont is also known as the Green Mountain State.

Trustees Rap 'Battle Line' Concept Of Pay

The newly elected president of the Marin County School Boards Association last night opposed drawing "battle lines" between boards and teachers.

Lawrence I. Kramer Jr., a member of the San Rafael Board of Education, last night said he was concerned over the tenor of the main address at the county group's annual meeting last month.

The speaker, Supt. Paul Nielsen of South San Francisco Unified School District, in his talk, "The Developing Clash — What Should a School Board Do?," advised how to deal with teacher negotiating councils.

"Drawing up battle lines strikes me as being ridiculous," said Kramer. In the talk, the effect was "sort of teachers on one side and we on another," he asserted.

Kramer said there is a difference in roles, but the basic aim is the best educational program for students, with the most equitable compensation.

Board Member Paul L. Jones said, "A whole lot more can be accomplished by cooperation, and Board President Herman L. Childress agreed.

Jones felt the address was like "saying have a battle before there's even a difference of opinion."

'Flying Nun' Actress Mother Of Baby Boy

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sally Field, who plays "The Flying Nun" on televisoon, has given birth to a 7-pound, 4-ounce baby boy.

Miss Field and her son, Peter Joshua, who was born Monday were reported doing well at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital. The actress is married to Steve Craig, a photographer.

Russ Assure W. Germany On Atom Ban

BONN (AP) — The Soviet Union has assured West Germany the treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons will not hinder peaceful nuclear research in countries that sign it, Foreign Minister Walter Scheel said today.

He said the Soviet assurance was contained in a written response to Bonn's request for a Soviet interpretation of a number of points in the document.

Speaking during a Bundestag, or parliament, debate on the treaty, Scheel said the Soviet Union assured Bonn also that a U.N. resolution in which nuclear states pledged not to use force against nonnuclear states applies to West Germany as well. West Germany is not a member of the United Nations and has no nuclear weapons.

The debate was on the government's intention to sign the treaty and leave clarification of still outstanding points until ratification.

The opposition Christian Democratic party said West Germany should not sign the document until all outstanding points are cleared up.

Some Christian Democratic politicians have objected to the treaty, claiming it would cut off West Germany from the benefits of nuclear research and endanger security.

The government, therefore, asked the Soviet Union and the United States for interpretations of a number of treaty clauses.

In support of their argument that West Germany should sign the treaty, Scheel and West German Science Minister Hans Leussink announced that Japan has decided to sign the pact.

Tint Tot Room Hit By Vandals

Vandals Sunday hurled a large outdoor light bulb through the closed plate window at the Tiny Tot Room at Albert Park, San Rafael police have reported.

And a rear window at the Short School at 7 Marin Street, was removed during the weekend and cigarette butts were found on the floor, police said.

San Rafael Pupils Do Well In Reading Test

San Rafael Elementary School District pupils, grades one through three, mainly were in the top quarter of a statewide reading test given last May.

The encouraging report was presented to the San Rafael Board of Education last night, but joy was restrained.

The standings were about the same as they have been in the past three years, and board members said they would like to know what gains pupils are making in reading, and what is being done for pupils who were in the lowest quarter.

More than half the students in the three grades were in the top quarter, 54 per cent in the first grade, 56 per cent in the second grade and 52 per cent in the third grade.

In the lowest quarter were 11 per cent in the first grade, 7 per cent in the second grade and 7 per cent in the third grade.

Board member Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. said the results of the Stanford Reading Test, under the state testing program, indicate "we seem to be doing a significant job . . . . but are we getting the job done we feel needs to be done?"

Jack Kirby, director of administrative services, said reading gain for pupils during a school year ranges from two months to 40 months.

Kramer said the results were a signal alerting "us to a group that needs additional help," and Kirby reported there is a program underway for pupils who have difficulty reading.

Monty To Sell His Ike Art

LONDON (AP) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery has decided to auction off a portrait of him done by a military colleague, the late Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Montgomery said he sat for the painting while acting as Eisenhower's deputy supreme allied commander in Paris after World War II.

Montgomery said he had decided to sell the painting at an auction Nov. 26 because "an American friend who was visiting me said he thought it ought to be in America."

ACTRESS MERCEDES McCAMBRIDGE
Calls alcoholism treatment 'barbaric'
(AP Wirephoto)

Her Biggest Prize: Beating Alcoholism

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Mercedes McCambridge once won an Oscar, but she said her biggest prize in life was her triumph over alcoholism.

She likes to talk about it; wants to bring it out in the open.

"The way we treat the whole problem is barbaric," she told an interviewer yesterday.

"I knew a woman, heiress to a fabulous fortune, who died in a corner suite of one of our best hospitals. She died of alcoholism and malnutrition after her family—in ignorance—overprotected her."

Nice people don't die of booze, said the 51-year-old character actress, "so it's called something else."

Miss McCambridge, who won her Academy Award in 1950 for her role in "All the King's Men," said her life with the bottle was "a kind of hell."

She blames basic insecurity for getting her started.

"I always compared my worst qualities to everyone else's best qualities," she said.

"I knew there was a rat race going on inside of me, but I thought everyone else had it made.

"Now, of course, I know that everybody has problems."

She said some of her film roles were destructive, too.

"I played the worst harridans, the most hard-bitten women, the absolute heavies, and it just about did me in."

Now she spends much of her time on college campuses, starring in otherwise all-student productions.

People have helped her greatly, she said. She described as "fantastic" some of the letters she received since she told of her affliction last September before a U.S. Senate subcommittee hearing on drug and alcohol abuse.

One came from 79-year-old Rose Kennedy, mother of the late president.

"Have fun, say a few prayers, be determined to know not age or weariness or defeat,' 'Mrs. Kennedy wrote.

Miss McCambridge also cherishes her friendship with the late Adlai Stevenson, who gave her Sir Malcolm—a West Highland terrier who is her constant companion.

A source of pride is her son, John Lawrence Markle, 27, who is styding for a doctorate at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Officials Vote Airlines Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — Northwest Airlines, the nation's most profitable airline in 1968, plans to merge with ailing Northeast Airlines, officials of both companies announced yesterday.

Northeast stockholders would receive one share of Northwest stock for each share they turn in under the tentative merger agreement.

The plan is subject to approval of the Civil Aeronautics Board and directors and stockholders of both airlines.

Northwest turned a profit of $50 million last year, while Northeast complied a $2.4 million deficit. Northeast's deficit for the first nine months of 1969 was reported as $8.7 million. It has lost money in 13 of the last 14 years.

Californians Reflect On Veterans Day

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Veterans Day in California evoked poignant memories for many and sparked antiwar demonstrations among others. But except for a few scattered incidents, it turned out to be a day of solemn reflection — regardless of viewpoint.

Lt. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., the nation's highest ranking Negro officer, unlike some other speakers, did not criticize the voices of dissent in an address in front of the Compton City Hall.

Davis, deputy commander in chief of the U.S. Strike Command at McDill Air Force Base, Fla., said:

"Youngsters see imperfections in our society when they express impatience. They are seeking a cause to which they can dedicate themselves. The imperfections they see hold a high priority, here as well as in South Vietnam."

At Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, the nation's only living five-star general, told a sparse audience that if Americans "lack the belief we are pledged to uphold, then we do not deserve the heritage which is ours."

Actor James Stewart, a World War II bomber pilot who had a step-son killed in Vietnam, was among celebrities who visited ex-GIs in the wards of the Sawtelle Veterans Administration Hospital.

In Hayward, B52 jet bombers flew over a five-hour parade which included 3,000 marchers.

The Committee of Concerned Asian Scholars continued a vigil at Grace Cathedral in San Francisco examining U.S. policy in Vietnam.

Across the bay at the University of California at Berkeley, a group of science teachers and student organizations sponsored a daylong "teach-in" against chemical and biological warfare.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, speaking at Forest Lawn Memorial-Park, termed the day a day of "memory and devotion." He said it was a time to tell our fighting men in Vietnam, "we're behind you."

Rep. John V. Tunney, D-38th District, urged a "systematic withdrawal of all our troops — not just our combat troops — from South Vietnam." The congressman from Riverside spoke to about 300 students and teachers at Loma Linda University.

A group of 17 youngsters unsuccessfully attempted to distribute leaflets at the Presidio of San Francisco, urging soldiers to take part in Saturday's peace march.

Elsewhere in the nation:

Some of the larger crowds—estimated by police at more than 10,000 each—were in Washington, Boston and Tallahassee, Fla.

Massachusetts Gov. Francis W. Sargent—declaring "Veterans are being produced the hard way in Vietnam at this very moment"—led 11,000 marchers in Boston. The Tallahassee parade featured traditional floats and civic displays.

In the nation's capital, organizers of the Veterans Day Freedom Rally at the Washington Monument could claim success as the estimated turnout on a cool but clear autumn day matched their predictions.

The mostly white, neatly dressed gathering in Washington applauded and shouted approval during the two and one-half hours as speaker after speaker attacked leaders of the war protest movement.

Some 35,000 were on the same ground Oct. 15 for music, speeches and the beginning of a candlelight march the night of the Vietnam Day Moratorium. And it was as an answer to this war protest and others that the "freedom rally" yesterday was declared to make something extra of the Veterans Day observance.

Long-haired young people and the freedom ralliers occasionally joined in argument on Vietnam—maybe a dozen small clusters in the mass for the day.

Not far away, the President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon paid a 45-minute visit to a Veterans Administration hospital. Their daughter, Julie, and her husband, David Eisenhower, observed the day in the same fashion by touring a hospital in Northhampton, Mass.

Although the day was dedicated to honoring America's warriors of past and present, many citizens who back Nixon's Vietnam policy and oppose the war protests took advantage of the occasion to show their feelings by showing the flag and driving with their car lights on.

Child In Street Injured By Taxicab

Lynette Irene Caruthers, 3, of 207 G Street, San Rafael, was treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for forehead, face and knee bruises after being struck by a taxicab in front of her home.

Cab driver Dennis Walczak, 25, of 1512 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, was driving slowly and and safely when the accident occurred, according to police.

Sonoma Officials Set Mobile Homes Parley

The impact of mobile homes on the community will be discussed by a panel at the Sonoma County Mayors' and Councilmen's Association meeting at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Green Mill Inn, Cotati.

Participating on the panel will be Walter Dahl, chief of the division of building and housing standards of the State Department of Housing and Community Standards; Norman McAdoo, past president of the Western-Mobile Home Association; Carolyn Wolfe of Sonoma, member of the Sonoma County Planning Commission; and Vernon P. Smith, vice-major of Rohnert Park.

Cluster School At Sonoma State Keyed To Individuality

By BONNIE BARD

A school within a school — offering a small college atmosphere while still benefitting from the resources of a large institution — is the essence of Sonoma State College's cluster school plan.

September saw the opening of the Robert Maynard Hutchins School of Liberal Studies with 100 freshmen embarking on a form of education that stresses individuality and the development of the self-educating student.

Dr. Warren E. Olson, the catalyst and chairman of the cluster college, describes the school as a means of preserving the low student-teacher ratio while still having the rest of the college to draw upon for resources such as the library, administration and cafeteria.

The idea of a string of small, semi-independent schools within the large college framework developed last year as Olson and a student-faculty committee explored the possibility of adapting the British tutorial system to a state college.

A very general and casual curriculum is used with the theme "Images of Man." The five faculty members, representing the fields of philosophy, physics, psychology, English and political science, each bringing a portion of their specialty into the curriculum.

The 100 students are divided into groups of 20 and assigned to a professor for guidance. In turn, these groups are divided into groups of 10, meeting for seminars five or six hours per week.

"In the seminars we try to have the students become more deeply involved in discovering who they are," Olson said. "We try to disentangle ourselves from our culture and to discover the great commonalities of the many diverse cultures of the world."

Coming into play in the session are contemporary problems involving politics, science, philosophy and comparative religion.

"What we're really studying is man's view of himself — the human condition in an absurd world," he said.

Discussions ramble on in the seminars with students freely expressing themselves and trading opinions. "The sessions can be pretty brutal at times," Olson said.

The students range in age from 18 and fresh out of high school to 39-year-old veterans of the business world.

All incoming freshmen were sent information sheets about the experimental school and students were admitted on a first come, first served basis.

"We didn't pick them — they picked us," Olson said, adding that some may be leaving the experimental atmosphere at the end of the semester.

"The students seemed to have a sensation of floating in the beginning with all the free time allotted to them and no one to tell them how to use it," he said.

In between the six hours of seminars and a weekly meeting for the entire class, the students are expected to spend the remainder doing individual research. For some students accustomed to the regimentation of high school, the change has been hard to adjust to.

In selecting an individual research project, a student meets with his professor-counselor to gain direction and set a goal. While many are still floundering and not yet decided on a special interest, Olson said he expects many to produce innovative and original works.

No examinations are administered and all grading is done on a pass-fail basis.

"Extensive written reports on the students' progress will be included in a file and will be more meaningful than a string of grades," Olson said. "I'm also happy to avoid the trauma of agonizing for hours before the awarding of grades."

While other schools are contemplating the cluster school concept, Olson said Sonoma State has a greater chance for success because of its small size and large space available to cultivate the new system of small buildings clustered around the campus resource areas.

"In addition to that, we don't have any old traditions that must be continued at tht cost of educational adventurism," he said, noting that the faculty and administration have shown great support for the plan.

With the cluster concept approved last week by the California College Board of Trustees, faculty members are now planning two additional cluster schools which may open in the fall if funding is available.

They include the Dag Hammarskjold School of the Global Village to specialize in international politics and an environmental school.

Olson said each cluster school will be developed separately and none patterned after the others.

After graduating with a degree in liberal studies and no major field as such, Olson believes the students will discover new vocational careers which might never have occurred to them in the traditional college program. He said he expects many will go on to graduate schools.

Amended Sign Ordinance To Town Council

The Corte Madera Planning Commission has put its final touches on an amended sign ordinance and passed it on to the town council recommending approval.

Only change Monday night was a commission recommendation that the ordinance include a variance procedure.

The commission also recommended council approval of a change in the clearing and grading ordinance, extending grading and clearing limits to all R-1 and R-1-A lots in the town. The limits now apply only to specified areas, secretary Betty Long reported.

The Corte Madera Planning Commission also:

ZONING— Approved retail commercial zoning sought by Atlantic Richfield Company for 5702 Paradise Drive. The area is now in the general commercial district.

BILLBOARDS — At the applicant's request, postponed until Dec. 8 a design review application by H. Koch and Sons, Inc., luggage plant for approval of two existing billboards.

Radio Panel To Eye Student Aid

College of Marin's troubled student aid program will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on the Sounding booard program on radio KTIM.

Speakers will be Ernest N. Kettenhofen, president of the college foundation; Dean of Students Irwin P. Diamond; George Shay, vice president of the student body; George V. Oliva, president of the alumni association, and Elizabeth M. Deedy, vice president of the Marin Junior College District board.

Audio Equipment Taken From School

Audio equipment including several hand microphones and a cash box containing $50 were stolen Friday night from the audio-vision room at Terra Linda High School, San Rafael police have reported.

Thieves entered the building by smashing a window off the hallway and kicking in the door, the police said.

Judge Wants More Advice On Sentence

A puzzled judge has asked for more suggestions from probation officers about what to do with Lorraine M. Brocco, former Larkspur woman who assaulted her husband with a hatchet last October.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson said Monday that he did not want to send Mrs. Brocco to a state medical facility for a 90-day evaluation period since the state Department of Corrections frowns upon use of its facilities when state prison sentences are not contemplated.

Mrs. Brocco, who was described in a probation report as having a drug problem of long standing, is now living in Sacramento.

She had earlier admitted attacking her husband in their Greenbrae home while he slept in his bed. Both Mr. and Mrs. Brocco, now estranged, are pharmacists.

Both filed suits for divorce last November which are still pending.

Wilson suggested yesterday that the probation department investigate the possibility of local hospitalization for Mrs. Brocco.

He ordered her to return to court next Monday for sentencing.

Communication Course Slated

A four-week course on "Effective Listening and Communication" will begin Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Room CA-6 at San Rafael High School.

This, the third of a series of courses offered by the College of Marin, will be held on consecutive Tuesdays at the same time.

Lothar Salin, San Rafael business man and former international president of the Toastmasters, will teach the class planned to increase listening comprehension, even under distracting circumstances.

Advance registration may be made at the college office of community education on the Kentfield campus.

Discussion Set On Symposium's Impact

The Marin chapter of Zero Population Growth will discuss the impact of the recent College of Marin symposium on ecology at 7 p.m. today at the Mill Valley Public Library.

Information about the meeting may be obtained from Mrs. W. P. Bunnelle at Gate 6 Road, Sausalito.

School Vandalized

Vandals damaged trees, shrubs and broke a concrete incinerator at Petaluma Junior High School Sunday night, police reported. Damage may run as high as $800 school officials

Teen-Agers Held In Burglary Of Surplus Store

Two San Anselmo youths were arrested Monday on suspicion of burglarizing a San Rafael surplus store.

Robert Spencer Griswald, 17, of 506 Fawn Drive and Paul Robert Webb, 16, of 43 Merced Avenue, were arrested at the southeast corner of the Marin Surplus Sales at 2:01 a.m. by police alerted by a tripped burglar alarm.

The youths allegedly entered the building at 49 Simms Street by lowering themselves on a rope through a roof vent police said.

Police found three Boy Scout packs near the scene. A pile articles was found inside the building beneath the vent, police added.

Both boys were booked into Juvenile Hall on suspicion of burglary.

Norman Mailer Lawsuit Target

NEW YORK (UPI)—Author Norman Mailer is being sued for $500,000 by a Manhattan actor, it was disclosed Monday in Manhattan Supreme Court.

The suit became known when Mailer moved for an order dismissing the suit, which charged him with "assault and battery," on the grounds that he was improperly served with a summons.

The action was brought by Lane Smith against Mailer, Jose Torres, a former light heavyweight champion, and Ronald L. Hobbs, otherwise unidentified.

The court papers showed that Smith claims he was attacked on July 22, 1968, and seeks the monetary award as compensatory and punitive damages.

Juan Bautista de Anza found the first land route from Mexico to California in 1774.

It's the next step up in paper towels. Soft, pliable, absorbent. The Chiffon paper towel has two layers bonded together so they stay together. Each towel has thousands of tiny pillows to soak up more moisture — it's built to work like a sponge. And Chiffon towels come in colors you've never seen in a paper towel. Lemon. Lime. Orange. Raspberry. And white, with a selection of border designs. Chiffon didn't simply produce a new paper towel, you might say Chiffon Re-invented The Paper Towel.

It's the greatest thing since paper towels.

If you're asked to bring a dessert you'll want something that's delicious but easy to carry. Bake "tote-along" Maple Pecan Cake — it's a light, moist sour cream cake that will bring requests for a second piece.

Since Maple Pecan Cake can be cooled and iced right in the pan, it's a perfect tote-along cake. To further enhance the rich flavors of Maple Pecan Cake, cream cheese and maple-blended syrup are combined with confectioners sugar for a creamy frosting.

MAPLE PECAN CAKE
(Makes 8 servings)

¾ cup maple-blended syrup
½ cup sugar
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 egg
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup dairy sour cream
½ cup chopped pecans

Frosting

1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese, soft
1½ cups sifted confectioners sugar
2 teaspoons maple-blended syrup

For cake, heat oven to moderate (375° F.). Beat syrup, sugar and butter together until creamy. Blend in egg. Sift together flour, baking powder, ginger, soda and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with sour cream; blend well. Stir in pecans. Pour batter into greased and floured 11x7-inch baking pan.

Bake in preheated oven (375° F.) 35 to 40 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center of cake comes out clean. Cool thoroughly in pan on wire rack.

For frosting, beat cream cheese until fluffy. Gradually beat in confectioners sugar alternately with maple-blended syrup. Spread on cake.

Here's Fish Dish Family Will Like

Bread stuffing is perfectly delicious with fish.

STUFFED FISH FRANCES

¼ pound (1 stick) butter
1½ cups (2 medium) chopped onion
½ cup diced celery
3 cups herb-seasoned bread stuffing (from an 8-ounce bag)
¼ cup water
¼ cup sliced pimento-stuffed olives
¼ cup chopped dill pickle
4½ pound whole fish (such as whitefish), boned
Paprika

In a 10-inch skillet saute the onion in the butter. Add remaining ingredients, except the fish, and mix well. Stuff into body of fish; sew up or skewer closed. Rub top of fish with oil and sprinkle with paprika. Bake on oiled foil in shallow roasting pan in a preheated 400-degree oven until flesh is opaque through — 40 to 60 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Fondue Is Best At Informal Fete

Fondue parties are a charming Swiss custom which has caught on here as an informal, congenial way of entertaining. They can easily be adapted to large or small groups, and the preparation and serving are so simple that they make small demand on the hostess. Each guest spears a piece of crusty bread and dips it into a fondue sauce which is kept hot in a central dish over a warmer.

Actually, fondue is a French word meaning "to melt" and there are many different recipes for the fondue sauce. Here's a version to suit American tastes: it's a savory mixture of Swiss cheese, onion soup mix and apple juice.

Warn the happy dunkers to be careful not to lose their bread in the mixture: according to custom, they'll have to pay a forfeit if they do. In Switzerland, the losers usually treat the guests to wine, but you can add a bit of fun to the evening by voting on what the "penalty" should be — such as serving the dessert course, or washing the dishes.

Cold drinks should never be served with fondue. So, complete your menu with piping hot tea, and Fruit Orange Shells — hollowed-out oranges filled with a melange of the orange sections, pineapple tidbits and coconut, topped with toasted almonds.

FABULOUS FONDUE

1 envelope (1-⅜ oz.) onion soup mix
2 cups apple juice
1 pound natural Swiss cheese, shredded (4 cups)
2 tablespoons flour
French bread or rye bread, cut into bite size pieces

In medium saucepan, combine onion soup mix and apple juice; heat slowly.

In medium bowl, combine shredded cheese with flour. When juice begins to simmer, add a small portion of the floured cheese and stir constantly until the cheese is melted. Continue to add cheese gradually, stirring constantly, making sure each addition is melted.

To serve: Remove fondue pot, chafing dish, or heated casserole. Spear cubes of bread; then dip and stir into the fondue.

THIS VERSION of fondue, the Swiss national dish, has especial appeal for American tastes: it's easily made with Swiss cheese, an envelop of onion soup mix for a zesty flavor, and apple juice to round out the intriguing mixture. Serve with crusty bread for dunking.

Combine Sprouts, Oranges For Unusual Skillet Dish

Brussels sprouts and oranges combine to make a California-style green and organge skillet dish.

Saute ¼ cup of spiced onion in ¼ cup of butter. Add 2 (10-ounce) package of frozen brussels sprouts, thawed and halved; 1 large navel orange, unpeeled, cut into thin half-slices; 1 teaspoon each of salt and sugar; ⅛ teaspoon of allspice and a dash of pepper. Cover; cook and stir 5 minues until sprouts are tender. Makes 6 servings.

Children's Eggnog

Serve eggnog with a different twist—something that youngsters will especially enjoy—give it a peppermint flavor. In a bowl combine 1 quart chilled dairy eggnog and ¼ teaspoon peppermint extract. Serve in tall glasses with candy canes or peppermint sticks for stirrers. Yield: 4 cups. Eggnog combines the goodness of milk plus egg to make it nutritious, yet it is milk in such a novel form for the young set—they accept it as the party beverage for the holidays. And you still have them drinking a beverage that has good value.

Freeze And Chop

The most efficient and easiest way of all to chop raisins is to freeze them first. Put solidly frozen raisins, ½ cup at a time, in a lightly oiled blender jar and whir at high speed a second or two. Remove from blender jar immediately.

The Big Mixup.

Sometimes our sour cream gets all mixed up.
Sometimes you mix it up into onion dip.
Sometimes you mix it up into mushroom dip.
And sometimes you mix it up into a hot, baked potato.
So don't just sit there over the holidays.
Get in on the Big Mixup.

Starting All Over Again First Means Finding A Home

By JOAN LISETOR

"A mother without her children is a lost individual," says Christine Black, who has been separated from her three children since January.

Ten months ago she and Billy, eight, Laura, seven, and Karen, six years old lived in a lovely home in the Topanga Hills section of Los Angeles. Mrs. Black had just separated from her husband, but the family was getting along fine, when a devastating flood hit destroying their home and most of the homes in their area.

"The muddy water came through the front door and destroyed everything in its path out of the back door," she says. "I guess we were fortunate because another house on the block collapsed killing a husband and wife who were trapped inside."

HAVING LOST all of her possessions, Mrs. Black felt she was reaching the breaking point and that the atmosphere of her despondency was not good for her children. She sent them to stay with her parents in Port Washington, N.Y., until she could get back on her feet and start a new life.

For the past nine months Christine has been slowly working her way to "the promised land" — Marin County, where she wants to study Indian music at the Alla Akbar School of Music in Fairfax and attend classes at the College of Marin. She hopes eventually to earn a teaching credential and teach music.

"I stayed with friends along the way from Southern California," she says. "I knew I was on the verge of a nervous collapse and lived in constant fear of being sent to a mental institution. So many people have helped me get back on my feet and most important — find my identity."

Arriving in Marin three weeks ago, she moved into a San Rafael hotel, went to work as a waitress and began the search for a home so she can send for her children.

"WE ARE NOW strong enough to start all over again; all we need is a home," she says. "A home in the country with trees to climb, a quiet place so we can get together again with our nerves at stable ends is what I am trying to find."

Christine went to the Marin County Department of Public Social Service for help. She praises the department and particularly social worker Michelle Ritchie who has helped in her search for a home and referred her to the Leased Housing Program.

The federally funded Leased Housing Program aids eligible low income families by making up the difference between what they can pay and the cost of their rent.

Christine has qualified for LHP aid but must find either a two bedroom residence for $125 a month or a three bedroom for $165 to receive funds. She must also meet residency requirements which vary from city to city within the county. There are no residency requirement outside of incorporated city limits, so she has narrowed the search to West Marin.

"WEST MARIN has the small town environment my children are used to," she explains, "but I have looked out there and visited at least 20 real estate offices and haven't been able to find anything. Christmas is so close and we are split apart to the furthest ends of the country — New York to California—and here we stay without our arms enclosed," says Christine, who before coming to California five years ago was sales supervisor for the Guggenheim Museum in New York.

"I want to be one of the best mothers in the world," she says. "I have to make a new start in life, offer my children security, enrich their lives and therefore the rest of the world. To do this I need a home."

WORKING AS a waitress in a San Rafael restaurant is Christine Black, former sales supervisor for the Guggenheim Museum in New York. She is attempting to pick up the pieces to her life which was shattered when her home was destroyed in a Southern California flood and her nervous condition caused her to send her three children to New York to stay with her parents. Her hope to be reunited with her children is growing dim as she is unable to find a home for them in Marin County. (Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

Feeding Aged

John B. Martin, U.S. Commissioner of Aging, has recommended a federally-assisted method similar to the school lunch program to feed the 10 million or more aged who are too poor, sick or lonely to feed themselves.

'Shabu-Shabu' Table Setting

By GEN HUDDLESTON

Decorating an Oriental table for a Japanese meal is a specialty of Mrs. Leslter L. Sullivan, whose entry titled "Shabu-Shabu" will be among the table settings at the annual "Flaming Festival" given Tuesday by the Petaluma Woman's Club.

Her entry is named for a Japanese concoction prepared in a special pot and named for the sound made when beef and vegetables are whisked about in the boiling water. Soup and saki, Japanese wine, are traditionally served with the dish, she explained.

Simplicity is the keynote of Japanese table settings, lending an air of grace and charm to the table, says Mrs. Sullivan.

Mrs. Sullivan and her husband have acquired many decorative and useful objects during their travels abroad. The oriental dishes and decorations in her "Flaming Festival" entry came from her collection, with the antique Japanese salt and pepper shakers and the authentic oriental tablecloth contributed by Mrs. C. Eugene Baldwin, who assisted with the table.

A highlight of the arrangement is the centerpiece featuring six tall, red, tapered candles and Japanese spider mums placed in an oriental container atop a teak wood stand.

A favorite dish in the Sullivan home is barbecued chicken teriyaki prepared in the Japanese manner. For entertaining Mrs. Sullivan prefers a cheese dish served in an authentic Japanese fondue stand.

Talented in the art of Hawaiian dancing, which she once taught, Mrs. Sullivan was invited to dance before an audience of 500 during a luau celebration while she and her husband were in Hawaii last summer. While there she also took lessons in Tahitian dancing.

Other hobbies are bowling, arts and crafts, designing and making her clothes, and crewel work. Reflecting her creative abilities, the Sullivan home contains objets d'art created by the homemaker.

Mrs. Sullivan has been an active member of the Women's Club for 16 years. Native Californians, and Petaluma residents for 20 years, the Sullivans are the parents of Ellis and Jerry Sullivan and the grandparents of Kelly James Sullivan, two years old.

Mrs. Baldwin designs and sews clothes for herself and her daughter Gaylene, 16. The Baldwin sons are Gary, a student at Chico State College, and Wayne, who is in the Navy at Alameda Naval Air Station.

Open to the public from 1 to 4 p.m., the festival will feature a colorful table setting show with the only prerequisite being the use of candles.

Greeting guests at the door will be Mrs. Troy Fortner, president, and Mrs. A. Leroy Jewett.

Other arrangements at the festival will range from elegant teas and dinners to casual outdoor entertaining. Club entrants and their themes are Mrs. George T. De Long, "A Birthday Party"; Mrs. Rutherford Putnam, "Winter Picnic"; Mrs. Troy Fortner, "Big Game Breakfast"; Mrs. Walter C. Roche, "Mexican Coffee Time"; Mrs. Herold Mahoney, "Acorn Harvest Breakfast"; Mrs. Lorry Martini, "Christmas Dessert"; Mrs. Robert S. Lipman, "Hawaiian Theme"; Mrs. Arnold G. Fisher, "After Holiday Dinner"; Mrs. Ralph Bright, "Days of Wine and Roses"; Mrs. Victor L. De Carli, Pre-Holiday Table"; Mrs. John E. Welch, "A Wedding Supper"; Mrs. Walter R. Holman and Mrs. Glen E. Seifert, "A Tea Party for Two Dolls"; Mrs. Abe Solomon and Mrs. Clem W. McCorkle, "A Holiday Scene"; Miss Aletha Olmsted, "Fall Delight."

Members of the Petaluma Newcomers Club who are participating are Mrs. Joseph F. Rodola, club president, "Paliochi"; Mrs. Gregory Suverkrup, "An Autumn Brunch" and Mrs. Duane G. Nelson, "A Formal Dinner."

Another highlight of the afternoon will be the "Holiday Boutique" artistically arranged by Mmes. Sherwood Frische and Lynn J. Stenseth. Featured will be a selection of Christmas gift and decorating items, scented candles, antiqued candelabra and coach latterns to light up a holiday door.

Serving at the tea table throughout the afternoon will be Mmes. Orson Cooper, Barton B. Rearden and Melvin F. Rohde.

Reservations chairmen, Mrs. Charles D. Moore and Mrs. Rohde, said that tickets also will be available at the door. Proceeds are earmarked for the club's philanthropic projects and improvements to the clubhouse.

Military Wife Contestants

Hamilton Air Force Base personnel have selected four candidates for the fourth annual Military Wife of the Year contest. One military wife will be chosen whose actions represent the contributions being made by military wives wherever they are stationed.

Each of the five services will conduct its own contest and select the individual who will represent it in the final contest. The five finalists and their husbands will be flown to Washington, D.C., for the final judging for the Military Wife of the Year.

The four candidates chosen at Hamilton are Mmes. Frank J. Brehmn J. J. Karlonas, Lewie H. Miller Jr. and James E. Newsom. They will compete with other wives in the respective commands.

Patricia Brehm is the wife of Senior Master Sergeant Brehm of the 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron. They have three children. Frank is 15, Stephen 11 and Shawn, 4 years old.

Pat serves as president of the Noncommissioned Officers Wives' club and as assistance coordinator for religious instructions at the chapel. In the local community, she is a volunteer worker at St. Vincent's School for Boys.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

The Spouse That Bows Down And Asks For The Lumps Gets Them

DEAR HELEN:

I read about the deserted woman whose husband said he'd be back at 2 p.m., but didn't say which year.

My wife left for a 30-day vacation two years ago. This after 23 years of marriage. Maybe you have the jump-to-conclusion picture of me as a worthless husband who deserves no better. Believe me, dear lady, I'm not a chaser or a wifebeater. My only vices are cigarettes and a can of beer before supper. I've been mother and father to the children while my wife did the running. Yet I still love her and wish she would come back for more than an occasional weekend.

She got involved in Little Theater and country music several years ago. I took her faithfully to the rehearsals, but she wouldn't let me stay. She would go to music festivals and taverns, then brag about the men who wanted her to run away with them. She didn't want my company.

It isn't that I am a party-pooper. I like to have fun and go places, but she preferred that I stay home.

Perhaps our marriage was doomed from the start. I heard — after the wedding — that she took me on the rebound because the man she loved went off with someone else.

Two lawyers say I have grounds for divorce and could get custody of the children, also the house. Yet I sit here waiting for those few weekends when (probably because she has nothing better to do), she becomes a visiting wife.

I don't want your sympathy, and I doubt if I'd take advice, as two years with psychotherapy (for both of us) hasn't done much good.

I just want you to know that it isn't always the poor wronged woman. Men suffer too. — DESERTED HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND:

True. Woman inflicts as much misery as she takes. And the wronged partner gets his (or her) lumps in direct proportion to how long he bows down and asks for them.

Stop suffering over past hurts and make a new life for yourself — without the woman who only wants you when there's nothing better to do. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am a woman of 25, divorced, and have a child. I'm dating a fellow out of my religion, which, to my parents, is a deadly sin. One night he came over in bell bottoms. They immediately assumed he is a hippie. (He's a respected high school teacher). Because he isn't exactly a Greek god type, they downgrade him further.

Helen, he treats me wonderfully, loves my daughter, and has no strong opinions on religion so there would be no clash. I'm beginning to love him, and I'm sure it's mutual.

But my folks, with whom we live, say if I go ahead with this romance they'll declare me an unfit mother and take away my little girl. I could prove them wrong in court, but think of the bitterness.

Should I buckle under ? — GIRL WITH PROBLEMS

DEAR G WITH P:

A woman of 25 should have broken out long ago. Call your parents bluff — you know they won't bring suit — and, if things get sticky, move to an apartment and establish a separate home for yourself and your daughter. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Look To The Skin For Beauty Ahead

By JANE ROGERS
London Express Service

The dolly girls of today are going to be the prematurely aged looking mums of tomorrow. Who says so? Several people in fact, all of them cosmeticians who are becoming extremely worried about the state of our skin. Today's girl, they say, is so busy putting on masses of eye makeup and lipstick that she is neglecting her skin completely and laying up a great deal of trouble for herself.

Once no make-up was complete without a heavy coating of foundation cream of some kind or other, topped with plenty of powder. Today's trendy teenager seldom bothers to use a foundation cream at all, and would certainly never dream of powdering her face — a gleaming look is definitely in. Whatever you thought of the old mask-like make-up effect it had one very important part to play: it protected your skin against extremes of temperature, and its cold winds and over hot sun that cause problems like thin red thread-veins on your cheeks and dry patches here and there.

IN AN EFFORT to make us all see sense, and avoid becoming wrinkled earlier than we need be, several of the top cosmetic houses have re-thought and re-packaged their ranges with the idea of making foundation and cover creams more attractive and, at the same time, persuading us to look after our skins properly.

At last you can now buy a selection of foundations that do not dry with a matte powdered effect and which come in fashion shades of beige and light sun-tan instead of that inevitable pink. Some of these are to be found in the chain stores. At the other end of the scale cosmetics firms have a selection of sand-beige colors that make a clear film of beige tone over the face without a make-up look.

It's difficult enough to put back the clock once you've allowed tiny crepy wrinkles to appear on your face, though cover-up creams are a great help. But if you start from the age of around 25 with a beauty routine that is planned to help prevent crows feet and wrinkles before they appear, you can cheat Old Father Time for quite a while.

THE DELICATE area of skin under and around the eye is usually the first to show signs of age. Never ever scrub fiercely at your skin at this point — teen-agers trying to remove eye make-up with soap and water often ruin their skins this way. Treat it gently and delicately so that it won't stretch, use the very best eye-make-up remover you can find and start using a very lightweight eye cream under your make-up whenever you are going out into hot sun or cold windy conditions. A useful item for your handbag is an anti-wrinkle stick, which looks just like a lipstick in its case, is a clear cover that you stroke on either under or, in an emergency over your make-up.

If the damage is already done and those tell-tale crows feet are firmly implanted, someone has come out with a new solution to this problem — an anti-wrinkle revitalizing cream which stimulates the blood circulation under the skin, helping it to retain its firmness, activitates the renewal of skin cells to restore vitality and moisturizes the skin too. It can be used at night or during the day as well, under your ordinary make-up.

The acid balance of your skin is vitally important if you are to keep it looking youthful, and to prove the point there is a whole range of special preparations which are designed to make your skin as near perfect as possible by making up its acid balance to the correct proportions. Although it helps the older woman, it's designed too for the bright girl who realized that clever skin care in the twenties and thirties shows a bonus in the forties and fifties.

WE'RE ALL going to be worrying soon about the look of our skins because of a new significant trend in jewelry. Earrings are back, for one thing, particularly the long exotic and dangling variety that focus so much attention on your cheekbones and your jawline.

Another fashion fad that is likely to come in and stay is the jewelled ornament that you wear in your hair, on your forehead, slung on a chain on your brow. Wearing something glittery like this near to your face, or even on it, draws attention to your skin immediately and seems, in an unfortunate way, to highlight any imperfections. The new jewelled look calls for a smooth blemish-free skin to go with it.

Loungewear

Loungewear featured in the first New York showing by the Korean Association of Fashion Design Artists included a multi-striped ensemble in satin. Its sleeveless top, showing bare midriff, was teamed with wide-legged pants.

THE NEW EXOTIC look in jewelry—giant earrings, pendants and crosses to be worn on your head as well as around your neck — call for careful makeup and near perfect skin. At left is an elaborate cross on antiqued silver chain. At right, exotic earrings have a matching belt, ring and bracelet, too.

Fashion's Look At The Nixon Administration

By ELIZABETH WHARTON

WASHINGTON (UPI) —If anybody wants to know what official society is wearing in the nation's capital these days, the answer is anything and everything and in some cases, very nearly nothing.

From the fashion viewpoint, Washington under the Nixon administration is hoplessly schizophrenic.

ON ONE HAND, there's President Nixon himself, who is so conservative in his attire that he wears a coat and tie to the beach.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew shares his boss's passion for dark suits, white shirts and ties so quiet they're almost mute.

Most of the cabinet members are equally "square" in their clothing preferences and hairstyles.

Robert H. Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, occasionally looks a little bit like a guy who once lived in California, but not very much and not very often.

And Defense Secretary Melvin Laird has dared to let his hair grow down by his ears—perhaps because he is unable to get it to grow anywhere else.

ON THE OTHER HAND, there's Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., whose devotion to conservatism stops at the wardrobe door. Goldwater recently showed up at a capital dinner party looking very mod in a pearl grey stile dinner jacket with wide satin lapels, a fine-tucked shirt, and a butterfly tie.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., also keeps abreast of the New York and London fashions in men's attire. And his pretty blonde wife, Joan, would qualify as a swinger even on Carnaby Street. She once attended a formal white house party in a silver miniskirt that bared at least eight inches of shapely thigh.

A few other senatorial and congressional wives — mostly Democrats—make the social scene in pants suits and see-through dresses. But Mrs. Nixon, Mrs. Agnew and the cabinet wives are as sedate in their clothing preferences as their husbands.

On Capitol Hill, during working hours, the chief visual stimulus is provided by young secretaries who get leg cramps trying to maintain decorum while typing in skirts that, even while standing up, invite eyestrain if not riot.

ALTHOUGH MOST lawmakers show up for House and Senate sessions in dark business suits, there seems to be a modest trend toward modishness in hairstyles. At least 30 of the 100 senators, and perhaps 100 of the 435 House members, now sport sideburns. A larger number are wearing their hair longer on the neck. The whole question of hair style is, of course, academic for many of the senior members.

So far, no member of Congress has grown a beard. And there's no one who could be described as a hippie. The man who comes closest to qualifying is Rep. Allard Lowenstein, D-N.Y., and friends say his suits have that slept-in look only because Lowenstein regards clothing as merely a utilitarian necessity.

The only genuinely mod dresser in the House is Illinois Democrat Kenneth J. Gray, a former magician and night club entertainer. He not only wears brightly colored suits and shirts but is generally far in advance of style changes and fashion trends.

Flamboyant Harlem congressman Adam Clayton Powell has showed up in the House in a Nehru jacket, worn with a tan turtleneck sweater with a medallion and chain.

THESE MAY have been the members who inspired California Republican Burt Talcott to make a stern little speech in the House on decorous attire.

He admonished his colleagues to "eschew fancy and flashy garb," and warned that "attire which is acceptable for folk dancing, sailing or the horse races may not be suitable for a session of the House."

The Supreme Court is eternal and unchanging, at least so far as fashion is concerned. The solicitor general still presents the government's views in cutaway coat and striped gray pants. What the justices wear under those long black robes is their own business, but you can safely assume that their legalities are righteously cloaked.

Nancy Lee Nutting Is A Bride-Elect

NANCY LEE NUTTING

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold A. Nutting of San Anselmo are announcing the engagement of their daughter Nancy Lee to Tinsley Calvin Stetson of Mill Valley.

Mrs. Fredrick Koegler of Glendale and Lenor Stetson of Mill Valley are Tinsley's sisters and Mrs. Raymond Judd Loomis of Oakland is his grandmother. He was graduated from Tamalpais High School, attended the College of Marin and is employed as a summer park ranger at Yosemite National Park.

A December wedding is planned.

Chairman Of Mothers' March Sees Success In Birth Defects Fight

Mrs. Ralph Clark Jr. of Terra Linda has again been appointed Mother's March Chairman of the Marin Chapter of the March of Dimes.

This will be the fourth year that Mrs. Clark, attractive mother of three healthy boys, Stephen, Tommy and Jamie, has headed the annual doorbell-ringing campaign by women volunteers throughout Marin. The 1970 Mothers' March is scheduled for Jan. 30 and 31 and Feb. 1.

"Only 12 years ago," according to Margaret Clark, "no one cared much about birth defects. While research in the area of birth defects financed by the proceeds of the annual March has not yet come up with a 'silver bullet,' advances are taking place!

"We are no longer frightened of birth defects and have adopted a realistic approach to the prevention of such defects. Our main goal is to find out what goes wrong and stop it from happening."

"Rh blood disease, which once claimed the lives of thousands of babies born in the United States, can now be prevented by an immunizing vaccine."

"During the last epidemic of German measles of 1963-64, 20,000 babies were born with defects. A vaccine to prevent German measles is now available. Before the next predicted Rubella epidemic of 1970-71, the March of Dimes hopes to assist public health agencies in vaccinating millions of moppets to break the chain of infection."

Margaret Clark also urges parents of pre-school children to make certain their youngsters receive their polio vaccinations.

"Polio is a very real threat to the under five group if they remain unprotected prior to entering school when polio immunization is mandatory," she said.

Chamber Music Concert Sunday In Kentfield

The music of Brahms and French composers Lucien Capet and Ernest Chausson will be heard in the Wynn Westover Chamber Concert at 4:30 p.m. Sunday at the College of Marin fine arts theater. The concert is sponsored by the college concert-lecture series.

Randall Keith Horton will be guest conductor, and soloists will be soprano Joan Smith of Kentfield and pianist Norma Ditano.

Miss Smith will sing "Chanson Perpetuelle" by Chausson and the newly-discovered last songs by Capet.

Miss Ditano and Westover will play Chausson's piano and violin cencert, and Brahms' G Major Sonata.

Horton will conduct the chamber group in a Chausson concerto, and the group will also perform the American premiere of Capet's Quatuor No. 1.

Bank Reverses M-Day Firing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Bank of America stenographer is back on the job after fighting her dismissal for taking a day off last month to participate in the Vietnam moratorium.

The bank said yesterday Margo Pelton, 21, was fired by a "trigger-happy manager" whose decision was reversed by higher management.

The announcement by the bank followed settlement of a suit brought by Miss Pelton who claimed her constitutional rights were violated when she was discharged for taking time off to protest U.S. policy in Vietnam.

The bank said it will allow any employee to take a day off without pay for such activities so long as the bank can still conduct business.

Program Of Music For Youngsters

The Marin Symphony Guild will present a music for minors program, "Sights and Sounds of the Symphony," Saturday at San Rafael High School. There will be a performance at 10 a.m. and another at 11:15 a.m.

Attending will be fourth, fifth and sixth grade students of the Mill Valley, Reed, Sausalito, Larkspur-Corte Madera, Kentfield and Ross school districts, as well as students from St. Patrick's and Mount Carmel parochial schools and Marin Country Day School. Schools from other districts in Marin will be invited to attend programs in the spring.

The program will feature 25 musicians from the Marin Symphony Orchestra, who will present selections from the works of Bach, Beethoven, Dvorak and Ravel, which are to be played at the opening concert of the Marin Symphony on Nov. 30.

Hugo Rinaldi, conductor of the Marin Youth Orchestra, will direct and comment on the slides of pictures of instruments that will be shown.

The orchestra will appear through the courtesy of the Musicians Trust Fund, Local 6.

Japanese Festival Is Set Saturday

A Japanese festival, with traditional and modern Japanese entertainment, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the College of Marin student center.

Members of the Japanese consulate staff in San Francisco have been invited, and light refreshments will be served between performances, students Jiroumaru Nishida and Kiyo Ushiro said.

Hanayagi, a woman who is a master of traditional Japanese dancing, will perform. A band will play modern Japanese music, and demonstrations will be given of Japan's martial arts, karate and kendo.

Another demonstration will show the traditional method of making Japanese rice cakes, and folk songs and dances of Japan will be performed.

The festival is sponsored by Japanese and Japanese-American students at the college, who number 16 to 20, Ushiro said.

The festival will also serve to tell the college community of a 20-day tour of Japan and Expo 70 at Osaka next August which the Japanese students are sponsoring.

Larkspur Board Plans Yule Decor

Downtown merchants have contributed $300 toward the decorations, the Larkspur Lions Club $250 and and the city of Larkspur $500, chamber president Neil R. Brixon reported.

The chamber also named Harlan Barry and Gilbert Dubuc as a committee to nominate 1970 officers. The nominees will be elected by directors at the December meeting, and an installation dinner will be held in January, Brixon said.

Tires, Rims Taken

Two tires valued at $96 and two rims worth $25 were stolen from two cars during the last two days parked in the storage area of Marin Dodge Inc. at 1075 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael police reported today.

Novatans Poised For A 'Far Out Fling'

"Far Out Fling," fall production of the Novato Community Players will be presented at 8:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday, and again Nov. 21 and 22, in the Novato Community House.

Vivienne Terry and Otto Haiungs star as scientists whose secret formula a gang of international spies is trying to steal. The spies are played by Elaine and John Bernardi, John Bonner, Barbara Caruso, Alex Consagra and Ellen Keeler.

The job of an airline ticket girl, played by Marilyn Casady sets the international scene, roving from Kyoto to a Marakesh and Granada, ending with a moon scene and Joseph Jacob playing the man in the moon.

As in all flings, music and dancing make up the biggest portion of the show. "Spanish Eyes," one of the major songs, is sung by J. D. Nichols, Redwood High School music teacher who has sung with the Los Angeles Civic Opera.

Other top songs are: "Sukiyaki," sung by John Bernardi; "China Night," by Jean Teague; "Granada," by Ginny Weaver; "If I Were a Rich Man" by Scott Wright, and "Desert Song," by Max Keeler. Other soloists are Elaine Bernardi, John Bonner and Donald McGillis.

"Lady of Spain" is the top choral number with Sandy Arroyo, Larry Asay, Maxine Buffo, Saunde Brown, Marie Consagra, Doris Cormeir, Mary Grieve, Enid Hindmarch, Mavis Marney, Donald McGillis, Rex Minshall and others.

A Japanese fan-dance number, "I Singa Hi" will feature Georgi Beebe, Claudia Bliss, Jeanne Hall, Elaine Jacob, Arlene Johansen, Sylvia Knutson, Chris Kollgaard, Lei Mann, Sally McGillis, Rosalie Minshall and Shirley Nilsen. Another dance number, "Tonko Bushi" features black lights with parasols.

"Far Out Fling" was written and is directed by Lei Mann; produced by John Prohaska and with the assistance of Jean Teague, Musical director; Elaine Jacob, dance director; Albert Richter, set designer; Jerome London, set construction; Joseph Jacob, stage manager; Nick Carter, sound; Gale Nims, lighting; Arlene Martin, costumes; Nanci and Raymond Mathias, properties; Barbara Carter, publicity, Correne Prohaska, programs; Enid Hindmarch, make-up; Vincent McGovern, house chairman; and Lorayne Crozier at the piano and Jeff Crozier at the drums.

Guest Organist

William McMains will be guest organist at a meeting of the Marin Baldwin Organ Club at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Tamalpais Retirement Home in Greenbrae.

Teens Booked As Suspects In Drug Probe

Three teen-agers, suspected of smoking marijuana under the Novato Creek Bridge, were jailed Monday after a struggle with three Novato police officers.

Dale E. Kush, 18, of 354 Burton Street, Rohnert Park, was booked on suspicion of assaulting an officer, resisting arrest and being in a place where marijuana was being used. His bail is $1,250.

Douglas W. Jerve, 18, of 2033 Center Road, Novato, was jailed on suspicion of marijuana possession, with bail set at $625.

Larry Ricchard Meredity, 18, of 50 Merrydale Road, San Rafael, was booked on suspicion of being where marijuana was being used. His bail is $315.

Off-duty officer Ronald J. Green Jr. spotted the three under the bridge about 1:50 p.m. yesterday and tried to arrest them. When they put up a struggle, he called for police reinforcements. Officers Laurence H. Steffan and Michael Manick came to his aid and helped subdue the trio. Police said one of the youths hit Steffan in the face during the struggle.

All three are scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Wallace Fails To See Thieu

SAIGON (AP) — George C. Wallace wound up a final day of sightseeing, camp inspections and briefings today and prepared to leave Vietnam without seeing President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The former Alabama governor, scheduled to depart for Singapore tomorrow morning, apparently was disappointed that he had not been received by the president.

"We certainly came here with the anticipation of seeing the president," an aide said. "We have asked several times, of both the U.S. Embassy and the Vietnamese, for a meeting with him. They told us one was being arranged but it never seemed to develop."

Students' Strike Leaflet Barred

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Superior Court judged has ruled that San Francisco's public schools do not have to allow distribution of leaflets asking students to stay away from classes.

Robin David, regional organizer for the Student Mobilization Committee, said he would appeal.

Shortly after the ruling Monday by Judge Robert Merrill a petition was filed with the District Court of Appeal. It asked that either the distribution of a controversial circular be allowed or a hearing be set for Tuesday.

The board of education would not allow distribution of the leaflet which urges students to strike Friday.

Violence Erupts In Area Again

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI)—Sporadic rock and bottle throwing erupted for the second night in a row yesterday in the predominantly black west side but quieted down shortly after a curfew was imposed at 9:05 p.m.

Mayor Al C. Ballard ordered the curfew after a 10-square block area was sealed off to traffic during the hit-and-run type disturbances.

A police spokesman said the department hand confirmed reports that at least two Mototov cocktails were hurled at police cars. However, no damage was done to them and there were no injuries.

School Burglary

A burglar who smashed a window to enter MacPhail School in Santa Venetia sometime between Friday afternoon and Saturday morning took a couch and two chairs, valued at $250, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

TIBURON HONORS VIET VETERANS

They Came In Casts, Wheelchairs

By JOANNE GRANT

They might have been a million miles and hundreds of years from the battlefields as they gathered yesterday on the Tiburon Peninsula for a peaceful, happy day.

For most, however, the war zone was a part of their very recent past — they are among the nation's newest veterans. Yesterday was their day at the Corinthian Yacht Club at the tip of Tiburon.

About 50 men arrived in three ugly olive drab buses and poured onto the grounds where businessmen, housewives, laws enforcement officers, students and top military personnel were clustered awaiting their arrival.

The men from Letterman Hospital wore casts and slings and brought canes and wheelchairs. But they and their fellow veterans from the Presidio of San Francisco wore expectant, pre-party looks.

And they were not disappointed as the day progressed through a reception, a wild duck and pheasant luncheon and entertainment planned especially for them.

"I think this is fantastic," said Michael Miller of Yuma, Ariz., who returned from Vientam about 10 months ago. "After being subjected to so much of the other (demonstrations) — it's good to know there are a few people who care."

The "people who care" in this case were a hastily organized committee of Marin residents headed by Tiburon Sheriff's Lt. William Johansen, Clarence English and Fred Mantegani, Tiburon merchants, to say thank you to the young men.

Miller, a military policeman, noted they would normally have had yesterday off "but I'd give up a day for this anytime," he said enthusiastically.

Miller reported Vietnam seemed a long time ago — "like a bad dream," a statement echoed frequently by other young veterans.

He and many of the approximately 50 veterans remembered it well enough to have definite opinions on the war, its future, the effect of the moratorium demonstrations, the treatment of returning soldiers.

"Nixon has got to draw the line somewhere" and either win or pull out, maintained Steve Newman, a 22-year-old Oregon youth who has been back in the U.S. almost two months.

"The U.S. has enough power to take Vietnam in two weeks," he contended, if that route were chosen.

However, he believes "it's a political war," and a two-week win is really a dream.

"A lot of people are getting rich by not doing it," agreed a friend, William Duggins of El Centro.

Yesterday was a reunion of sorts for Duggins and Newman. They had met on a rest and recreation leave in Sidney, Australia, about six months ago and though both are stationed at the Presidio hadn't met since.

Newman, who was in Vietnam when the bombing was halted, maintained that was a mistake. "If they would have kept bombing, it would have ended," he said. "There wasn't much war going on then," he added, explaining enemy supplies were seriously low.

Duggins, whose right leg is numb from the knee down, the result of a mine explosion, doesn't believe there is any choice. "We can't pull out," he said, remembering the men who have died.

A quiet Iowa man, Ken Bacon, steadfastly disagreed. "We should get out," said the 21-year-old from his wheelchair.

Bacon spent nine months in Vietnam and has been at Letterman for the past 17 months, healing severe wounds suffered in a mine explosion. His right leg is missing and he is in the process of getting an artificial one which he hopes will permit him to return to farming.

Bacon, like the other men from Letterman, wore civilian clothes. "I don't plan on putting a uniform back on," he said.

Feelings were mixed on the moratorium and whether it would have any results.

"It's doing more harm than good," believes Russell Petrocelli of Boston. "It's precisely what they (the enemy) want," he said.

Miller, the M.P., agreed it wouldn't help and reported it makes a lot more work for their division.

Newman, on the other hand, believed the first one was good but the November one is "getting out of hand." He maintained it was expanding to include more than just the war, which should be the sole target.

Patrick Mahoney of Los Angeles said flatly, "They won't do any good for the war unless they're over there."

Mahoney pointed out it was the military's job to "do something until something better comes along." He added, "Look at how long it took us in Korea."

Most of the men interviewed agreed Vietnam has changed them — for the better. But they don't like the treatment they get if they wear a uniform. "It's risky," said one.

The treatment was one of the things that prompted yesterday's observance, co-chairman Johansen said.

He and several other Marin residents toured Army installations throughout the country last month as part of the military's Operation Understanding.

At one point on the tour, an officer spoke on the public's reaction to the returning veteran. "We decided to get people together to thank them for what they have done for us," he said.

The response was "terrific" and soon the day-by-the-bay was in progress. Vietnam did seem a long way away.

Watchdog Hits Marin Tax Rises

Property taxes in Marin County will continue to rise rapidly unless local governments stop spending beyond their incomes, the director of the Marin County Taxpayers Association warned today.

In the November issue of Tax News, Donald M. Van Dyke said that between 1959 and 1969 property tax collections by the county increased 168 per cent, while county budget requirements grew by over 180 per cent. But the population, he said, grew by only 43 per cent and the assessed valuation by 131 per cent.

"When the cost of government is allowed to increase at tremendous rate, taxes will increase just as fast," Van Dyke said, "and there is no doubt taxes are out of control in Marin County."

He urged citizens to insist that all local units of government gear their cost increases to their normal revenue growth. "If this had been done in the last 10 years, adequate funds would have been available to finance substantial new expenditures by all government agencies without any increase in the total tax rates," the director added.

Van Dyke warned residents that the property tax relief measure (Proposition 1A) approved by voters last November appears to have reduced property tax bills, but has not actually resulted in any tax savings.

"Under the terms of the bill, the state has agreed to pay back to all local taxing agencies what they lost through Proposition 1A," he explained. "State income taxes, increased horrendously a few years ago could have been reduced this year if the state had not had to make up what the counties lost in revenue by the tax relief bill."

"So the taxpayers are paying for their relief," Van Dyke said.

He claimed that "nearly all" taxing agencies in the county had taken advantage of the relief measure by increasing their tax rates — an increase "which would not show up in the tax bills of persons who applied for the property tax exemptions."

Relatively Good Crab Catches

While their competitors across the bay were bemoaning the "worst yet" start of the crab season, Marin County fishermen returned home last night with relatively good catches and dispositions, a check of wholesale fish companies showed today.

Although fisherman said the opening day haul of the delicate dungeness crabs was not as high as desired, none of them had the bad luck of fisherman out of San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf, who reported catches ranging from 26 to 300 pounds.

Lloyd Williams, speaking for two West Marin outfits — A. Paladini Inc. of Point Reyes and the Frank Alioto Fish Co. of Inverness — said "Our boys did pretty good . . . A little better than last year." He said the combined operation's dozen boats caught up to 800 pounds apiece which is "pretty fair."

He also said he thought a big storm over Bodega Bay just before the beginning of the season might have driven the crabs to deeper water but, he added, "They'll be back."

Ed Heckman of the California Shell Fish Co. of Inverness said that firm didn't have a "very good catch," but he reported one boat bringing in 1,422 pounds, another 1,324 pounds and a third 1,127. San Francisco catches were much lower, fishermen reported, with one boat returning with a paltry 26 pounds.

Heckman did report, however, that he heard of one boat in Bodega Bay which had 50 pots out but got only eight crabs. Asked if the crabbing was getting worse, he said "It's been pretty bad for the last four or five years. I don't know. Either there's too many pots or something's wrong."

He agreed with other fishermen that it was too early to tell how good or bad the season will be, adding, "We'll find out before the weekend's over. I think about three or four weeks and that'll be the end of it and the boys will go north."

Mrs. Tony Konavich, whose husband operates a fishing boat out of Marshall, said his catch yesterday was "pretty good" but she didn't know how big the catch was.

In Sausalito, there was less satisfaction all around but not entirely because of the supposed scarcity of crabs. Jody Sturiale of the S. J. Sturiale Fish Co. said the firm got only four crates, but only because the boat broke down. Becuase of the breakdown, only 50 pots out of 230 down were checked, he said, adding, "We would have had quite a catch if we hadn't broken down."

A spokesman for Ocean Traders out of Sausalito reported one boat taking 1,004 pounds and another 600 but termed the catch "not good." He added, however, "We really didn't expect much. It was about the same as it has been for this area for several years. They (the crabs) have been disappearing for the last six or seven years."

Highway Panel Dinner Planned

The California Highway Commission, which will hold its November meeting in Marin, will include on its schedule a dinner at 8 p.m. Nov. 20 at Tiburon Tommie's. A cocktail hour will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The dinner, designed to give Marin residents a chance to meet the commissioners, is sponsored by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau and the Redwood Empire Association, through whom reservation may be made.

The commission will hold its formal meeting beginning at 10 a.m. Nov. 20 and continue through Nov. 21 as long as business takes. The day meetings will be at the Civic Center.

Cycle Stolen

A red Honda 82 motorcycle, license 872131, owned by Ann V. Scofield of 4 Savannah Avenue, was stolen from Savannah Avenue between 6 p.m. Monday and 9 a.m. yesterday, San Anselmo police reported.

Antiwar March Set In Cotati

Sonoma State College students and professors will observe Friday's Vietnam Moratorium Day with a noon protest march from the campus to Cotati Plaza Park and with an afternoon teach-in at Ives Hall.

(For Marin County moratorium events, see page 1.)

Leaders of the Student Mobilization Against the War said the march will leave campus at noon and will assemble at the park for speeches at 12:30 p.m. Cotati City Mgr. Gordon C. Howe said a parade permit had been issued for the march.

At 1:30 p.m. the teach-in will begin with Dr. Warren Olson director of the Hutchins School of Liberal Studies, speaking on "Vietnam in the Context of Major U.S. Foreign Policy."

At 2 p.m., Dr. John Smaby assistant professor of philosophy, will talk on "The Domino Theory." Hari Dillon of the Progressive Labor Party is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. with a speech on "French Involvement in Vietnam, 1858 to 1954."

Dr. George McCage, education and psychology professor, will speak at 3 p.m. on "Yankee Come Home." At 3:30 p.m. Dr. Richard Paul, associate professor of philosophy, will speak on "Contradictions, Inconsistencies and Hypocrises in U.S. Vietnam Policy."

A panel discussion, including audience participation, is planned for 4 p.m.

Chamber Board Elected In Hub

Eight candidates have been elected to two-year terms on the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce board of directors, office secretary Esther Squire reported today.

Chosen by a mail-in vote of members were Claudia Goldthwaite, Peter Edwards, James F. Reed, James Miller, Arthur Wasser, Shirley Coleman, Marvin Christiansen and Homer Welch.

Officers for 1970 will be chosen between now and January, Mrs. Squire said.

New Coast Chamber Head Named

James E. Stevens of Stinson Beach was elected president of the Marin Coast Chamber of Commerce last night.

Clay Wright of Olema was elected vice president and two other officers were re-elected, Ema Benevenga of Olema, secretary, and Harry W. Guppy of Marshall, treasurer.

Elected as directors were Boyd Stewart of Olema, James Dougan of San Rafael and Frank Myer of Inverness.

The board wrestled with West Marin's doctor shortage, but found no solution, Mrs. Benevenga reported.

West Marin has been without a doctor since Oct. 24 when Dr. Richard D. Baldwin left and no replacement is in sight.

The board discussed the idea of having several doctors rotate the duty and petitioning legislators and the medical society for assistance in locating one.

One candidate located faces military service and the board will investigate a deferment for him, Mrs. Benevenga added.

Bala Proposes Alternate Ridge Route

An alternate proposal for access to Mill Valley's North Ridge calling for the North Ridge Road to be routed within the Mill Valley city limits from Camino Alto to the point it enters the city of Larkspur has been suggested by Mill Valley City Engineer Stanley M. Bala.

Bala's alternate access route was submitted as an addendum to his North Ridge master street plan, prepared last year, which calls for the road North Ridge road to begin on Corte Madera Avenue in Corte Madera and wind long the ridge through Mill Valley, Corte Madera and Larkspur.

'DISASTER AREA'

The original road alignment proposal was criticized strongly by Corte Madera residents and city officials as creating a traffic "disaster area" along Corte Madera Avenue. Of particular concern to Corte Madera citizens was the intersection of the North Ridge road in Corte Madera which, they said at a planning commission public hearing last month, would dump all of Mill Valley's North Ridge traffic into Corte Madera.

The alternate route was submitted to City Mgr. William R. Cunningham Monday by Bala and distributed Monday night to planning commissioners for study.

The commission did not discuss the proposal Monday but planning director Harvey E. Bragdon said the item will probably be discussed at the commission's 8 p..m. Nov. 24 meeting in city hall.

The alternate route has the North Ridge road starting on Camino Alto some 600 feet south of the Corte Madera city limits and winding on a 10 to 15 per cent grade up the hillside until it reaches the ridge at the proposed intersection of Glen Drive east extension.

UNDER STUDY

The road then would follow the previously proposed route entering Larkspur at the proposed Summit Drive extension intersection and later intersecting with Warner Canyon Road, Blithedale Trail and the mountain railroad grade further west.

The original street plan presently is under study by the city of Larkspur.

Bala previously has told the planning commission that a similar route to the proposed alternative would not be as desirable as the original route and probably would require much more cutting of the hillside.

LEBANON, Ky. (AP) — A potential jurist asked Judge Geroge Bertram to excuse him from serving because he couldn't hear well out of one ear.

"The request denied," said Bertram. "You don't need but one good ear. This is a grand jury and it will be hearing just one side of the case anyway."

Some Dixie Teachers To Handle Curriculum

Teachers in the Dixie School District, who can help develop districtwide curriculum, will get time off from their regular classrooms to do the work, the Dixie School District board of trustees decided last night.

Until this year, such teachers were called resource teachers and were paid extra for working overtime.

One field in which curriculum assistance is needed is in multi-ethnic studies, Supt. Clifford W. Campbell reported. Trustees approved a job description for this work and asked the superintendent to recommend a teacher.

The Dixie School District trustees also:

FUND ADVANCE — Asked the county to advance $100,000 from county reserves to meet expenses until some $600,000 in local taxes are collected during December.

HIRED — Employed Marian Lane, who has been part-time teacher in the educationally handicapped program, as kindergarten teacher at Bernard Hoffman School at a salary of $5,158. She will replace Frances Char, who went on maternity leave.

DRUG FILM — Viewed a film used in the drug abuse education program in the Dixie School District.

Missing Daughter Returns To Hospital

Heidi Cooke, daughter of Donovan O. Cooke, Marin Clunty coroner and public administrator, and Mrs. Gloria Cooke of Tiburon, reported missing yesterday, has been found, according to her sister, Virginia L. Cooke of Sausalito.

Miss Cooke, 17, who disappeared Sunday from the Langley Porter Institute in San Francisco, was returned to the hospital late yesterday afternoon by friends with whom she had been staying in San Francisco, her sister said.

Tam Services Board Accepts Space Plan

A master plan detailing long-range plans for the preservation of open space in Tamalpais and Tennessee valleys was accepted last night by the Tamalpais Community Services District board last night, chairman Gale E. Bishel reported today.

Bishel said the report was prepared by the district's park and recreation commission and is designed to preserve recreational areas and open spaces as the valleys continue to be developed.

The board took three other actions last night aimed at doing the same thing, Bishel said. It accepted a gift deed of a 50-by-75-foot lot next to the district office at 305 Belle Lane for development as a tot lot donated by Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Saxon. It also accepted two parcels of land on either side of the flood control channel at Flamingo Road from Mr. and Mrs. Joel B. Hart to be improved by landscaping and eventually turned into a minipark, he said.

The third action was approval of a resolution backing acquisition of the rest of Point Reyes National Seashore which Bishel said eventually may be linked to the district by hiking and biking trails.

The Tamalpais Community Services District board also:

BID — Accepted the bid of $3,350 for a sewer rodding equipment from the Southwest Flexible Co. of San Rafael, to be delivered in 30 days.

DEBRIS — Discussed complaints about the inadequacy of debris box service and indicated the upcoming backyard burning ban places part of the responsibility for increased service on the Tamalpais Fire Protection District. Bishel said to increase service from one to two debris boxes a week would cost another two cents on the tax rate.

MARINVIEW — Continued discussions on long-range plans for disposal problems from the Marinview Development which will increase the number of sewer extensions in the district by about two-thirds.

Passenger Is Hurt In Wreck

Richard L. Erwin, 35, of 221 Willow Avenue, Corte Madera, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut right hand after the car he rode in skidded of Magnolia Avenue and overturned, Larkspur police reported today.

Police said the car, driven by Scott Anthony Myers, 23, of 129 Willow Avenue, Corte Madera, veered off the street and across a sidewalk near Redwoods Presbyterian Church at 11:25 p.m. Monday.

Myers was booked at Marin County Jail on suspicion of drunken driving and posted $360 bail to appear Friday in Marin Municipal Court.

Luehring To Tell Panel Traffic Up

Dale W. Luehring, general manager of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, will tell district directors Friday that bridge traffic during October increased 5.44 per cent over last year.

In his report scheduled for consideration by directors at their meeting at 9:30 a.m. at the bridge toll plaza, Luehring says that 2,782-564 vehicles crossed the span last month, compared with 2,587,842 vehicles in October 1968. Revenue, he said, was up 5.53 per cent for a total of $558,875, compared with $529,565 for October 1968.

Luehring said 22,077 commute books were sold last month, a 11.43 per cent increase over last year.

The general manager also will report on initial results of the district's temporary operation of Marin-San Francisco ferry service and announce that a symposium on bridge suicides will be held at 9 a.m. Nov. 19 at the district administration building.

$4.647 Million In Hamilton Funds Advance

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — A House Appropriations Committee today approved $4,647,000 for new construction at Hamilton Air Force Base, as part of a $110,190,000 appropriation for military construction in California in fiscal 1970.

Four million dollars will go to build a new 50-bed hospital, to replace the old facility constructed in the 1930s, according to Col. Edward C. Brown, base public information officer.

Brown said $606,000 will be used for a new Women's Air Force dormitory to house 100 persons, taking the place of four "temporary" barracks built during World War II and still in use today.

The remaining $41,000 will go for purchase of two acres of land near the southwest corner of the base for new hospital grounds and parking areas, according to the colonel.

The House committee eliminated $666,000 for an emergency operations center at the Presidio of San Francisco, but approved a $12,494,000 appropriation for the San Francisco Naval Shipyard.

Alameda Naval Air Station received $6,094,000.

Cuts made earlier in a House-passed authorization bill and thus not funded in the appropriations measure included: Mare Island Naval Schools Command, $3,840,000; San Francisco Naval Communications Station, $742,000.

Safeguard Funds Sent To Floor

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $1.45 billion military construction bill containing seed money for President Richard M. Nixon's Safeguard ABM system was approved by the House Appropriations Committee today and sent to the floor for expected action tomorrow.

The measure includes $16.6 million to begin Safeguard deployment, $2.5 million for an underground command center in the Rocky Mountains and $14.1 million to develop Kwajalein Island in the Pacific for full scale tests next year of the antiballistic missile system.

Plans for the tests—in which intercontinental ballistic missiles are to be fired on Kwajalein from California by mid-1970 and shot down by interceptor missiles there—were disclosed in testimony released by an appropriations subcommittee.

Lt. Gen. A. D. Starbird, Safeguard system manager, told the subcommittee the tests will involve the Safeguard detection radars, long range Spartan interceptor missiles and short range Sprint interceptors which will be deployed at sites in Montana and North Dakota.

Most Safeguard deployment money for fiscal 1970—$746 million has been authorized—is in another bill not scheduled for congressional action until December. But the bill approved today includes $2.5 million for the Safeguard command center in the Cheyenne Mountain complex deep under the Rockies near Colorado Springs, Colo.

The $14.1 million for Kwajalein is for expansion of facilities which will not be completed until after the tests have begun.

Strikers Slate Funds Conclave

NEW YORK (UPI)—The largest of 13 unions striking the General Electric Corp. plans to hold a special convention to raise money to support the nationwide walkout now in its 17th day.

Spokesmen for the 90,000-member International Union of Electrical Workers (IEU) said Monday the special meeting would be held in New York Nov. 21. The IUE has had no formal bargaining sessions with the company since the strike began Oct. 27.

A G.E. spokesman said Monday he hoped IUE officials would soon return to the bargaining table in New York. IUE officials have been negotiating in Pittsburgh with the Westinghouse Electric Corp.

Statement Due Soon On Toliver Pay Raise

Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas, investigating circumstances surrounding a pay raise for a Sausalito School District administrator, today said he will make a statement next week on whether it was granted legally.

Thomas met with Dist. Supt. Phillip W. Schneider, Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino and three board members Monday.

He said they told him that the 12.2 per cent raise to $1,274 for James T. Toliver, assistant to the principal at Martin Luther King School was granted during an open session on June 16.

(The board took no action June 16 on Toliver's request, but asked him to meet in closed session with the trustees the following Monday night, according to an Independent-Journal reporter who was present and so reported in the I-J June 17).

The board's position now is that Toliver asked for a closed session to discuss his salary on June 23 after the raise had already been granted but that the board refused to discuss the matter in a closed meeting.

Earlier, Schneider had said that the failure of the minutes to record the granting of the raise was his mistake. Both Schneider and Trustee David E. Friedham said last month that Toliver's salary had been discussed in closed session.

Granting — or even discussing — a salary raise secretly is a violation of the Ralph M. Brown Act, which governs the conduct of private meetings of public bodies.

In addition to Friedheim, Trustees James E. Muldoon and C. Gerald Clear were present at Monday's discussion.

Dog Control Is Endorsed

The Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce yesterday endorsed a petition, signed by 61 downtown merchants, urging stricter controls of roaming dogs, president Ben A. Farlatti reported.

Farlatti said a monthly report of dog bites issued by the Marin County Humane Society indicated there were five times as many dog bites per capita in Tiburon as in the rest of Marin County.

The City of Belvedere had no dog bites reported for September or October, Farlatti said, while Tiburon had 23 reported in October and approximately the same number in September.

Dance Classes Passes Offered

Free introductory passes for folk and Balkan dance classes will be given by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department, director Andrew J. Snyder Jr. announced today.

The passes, which are available at city hall, are for the beginning class at 8 p.m. Thursdays or the intermediate and advanced class which meets at 8:30 p.m. Fridays both at Davidson Junior High School.

The passes will be good until June 1970. The classes normally cost $1 per person.

State To Receive Redwood Groves

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The State Park and Recreation Commission will receive gifts of eight memorial redwood groves, valued at more than $400,000, during Friday's meeting scheduled in San Francisco.

The memorial groves, to be given the state through the Save-the-Redwoods League, consist of 130 acres of redwoods in three state redwood parks and are on a matching fund basis.

A 20-acre plot in the Jedediah Smith Redwoods State Park is valued at $200,000. Two gifts totaling 30 acres and valued at $40,000, will be made in the Del Norte Coast Redwoods State Park. Six other memorial groves, all located in the Prairie Creek Redwoods State Park in Humboldt County, total 80 acres and are valued at $176,000.

During the commission meeting, a discussion is scheduled on regulating dogs in the state parks. For the past two years, an experimental rule has allowed campers to keep their dogs with them overnight. The commission will review the reported results and make recommendations to the director.

Anti-Reagan Youth Feeling Surfaces

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A call for Gov. Ronald Reagan's defeat if he runs for reelection next year has drawn rousing applause from delegates to the conference on youth he called.

The governor came in for intense criticism yesterday at the closing session of the two-day conference, which drew young people from sub-teens to college age from 47 northern counties, along with adult advisers, including a delegation of 100 from Marin.

But the youths, led by Negro and Mexican-Americans, took leadership of the final session away from adults and spent the afternoon generally calling for young people of all races to unite in seeking changes in American society.

Blacks and Mexican-Americans frequently criticized Reagan for cutting $4.5 million out of a $5 million appropriation passed by the Legislature to provide free lunches at school for poor children.

One Mexican-American youth said "the governor objected to feeding hungry children ... We're going to feed those children ... and we're going to get rid of Ronald Reagan" at the ballot box in 1970.

That drew a big round of applause.

A Japanese youth from San Francisco called the meeting "just a big show for the governor."

Many young people of all races had complained during the two days that young people especially from minority groups, didn't have a big enough say in making decisions concerning the conference.

That feeling finally surfaced in action when an adult, Ronald Lambert, tried to begin the final session at which a panel of young people was to react to the conference.

He was booed so loudly he couldn't continue, and youths pushed forward to the microphone. When it appeared the meeting might be completely disrupted, two black youths from San Francisco — George Davis and Virgil Pinckney — succeeded in calming things down.

Lambert was replaced by Davis as leader with the approval of the elderly white woman who was conference chairman, Mrs. W. W. Wood.

The rest of the afternoon was given over to speeches, mainly by minority group youths, on unifying to force the adult establishment to make changes sought by young people.

Spencer Williams, head of the State Human Relations Agency, told the delegates at the end that "many constructive recommendations" had been made by them in earlier discussions.

He promised consideration of the recommendations, and told the young people they should work actively in their home towns to make the changes in society they feel necessary.

Also awarded at a Geological Society banquet were gold medals to Dr. Harold C. Urey of the University of California and Dr. A. Francis Birch of Harvard for distinguished achievements in geological sciences.

JOHN H. GLENN JR.
In political orbit again?

John Glenn Again Eyeing Senate Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — Space hero John H. Glenn Jr., who aborted one run for the U.S. Senate from Ohio, has indicated he's on the verge of launching a second attempt.

Former astronaut Glenn, the first American to orbit the earth, spent yesterday in Washington conferring with political advisers, Democratic National Chairman Sen. Fred Harris and other party officials.

"We've been looking into this for some time," said Glenn after the day's conferences, "and if things keep looking as favorable as they have, hopefully we'll have an announcement in the near future."

The seriousness of his intentions were underlined by his leaving New York, where he has been associated with Royal Crown Cola, and moving to Columbus.

He declined to confirm or deny reports he has resigned at Royal Crown. "We've had some changes in my status at Royal Crown," he said, adding he'll leave the formal announcement up to the firm.

Glenn, who made his earth orbit in 1962, ran against Sen. Stephen M. Young in the 1964 Democratic primary but dropped out after receiving head injuries in a bathtub fall.

Young left the field wide open last month by announcing that he considers himself, at 80, to be too old for another term.

Glenn, 48, listed the organization and financial support he has found as favorable factors in his pending decision.

Modern Day 'Alice' Sets Novato Run

A modern version of "Alice in Wonderland" will be presented by the drama department at Novato High School at 7 p.m. tomorrow in the old gymnasium for the students of the school.

The play will then be presented at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and Nov. 21 and 22 for the public, according to director Russell Dreosch.

The production will utilize new techniques to aid in the fantasy: films, slides, black lights, strobe lights and overhead projectors.

Another inovation will be the use of two Alices, and in some scenes both will be on stage at the same time. They are played by identical twins Meggan and Wendy Henerlau.

Mary Hunter plays the part of the white rabbit; Claudia Humphries the mock turtle; Guy Ridley the mouse, and Paula Grewe the white queen.

Battle Shaping On Extradition Of Skyjacker

ROME (UPI)—American lawyer Marvin Mitchelson said today he will fight extradition to the United States for Raffaele Minichiello because the legal climate in Italy is more sympathetic toward the hijacker.

Minichiello, a U.S. Marine Corps veteran of Vietnam, faces a possible death sentence in the United States for forcing a Trans World Airlines crew to fly him 6,702 miles from California to Rome Oct. 31 in the world's longest hijack.

In Italy, he could be imprisoned for 30 years on eight charges including abduction and violence.

Another Library Board Vacancy

Philip F. Brown has announced his resignation from the San Rafael Library Board.

Brown, a veteran member of the board said Monday's meeting was the last he could attend, because of illness of his wife.

The resignation leaves the board short two members. Harold H. Fulkerson resigned last month.

Remaining members are Eleanor G. Murray, president; Ella Mae Minneman, and Bryce W. Anderson.

The vacancies will be filled by city council appointment. The council may appoint one of its own members to the board if it so desires.

Moon's Passage Helps Locate Faint Planets

By SHERMAN WALKER

On Nov. 3 Jupiter and Venus were only one-half degree apart in the predawn sky. Although we cannot see their closest approach, they were still very close when visible to us. On. Nov. 6 the moon passed 2 degrees south of Uranus.

On Nov. 7 the moon passed 4 degrees south of Jupiter, and on Nov. 8 Venus was 5 degrees north of the moon.

The moon was new on Monday and will be at perigee, the closest part of its orbit to the earth, tonight. The moon passes 2 degrees south of Mars on Saturday. We are leaving Mars behind as earth goes on its long trip around the sun. Both earth and Mars make this journey, but earth, in its inside orbit, goes a shorter distance and travels faster, too. We catch up with Mars in slightly more than two years. But since we are already well on the way it will be in about 18 months.

On Sunday Mercury is exactly on the opposite side of the sun from us. This is called superior conjunction. The moon enters its first-quarter phase on Nov. 16.

The moon passes 7 degrees north of Saturn on Nov. 21, is full on Nov. 23 and reaches apogee — the most distant part of its orbit — on Nov. 28.

The best time to identify a planet, using this column, is when the moon is passing the planet. Once located, it is easy to follow the planet from night to night.

The last-quarter phase of the moon starts on Dec. 1. On Dec. 3 Venus is less than a degree south of Neptune. On Dec. 5 the moon will pass 5 degrees south of the giant planet Jupiter.

Districts' Securities Role Is Taken Over

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest has assumed jurisdiction over the California Districts Securities Commission, which has gone out of existence as a separate entity and became a part of the state treasury.

The commission had served to protect the public against the sale of unsound securities by local agencies; maintain good credit ratings for local districts by promotion of sound financial programs; and prevent excessive indebtedness.

More Tax Relief

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — State Controller Houston I. Flournoy has mailed an additional 7,032 checks of $70 each to Californians certified by their county assessors as eligible to receive the Homeowners Property Tax Relief payments. It was the sixth distribution.

Rock Hurts Girl

Judy Marie Johnson, 9, of 51 Mariposa Street, San Rafael, was treated Monday for a lacerated forehead at Kaiser Foundation Hospital after being struck with a rock thrown by a small boy on a hillside near Trinity Lutheran Church on Woodland Avenue, according to San Rafael police.

Belated Inquest Held On Egypt's King Tut

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — British scientists held an inquest on King Tut, the boy ruler of ancient Egypt who died 33 centuries ago, and came up with their verdict recently: He met a violent end.

Modern medical detection methods have disclosed skull injuries never traced when the gold coffin was first found in 1922.

Prof. Ronald Harrison, anatomy professor at Liverpool University, who led a research team to the Valley of the Kings at Luxor to exhume the mummified remains and take X-ray photographs, said he hoped now King Tut would never be disturbed again.

ANCIENT CURSE

If that wish is fulfilled, maybe the ancient curse which has haunted so many of those associated with discovery of his tomb will finally be laid to rest.

Tutankhamen—as the King was officially known—died between the age of 18 and 20. He ruled Egypt for nine years in the 18th dynasty about 1352 BC. It was a time of turmoil and revolution and no one knew how the Pharaoh came to die so young.

Over the years Egyptologists have variously ascribed his death to a brain tumor, an aneurism of the arteries, even tuberculosis.

But Harrison, working in the tomb with a portable X-ray machine from Cairo University, has brought home X-ray plates which prove such theories wrong.

"If I were to hazard a guess as to how Tutankhamen died," said the professor with proper scientific caution, "I would presume death might have been caused by subdural haematoma."

That, in layman's language, is a collection of blood forming under the membrane covering the brain.

BLOW TO HEAD?

The X-rays showed a thinning of the occipital bone at the back of the skull, said Harrison, which could result from this condition. And there was a small gaping wound at the side of the skull, which looked like the Pharaoh had received a blow on the head.

"I couldn't say whether a sharp or blunt instrument was used," he said.

The new evidence on the cause of Tutankhamen's death is expected to cause widespread discussion among professional Egyptologists and may mean a reassessment of much historical thinking about the 18th Dynasty.

So may the British scienists other discovery, that a close degree of kinship exsited between Tutankhamen and his equally short-lived predecessor as Pharaoh, Smenkhkare. X-rays and measurements taken of the two Pharaohs skulls show they could have been brothers.

Robert C. Connolly of Liverpool University went even further by showing that both Tutankhamen and Smenkhkare belonged to the same blood group —A2 and MN—whereas only one in 10 of present day Egyptians belongs to even one of those groups.

FRAGILE BONES

Harrison described the remains of Tutankhamen as being in poor condition and very fragile.

"The head and neck were separate from the torso and so were the limbs," he said. "One leg broke at the knee when touched."

What about the curse?

That story was based on an inscription reported to have been found on the tomb: "Death shall come on swift wings to him that toucheth the tomb of Pharaoh."

The legend got launched when Lord Carnarvon, patron of the arts and financial backer of the 1922 expedition to Luxor, headed by archeologist Howard Carter, suddenly died in Cairo from a mosquito bite and pneumonia only six weeks after the tomb was opened.

The following year Prof. Ali Fahmy Bey, who was also at Luxor, was shot dead by his wife in a fashionable London hotel.

Sir Lee Stack, commander in chief of the Egyptian army who also attended, was assassinated in Cairo in 1924.

MORE DEATHS

The Hon. Richard Bethall, Carter's secretary, died in what were described at the time as mysterious circumstances in his club in 1929. A year later his father, Lord Westbury, jumped from the window of his apartment. A boy was killed by the funeral hearse which took his body to its grave. Bethall's widow committed suicide in 1956.

But, if some who saw the tomb opened met unexpected ends, others survived to ripe old age.

Prof. Percy Newberry lived to 80 before dying of natural causes in 1949. Sir Flinders Petrie, who spent an archeological lifetime delving around Pharaonic tombs, died in 1942 at 89. Almina, Countess of Carnarvon, survived her husband 47 years, dying last May at 92.

Carter himself was 66 when he died in 1939.

Some Egyptologists, including Herbert Winlock of New York's Metropolitan Museum, have scoffed all along at the story of a curse. Carter himself called it "myth and invention."

Harrison said he had received several letters from people telling of strange experiences after visiting the tomb.

"But I have yet to be convinced that what happened to them was more than could be accounted for by chance," he said.

Anyway he and his eight-man team felt well.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Anginal Pain Indicates Lack Of Blood Supply To Heart Area

VAN DELLEN

The heart muscle gets its blood supply through the coronary arteries. When arterioisclerosis narrows these vessels, the supply is reduced.

It may be adequate when the organ is quiet and beating at a normal rate but not when it is racing and pounding.

This explains why chest pain develops during excitement or physical activity and disappears when the patient is resting and calm.

ONCE THE VICTIM of angina recognizes this situation, he will do his best to avert attacks. In time, new vessels develop and, as circulation to the cardiac muscle improves, the individual can do more without encountering distress.

Angina sufferers should avoid hurrying, sudden strain, unaccustomed physical exertion, nervous tension and emotional upsets of all kinds. It is not difficult to determine what brings on an attack. In addition, many factors increase the frequency of these bouts.

FOR EXAMPLE, attacks are more likely to occur after eating, so it is wise to relax for 30 minutes after meals. Smaller portions also help. Overweight plays a role by increasing the work load of the heart; weight reduction leads to improvement.

Cold also encourages the frequency of attacks, hence extra precautions should be taken during the winter. Wear warm clothes and do not walk against the wind or shovel snow.

TOBACCO IS ON an individual basis. Smoking induces anginal pain in some and has no effect in others. Howerer, in general, most victims of angina are better off when they do not smoke. The relief that follows a cocktail stems from decreased apprehension and anxiety.

Should pain develop, nitroglycerin tablets afford prompt relief. Propranolol hydrochloride also is a good preventive.

SURGICAL PROCEDURES that improve circulation to the heart should be considered when the attacks cannot be controlled with medication.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

LOW METABOLISM

B.R. writes: What can be done for low metabolism? Does it also make one nervous?

REPLY

Thyroid extract will help if the individual has a metabolism below minus 15 and has other signs of hypothyroidism. As a rule, nervousness is not part of the picture.

COLON IRRIGATION

I.I.B. writes: Do colon irrigations help spastic bowel?

REPLY

No, and repeated irrigations may irritate. The bowel is self-cleansing. Colitis is best treated with foods that rest the digestive tract and drugs that relax the tightened intestinal muscles. Since this condition is of nervous origin, many victims get relief when they manage to go along on an even keel.

EXERCISE AFTER CORONARY

W.B. writes: You wrote that a person who has recovered from an attack of coronary thrombosis should keep physically active. Are there any special exercises he should do?

REPLY

Walking is best. There is however, no harm in golf, gardening, and swimming in a pool, provided the exertion does not cause shortness of breath, cough, palpitation or chest pain.

CRAVES BUTTERED BREAD

S.W. writes: I'm 15 and sometimes I can sit down and eat a whole loaf of bread and butter. Is this harmful?

REPLY

No, but keep your cravings three months apart.

TIRED EYES

A reader writes: What is the best remedy for tired eyes?

REPLY

Close the eyes for a few minutes periodically or look at something in direct contrast to what you have been doing. If reading is responsible for the feeling of fatigue, look out the window or watch TV. Bathing the eyes with cold water or a standard eye solution may refresh the orbits. Do you need glasses?

X-RAYING HERNIA

D. F. writes: Will a diaphragmatic hernia show up on an X-ray? Please tell me something about the symptoms.

REPLY

The X-ray is the best way to diagnose this condition The majority of victims have no symptoms. Others develop indigestion or abdominal pain, especially if they lie down after eating a heavy meal. The distress may disappear when standing or sitting up.

STARCH EATER

Miss B. writes: Does eating laundry starch harm the body?

REPLY

No, provided it is not used as a substitute for more essential nutriments such as blood-building foods.

Down The Middle On N. Ireland

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS played the conflict in Northern Ireland down the middle in its biweekly "60 minutes" last night.

Mike Wallace reported conditions and sentiment from the Protestant side while Harry Reasoner did the same thing on the Roman Catholic ground. Neither added much that was new to the story.

Most interesting segment of the program showed a Los Angeles lawyer explaining to a class of UCLA students ways to duck the draft or at least postpone induction. The attorney estimated he had handled some 1,600 draft cases and of these one client was in jail, 12 were drafted—and the rest were still civilians.

Student unrest and demonstrations have been the inspiration for numerous television scripts recently and ABC's "Mod Squad" got with it last night. The young undercover agents went on campus to solve a homicide and got into a student uprising.

The hour had a fresh, contemporary flavor—the young militants vs. the puzzled college personnel and police.

"Movie of the Week" that followed on the network was one of those good old action stories about a spy who gave up the business but could not get away from his past.

Robert Horton, once of "Wagon Train" was the ex-spy who had hung onto vital papers that both sides wanted. But Sebastian Cabot, playing a stony-hearted spy-master, nearly stole the show.

The ABC censor checking "The Spy Killer" was either napping or extraordinarily permissive: In one scene, our hero and an attractive young woman, definitely not his wife, were discussing the case casually while occupying twin beds in the girl's apartment.

Vandals Hit Crane Controls

Vandals during the weekend broke into the control booth of a large crane owned by the Lewis Taylor Jenkins Alberthaw Construction Co. of San Francisco located on top of Quail Hill in Northgate, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

They threw operator's tools around, dismantled a grease gun and smeared grease throughout the building, police said. Six windows were also broken in drilling rig and construction shacks.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Best bets on television tonight:

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 7:30 p.m. — "Hey, Hey, Hey — It's Fat Albert" is the first animated comedy special based on characters created by Bill Cosby.

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 8 p.m. — "Monsanto Night Presents Johnny Carson's Repertory Company in an evening of Comedy" offers a series of comedy sketches starring Johnny Carson, George C. Scott, Maureen Stapleton and Marian Mercer.

KQED (9), 8:30 p.m. — "Jazz at Concord" spotlights the music of Jean Luc Pont and the George Duke Trio, taped last August at the Concord Summer Festival.

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 9 p.m. — "Diana Ross and the Supremes and the Temptations on Broadway" is a one-hour musical-comedy special highlighted by popular Broadway melodies of the past and present, plus comedy sketches.

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 10 p.m. — Famous illustrations by Norman Rockwell will be brought to life in comedy and song by Jonathan Winters, Dick Smothers and Michele Lee on "Norman Rockwell's America," a one-hour musical-variety special. Rockwell also appears and a number of cameo guests are featured.

Marcos Looking Like The Winner

MANILA (AP) — Ferdinand E. Marcos looked more and more today like the first president of the Philippines to win reelection.

With about a fourth of the vote counted, Marcos was leading Sen. Sergio Osmena Jr. 1,348,097 votes to 872,111.

Returns from many rural areas were coming in slowly, but the lead for the 52-year-old incumbent president was growing steadily. He also had a strong lead in Manila, which in the past usually went to the opposition.

JIM GILMARTIN

Practice Needed For Grid Reunion

Kaa-waa-chhh, hooowaaach. kaaflooiee . . . . SPLAT!

Hm? Oh, pardon me. I'm just practicing for a reunion coming up Friday night.

The undefeated San Rafael High School football squad of 1944 will observe the 25th anniversary of its North Bay League championship and I've been salivating all week just getting in shape. My mouth waters.

You see, while guys like Jack Barnes and Val Nichelini and Davey Watts and Lindy Dickson and Dick Beyer were among the numerous physical heroes of that team, my main contribution was spit. Hell, I was the most valuable sprayer.

Let me explain: We had a good kicking unit composed of Ray Taylor, the center, Don Collins, the kicker, and me, the holder. Now, just before the snap from center I would expectorate on the turf to mark the spot where I would place the ball, giving both center and kicker a target. Clever? Man, we had depth.

Exercising Pituitary Gland

We went through quite a ceremony after each TD, as you can well imagine. In the huddle I'd kaawaachh up a storm, exercising my pituitary gland much like a weightlifter flexes his muscles before each lift. The water boy didn't know if he should give me a towel or a distemper shot.

Then, poised for action in a kneeling position, I would let one fly. "Atta boy, Gil, give it to 'em," my teammates would shout.

The crowd roared, "Spit 'em again, spit 'em again, harder, HARDER!"

Collins, by now a connoisseur of rare saliva, would step back in admiration and gush, "Beautiful", dipping in a toe to test the temperature and polish his cleats. Who cared what the sanitation department thought? We seldom missed putting across our point.

Actually, I'd established my reputation as an expectoration expert as a lad in Fairfax during World War II. In a child's imagination I flew 34 emissions over Germany and, with my built-in Norden bomb sight, could hit a popsicle stick . . . I mean a Nazi U-boat. . .at 15 paces on the dead run.

The Fastest In The West

Also, occasionally we'd get mad at each other and engage in spit wars. I couldn't fight a lick, but I had the fastest tongue in the west.

This reputation earned me a tryout with the high school football squad because Coach Paul Miller was scouting around for a holder. "You're my man," he said one day after watching me hit a falling leaf at 10 yards without dribbling on my blouse.

Practices were fun. While the other guys would be blocking, tackling, passing and kicking, I'd be over in a corner kaa-waa-chhhing to my heart's content.

After a while I got to be a pretty good faker, too. Once in a while, just for laughs, I'd muster up a particularly sonorous kaawaachh and then quickly swipe my hand past my mouth to make a big, juicy "thwaaat" sound and everybody'd hit the deck. Ha-ha-ha. I used to do this at parties, too, and almost earned an audition with the Major Bowes Amateur Hour. I called it my special dry Gilmartini.

Anyway, getting back to our championship season, there was only one minor flaw to our kicking system and that almost proved disastrous.

And Then It Happened!

It happened during a game against Napa and we Bulldogs were enjoying our finest and wettest-offensive performance of the year, scoring touchdowns right and left.

Kaawaach . . . 7-0 . . . hoowaacchhh . . . 14-0 . . . thwaaatt . . . 21-0 . . . splatt . . . 28-0 . . . and then it happened.

Lining up for the 35th point, I went into my kawaachh routine. Nothing. Hooowaaachhh. Nothing.

Horrors. I'd shot my wad. My well runneth dry. After the fifth touchdown, I was a complete washout.

That was before Gatorade and after Gunga Din so I was left high and dry.

And Collins simply went to pieces. Hell no, he didn't make the conversion. I think he missed the ball completely. Without my guidance he was an All-American out. I was the secret to his success.

Well, we survived the drought and went on to win the title. And the old Bulldogs will reassemble Friday night to relive those days of glory.

And I hope they remember, Y.A. Spittle, the All-Leak Waterback. I'm forever blowing bubbles . . . Thwaat!

Fenton, Forry (Again) Win Grid Honors

Dewey Forry, Terra Linda High School's instant rushing king, and one of the Trojans' faceless wonders are the Independent-Journal sports department's preps of the weeks in the wake of Terra Linda's crucial and bruising 14-8 victory over Redwood at San Rafael High School Saturday.

Chris Fenton, guard and linebacker, led a spirited Terra Linda defense that shut of Redwood's vaunted running game while Forry gained 126 yards rushing, and picked off a key interception on defense. Between Forry and the Terra Linda defense lay the ball game. They were the difference.

Forry's selection is unprecedented. He was chosen prep of the week last week after picking up 156 yards in his first start at a running back slot to lead the Trojans to a 22-6 win over San Marin. No high school gridder has ever been picked prep of the week on successive weeks.

Forry, a 6-foot, 195-pound senior, is a boy who could probably step in as quarterback and do a good job. He started out as a tight end and is still one of the Trojans' top pass receivers. With the switch to running back, which was necessitated by the Trojans' depleted running force, Forry has taken over the Marin County Athletic League rushing lead on just two games, plus some end around yardage picked up as a tight end.

Forry proved to be a big difference in the game Saturday. His running, quite a bit of which comes on sheer free-wheeling effort, established the Trojans' ground game and set the tone of the game. He set up the Trojans' first touchdown when he picked off a Redwood screen pass and returned it to the Giants' 15-yard line. And his 38-yard run set up the Trojans' second touchdown, which he scored himself from three yards out. Quite a night.

Fenton is another story. At 6-1, 195 pounds, he seems to be one of those tough, sturdy, quick linemen that show up at Terra Linda with amazing regularity. They all have numbers in the 60s and 70s and nobody hears about them until all-league time rolls around.

"This guy is just fantastic," Terra Linda coach Don Lucas said. "He was all over that field on defense. He's done a tremendous job for us all year. He's a leader out there."

Fenton was pretty much the architect and chief culprit of the Terra Linda defense Saturday, and played boths ways almost all of the game, except for seven or eight plays on offense.

Which is pretty amazing, since Fenton hadn't practiced since Tuesday, after suffering a pulled muscle in his neck and a nasty bump on his head during one of Terra Linda's more boisterous scrimmages.

"There was a lot more pressure in this game," Fenton said. "You could feel it, but we were still confident. That was still there."

GOLDEN RETRIEVER

Bow Is Two Dogs In One: A Champion And A Pal

By GARY TISCHLER

He's the kind of dog that six-year-old children and middle-aged children fall in love with.

Big, with a rich, golden-brown coat that looks even richer in the fall, he seems to have the kind of instinctive good nature that is rare in a lot of animals and most people. He looks physical, huggable.

His name is Bow and he is also a champion and a precocious one at that, which calls for a different kind of admiration.

EARLY CHAMP

The golden retriever, grandson of the highest-scoring golden retriever in the history of American Field Trial Club competition, is already a champion, and he's only three years old.

His owner is Desmond Mactavish Jr. of San Rafael, who has trained and handled him since acquiring Beau from the Golden Retriever Kennel in Novato. Bow's official name is Ronakers—Novato Cain.

"I bought him when he was eight weeks old," said Mactavish, a personable 26-year-old real estate developer. "Originally, I wanted him for a duck dog, a hunting dog. We didn't realize his potential, but we took him to a field trial when he was one year old and he did so well, that I got bit by the bug."

Since then, Bow, under the astute amateur training of his owner, has acquired the necessary credentials for a national championship in an area usually dominated by labradors. In order to gain an AFC national title, a dog has to earn at least 15 points in competition and have at least one national win. Beau has 18 points and two wins, a pace which is amazing for his age and breed.

IMPRESSIVE

Bow won at the Sierra Nevada Retriever Trial Club in June and at the Shasta Cascade. But his most impressive showing to date has been a second-place finish in the grand national retriever trials at Carnation Milk Farms in the state of Washington on Oct. 5, which in effect, made him No. 2 in the nation.

Bow could have a shot at his grandfather's record of 180 lifetime points, acquired in 10 years.

"People are just dying to see if he can do it," Mactavish said.

TEST SKILLS

Field trials, in effect, test a dog's retrieving skill, performance under pressure, agility, speed, sense of direction and his training. Bow has all of these qualities in abundance, including the speed, something rare in golden retrievers, who are not known for their swiftness.

Bow, with his background and breeding, has a large amount of native ability and instinct, but a dog is only as good as his trainer, his master, and this makes his achievement unusual all over again, since Mactavish is an amateur who has literally spent thousands of hours training Bow.

It takes work, constant work and Mactavish, when not in actual competition, used dead birds or anything that came in handy to get Bow ready for the difficult trials.

ON LOOKS

Having already made a considerable impact in field trials on a national level, Bow will be taken on the show circuit to acquire his bench championship, based on looks rather than field ability. If he does it in February on the Texas and Arizona circuit, he will be the first golden retriever to have both a field trial and bench championship since 1958.

Bow, in a sense, is two dogs. There is the dog that scampers around like a puppy in the off-season, warm, friendly, not quite as sharp as he can be since he senses that the pressure is off. A dog you want to pet instinctively.

But watch him again as Mactavish puts him throught his paces in his back yard. All the loosesness leaves him. It's as if some kind of silence has descended on Bow. He tenses into a hushed awareness, eyes and ears only for his master and for whatever he is to retrieve. And he is quick and graceful, amazingly so.

In fact, he's quite a dog.

Hunter Safety Course Scheduled

Fee for the course is $5. The course, for youths ages 12-18, a requirement for obtaining a California hunting license.

Yacht Race Leaders Remain A Mystery

LONG BEACH (AP)—Leadership in the Long Beach-La paz yacht race remained in doubt today but race officials were guessing that it was a close contest between Blackfin and Windward Passage, two 73-foot ketches that have dueled hotly in ocean racing before.

Whether the yachts were in trouble on a rough ocean or maintaining silence to keep from disclosing position to each other was not known.

Windward Passage and two other competitors failed to answer roll call yesterday.

Blackfin had failed to answer Monday but yesterday the owner's San Francisco office phoned race headquarters that the yacht had reported it was well in the lead and in no trouble.

A storm system off the Baja California coast had blacked out radio communication with fleet members as they reached midpoint in the 950-mile race that began Saturday.

Blackfin is owned and skippered by Ken DeMeuse of the St. Francis Yacht Club, San Francisco. Windward Passage is skippered by Mark Johnson of Hawaii's Lahaina Yacht Club.

In the Transpacific Yacht Race last July Blackfin accused Windward Passage of radioing false position reports which caused the Blackfin to relax while Windward Passage crossed the finish line an hour ahead.

The protest was denied but Blackfin was awarded first-to-finish honors when Windward Passage was penalized for a starting line foul.

Knicks Turn Back Sagging Warriors

2nd Half Victory For N.Y.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A close second-half defense against Jeff Mullins' shooting and the come-from-behind scoring of Dave DeBusschere gave the New York Knicks a 116-103 victory last night over San Francisco's Warriors.

New York's victory over the only team that has defeated them this National Basketball Association season ran the Knicks' record to 15-1 and extended their lead in the league's eastern division to 5½ games.

Mullins pumped in 30 points for the losers, but a tight defense limited him to six in the second half while the Knicks were pulling away.

DeBusschere threw in 18 points for the winners in the second half and ended the game with 24 markers. That tied him with Walter Frazier, also of New York.

San Francisco had held a 64-59 halftime lead.

San Francisco, now 6-6, in the western division, plays the leading Atlanta Hawks Friday in the Cow Palace. Atlanta has an 11-3 record.

Seals Host Canadiens

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Seals battle the Montreal Canadiens tonight at Oakland Coliseum, 8 o'clock, and try to break up a Montreal winning run in the National Hockey League.

Oakland took a beating at the hands of the Boston Bruins Monday and coach Fred Glover has been less than happy with a lack of aggressiveness on the part of the Seals.

The Seals had five power-play chances in the second period of the Boston game but took advantage of none of them.

The Seals stretched out their winless streak to five.

TAYLOR TO START?

Possible Switch In 49er Defense

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco 49er coach Dick Nolan may stick with the defensive backfield switch he instituted against the Los Angeles Rams.

Nolan said yesterday that Roosevelt Taylor, obtained in a trade from the Chicago Bears, may start at free safety with Mel Phillips moving to the strong (tight end) side and Alvin Randolph going to the bench.

EXPERIENCE

"He's got a lot of experience," Nolan said of Taylor. "Phillips did a good job in there, too."

The 49ers, 1-6-1 in the National Football League Coastal Division, will be attempting to bounce back from a 41-30 loss to the Rams when the Baltimore Colts invade Kezar Stadium Sunday.

Nolan indicated Kermit Alexander's shoulder separation may heal in time for the Colt game. Johnny Woitt has been starting in place of Alexander the last three weeks at cornerback.

Baltimore also has several questionable performers due to injuries.

SWITCHES

Flanker Willie Richardson had to take over at tight end when both John Mackey and Tom Mitchell were unable to play against Green Bay last Sunday. Ray Herkins moved over to one wide receiver spot and rookie Eddie Hinton had to come in at the other side when veteran flanker Jimmy Orr also was hurt. However, Mackey may be back in action against the 49ers.

Injured Raiders Hope To Return To Lineup

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland Raiders may regain the services of three injured frontliners as the club continues its pursuit of the Kansas City Chiefs for first place in the Western Division of the American Football League.

Raider coach John Madden said yesterday that tight end jbilly Cannon, running back Pete Banaszak and left linebacker Bill Laskey all might return to action Sunday at the Oakland Coliseum against the San Diego Chargers. The game already is a sellout.

BRUISED HIP

Cannon, who had bruised a hip, saw duty on special teams last weekend when the Raiders bombed Denver, 41-10. Banaszak has been suffering from a pulled groin muscle and Laskey from a pulled leg muscle.

Two key Chargers probably will miss the Oakland game. Wide receiver Gary Garrison, a fine complement to flanker Lance Alworth, still is nursing a bad shoulder. Offensive tackle Ron Mix still is suffering from a knee injury that has kept him out of action since Nov. 2.

TRAILS

Alworth now trails the Raiders' Fred Biletnikoff in the AFL receiving race. Biletnikoff has 41 receptions and also has 10 touchdown catches to pace the league.

Oakland will be rioting for their hated rivals, the New York Jets, to bop Kansas City Sunday in New York. The Raiders trail the Chiefs by half a game and will play Kansas City twice before the season is out.

Are Seals Getting Intimidated On Ice?

OAKLAND — Next to a few weeks on a health farm, the best thing for the Oakland Seals is a long journey. Perhaps it's healthier for the hockey club's fans.

The schedule makers, those brutal bullies, have sent the dismal Greenies away from Nov. 15 through Dec. 2. They surely can't sound as clumsy on the radio as they've been appearing live and in color at the Coliseum Arena.

One can fault the slate drafters of the Oakland ineptness lately, but that's only part of the local skating nonsense. The Seals, unhesitatingly, are frozen in the ice of their own indifference. They are consistently intimidated by the other guy; they hear bladed footsteps at every line; they are spectators, not participants.

Sure, it's easy to be cruel about kids playing over their heads for a month, facing 10 old-line Eastern Division foes in 12 games from Oct. 24 through Nov. 23. Of course, you can condemn lads who go from Oakland to Philadelphia to Boston and back to Oakland for four games in the space of six nights.

But this criticism goes beyond the fraying schedule harassment. Rested or unrested they are not putting out even 75 per cent. And their leadership is befuddled as to why.

I SPENT one recent game seated in the stands with executive vice president Bill Torrey and General Manager Frank Selke Jr. "Why doens't so and so do such and such? they kept asking each other. I finally turned and inquired, "WELL, why not?"

"That's what I'd like to know," said the usually wise Selke.

Fred Glover is not a tame fellow, or a pussycat coach. His frustration must be immense as Torrey and Selke ask him, "WELL, why not?"

VETERANS HAVE been roundly and openly criticized by team leadership Glover has tried putting three rookies who seem interested in exerting themselves on the same line. These lads do hustle. They also make mistakes—for instance, the New York Rangers scored three times in one period with Seal rookies Featherstone, O'Donoghue and Hardy on the ice. That same evening Oakland was badly beaten because goalie Gary Smith saw fit not to stoop.

One might think the answer is to farm the vets to Providence and bring up more kids, who at least would come to play. But this is no answer at all, for on their current roster the Seals have performers capable of getting into the playoffs—and with any luck into the Stanley Cup finals.

LOSING IS ONE thing, but being intimidated into defeat is quite another. In any given game, two defensemen can be counted on to bother their goalie more than the enemy. They show little inclination toward moving the puck toward the other team's net. What's truly pitiful is that it's not always the same two.

Each front line will give its all on only one or two turns—perhaps three out of 20 minutes of ice time. Hardly what you'd call enthusiasm.

Remarkably, this group of indolent creatures is beginning to attract fans, to interest people in a sport that's more exciting than any when well-played. This interest can wane as quickly as it grew. There are more people— and more boos. Fans won't be intimidated even if their hockey club is.

Stanford Works On Pass Rush

STANFORD (AP) — Coach John Ralston's Stanford football team is concentrating on the pass rush they will throw at the Air Force Academy Saturday.

"We worked on our pass rush and our pass offense Tuesday," Ralston said, "using anticipated plays we think the Air Force will use."

Defensive end Dennis Moore will be sidelined for the remainder of the season following an operation. Ralston said he will move Jeff Seaman into Moore's slot.

Greg Sampson is not expected to play Saturday as his injured knee is "still doubtful." Sampson injured it recently in an auto accident.

Rohnert Park golf pro Bob Porter is getting ready for the club's first Rohnert Park Invitational tournament Sunday.

Forty-four golfers had signed up as of yesterday, but Porter expects from 60 to 100 players will be on the municipal course competing for prizes in gross, net and Callaway divisions. The $8 entry fee includes green fee, lunch and refreshments.

FINAL ROUND of the Indian Valley Rosehill Tournament has been put off until next Sunday, with the team of Art Sears-Tom Hardcastle going against Orv Orman-Jim Creighton on the Novato links. Last Sunday's consolation flight winner was Brady Capehart, 3 and 2 victor over Al DeLuca.

BARBARA WILLIAMS and Elwood Frink teamed up to win the Best Ball Partners tournament at Marin Country Club in Novato last Saturday, their 64 net one stroke better than Mr. and Mrs. Richard Warrington, runners up.

Winners in the Rohnert Park three club (golfers could take only three clubs with them) tourney last Sunday were Bob Hickman, Dave Livey and Bill Blaylock, scoring a net 74.

PEACOCK GAP happenings this weekend include the San Rafael club's turkey shoot Saturday starting at 8 a.m., and a mixed foursome tourney Sunday.

RAYMOND F. LUCE, member of the Meadow Club in Fairfax, is one of the 16 directors this year in the Northern California Golf Association, following elections last Wednesday at Silverado Country Club in Napa.

Turkey Shoot Set For This Weekend

The San Rafael Police Association will hold its second annual turkey shoot at the San Rafael Police Pistol Range off Francisco Boulevard, Saturday and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Turkey prizes will be offered. Shotguns and ammunition will be available.

Unbeaten Frosh Football Teams Clash Tomorrow

The unbeaten freshman football teams of Redwood and Terra Linda high schools collide at Redwood's Giantsville Stadium in Larkspur tomorrow at 3:30 p.m.

Both teams are 5-0 on the season but Redwood, coached by former Terra Linda assistant Jess Payan, hasn't allowed a touchdown while scoring at least 20 points per game.

The frosh Trojans are hoping to complete a Terra Linda Sweep of Redwood, since both the varsity and junior varsity have already won their football games.

Knicks Continue Streak

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Now that they're past the crucial spot in their schedule, the New York Knickerbockers can relax again. They don't play San Francisco again until Jan. 7.

The Warriors are the only National Basketball Association team to solve the Knicks this season. And that came way back on Oct. 23. New York has won 10 straight since then, the latest a 116-103 revenge job on the Warriors last night.

In other NBA games yesterday, Milwaukee mauled Boston 129-118, Atlanta ripped Philadelphia 124-107, Detroit downed Los Angeles 110-102 and Chicago defeated Seattle 106-100.

ABA SCORES

In the American Basketball Association, Los Angeles tripped Dallas 120-117 in overtime and Washington nipped New York 102-101.

The Knicks didn't exactly have a piece of cake against the Warriors. New York was down by 10 after the first period and five at halftime. But the rampaging Knicks took control in the third period and then won going away.

The victory gave New York a 15-1 record, one short of the all-time best NBA start ever. St. Louis was 16-1 in 1967.

Flynn Robinson and Jon McGlocklin shredded Boston's defenses and Lew Alcindor dominated the boards and poured in 28 points as the Bucks beat the Celtics.

31 POINTS

Robinson had 31 points and McGlocklin 26 while Alcindor forced the Celtics into foul trouble.

Atlanta, enjoying almost as hot a streak as the Knicks, knocked off Philadelphia with Lou Hudson and Joe Caldwell carrying most of the offensive load.

Hudson had 30 points and Caldwell 27 as the Hawks won their eighth straight and 11th in 14 starts this season. Bill Cunningham had 37 for the 76ers.

Eddie Miles, Terry Dischinger and Jimmy Walker moved Detroit past Los Angeles. Miles had 24 points—16 in the first half when the Pistons jumped off in front.

SONOMA COUNTY FOOTBALL

Last Time For Great Passing Combo

The greatest passing combination in Petaluma High School history will click for the last time Friday night when the Trojans meet Cardinal Newman High of Santa Rosa at Petaluma's Durst Field, 8 p.m.

In other southern Sonoma county games, Rancho Cotate (Rohnert Park) travels to Piner (Santa Rosa) for a 3 p.m. contest Friday, Sonoma hosts Healdsburg Friday night and St. Vincent (Petaluma) entertains Mendocino Saturday night at Durst Field.

Friday will mark the last time Petaluma's Fred Klemenok-to-Bob Garcia passing combination operates, as both are seniors playing in their last game.

LEADS LEAGUE

Klemenok is a strong candidate for All-North Bay League honors at the quarterback spot as he leads the league in all passing departments. Klemenok has gone to the air 116 times this season, completing 76 passes for 1123 yards and 17 touchdowns. His completion average is 66 per cent.

ALL-LEAGUER

Garcia, a sure bet for the all-league split end spot and a nominee for all-Northern California, has hauled in 44 Klemenok aerials for 842 yards and 14 touchdowns. He leads the league in all three of those departments, and is also on top of the scoring race with 84 points.

Halfback Steve Hing will also be up for all-league honors, either at halfback or defensive end. Hing has carried the ball 104 times for 618 yards, an average of 6.1 yards-per-carry. He is also Petaluma's leading tackler on defense, picking up nearly eight unassisted tackles a game.

FACE CHAMPS

The Trojans face a tough opponent in Cardinal Newman, the unbeaten champions of the North Bay League Section II. The Cardinal attack is built around halfback Percy Grogans, who is Northern California's leading rusher and scorer.

Offensieve totals are not as high at Rancho Cotate, where the Cougars boast a well-balanced offensive attack with a tough defense.

Sophomore quarterback Steve Wlodarczyk has stayed mainly on the ground this season, using halfbacks Mike Stephens and brother Mike Wlodarczyk and fullback Charlie Barron heavily. When he does pass, Wlodarczyk tosses to the three backs or ends Don Iverson, Rod Logue or Mark Clary.

RANCHO COTATE

Rancho Cotate has a 1-3-1 mark in league play, having beaten Healdsburg and tied Sonoma. Their contest against defense-minded Piner will be the season's finale for both squads.

In Sonoma, quarterback Dan Briggs remains a question mark for the Healdsburg game. Briggs has been out the last two contests.

Briggs was among the area's leading passers when injured, having completed 34 of 92 passes for 354 yards and three touchdowns. His spot is being filled by Keith Poehlman and Cy Binh.

The Dragons have looked mostly to their running game since Briggs' injury, using backs Tom Xavier and Greg Monroe. Poehlman also runs a lot out of the quarterback position.

SONOMA: 1-2-2

Sonoma is 1-2-2 on the season, boasting a win over El Molino and ties with Analy and Rancho Cotate.

St. Vincent will play its final game as an independent Saturday night.

The Mustangs, 2-6 on the year, will once again depend heavily on their passing game against Mendocino. Sophomore signal-caller Herm Benedetti, who has been throwing around 30 passes a game, has one of southern Sonoma's better receivers in wide receiver Steve Johnson. Johnson has hauled in 26 passes for 581 yards and three touchdowns since moving to the position from quarterback in the Mustangs' fourth game this season.

St. Vincent will join the North Central League's Section II basketball season. It dropped from the Bay Counties League last spring and elected to play as an independent this fall while awaiting entrance into the NCL II.

A Boozy, Sentimental, Gaudy Book About Toots

The first time I met Toots Shor I was traveling, as a reporter, on the Nixon campaign train in 1952. My friend, Vince Flaherty, gave me a briefing. There would be: (1) no profanity if ladies were at the table; (2) no table-hopping, particularly not bothering celebrities if they were eating; (3) no dirty jokes; (4) No talking ill about anybody who was not there to defend himself.

"I DON'T want to join the Jesuits," I told him. "I just want a drink."

Toots, the Jewish Jesuit of 52nd Street, was the unlikeliest saloonkeeper east of Mike Romanoff. We ended up THAT night with his driving me home in his car at 4 in the morning because he was curious about Richard Bixon. He had Nixon (wrongly) figured as a guy who would never hit in the majors and was intrigued when I disagreed with him and told him no, he was wrong and that Adlai Stevenson would need to eagle in to win the tournament that year. Everyone in New York had Toots convinced Adlai could bogey in.

TOOTS WAS always curious about the world about him, or always anxious to get the word from "The Coast." "The Coast" was everything east of the Hudson. I knew we were friends when Toots called me a "creepy bum."

It was Gene Fowler who said of Toots, "Money was just something to throw off the back of trains." Or, maybe it was Toots who said it of Fowler. "Palship" was the key word with Toots. He had a code of honor as inflexible as old Heidelberg's and the muscle to enforce it. His place was as ruggedly masculine as a John Wayne movie. Chief Justice Warren used to eat there regularly. Toots had more Vice Presidents to dinner than the White House.

HIS REMARKABLE story is told by No. 1 pal Bob Considine in a book called starkly, "Toots." It's the story of a restaurateur without a single recipe in it. If Toots' place did have a recipe, it would go as follows: "Get a good piece of beef. Heat it." Toots always said he would have nothing on the menu he couldn't pronounce—or eat. A friend once described the cuisine there as "Early Logging Camp."

If you were in the sports world, you would go to Toots' if it were a soup kitchen. It was where-it-was happening during a World Series, a heavyweight fight, football play-off.

THE BOOK, like its subject, is boozy, sentimental, as gaudy as Broadway. There is a publisher's axiom that pals can never write good books about pals, but Considine never heard of it. Considine looks at Toots with affection, but never with awe. It reminds me of what a friend of mine said of Toots once when I asked him. "Toots," he said, "is a kind of a slob." Then, he thought a minute, and added: "In the nice sense of the word."

NEW YORK without Toots would be Philadelphia. If you're tapped out, just tell the proprietor. You never have to steal the silverware at Toots'. Some nights, the guys at the north end of the bar didn't have $4.25 among them. But they were all signing big tips.

Toots sold his joint for $1.5 million once and set the listed world record for going through it. "He was C.O.D. in 90 days." Considine quotes Bill Zeckendorf who paid Toots the dough, and was passing the hat himself in a few months, as saying.

TOOTS OPENED his new "Store" at about what it would cost for an ocean liner. He tried visiting Europe in his sabbatical, but spent most of his time sending postcards home and trying to find out how the Giants were doing. One postcard from Rome showed the ruins of the Colosseum and promised the pals, "I'll work on the rest of it tomorrow."

Hollywood, Broadway, Pennsylvania Avenue, even Whitehall, come together in Toots' with second base, the neutral corner, the tight end, the slip shod, the half-court press. In the middle of it stands Toots looking like something gloating over Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade, a happy man. As far as the eye can see are pals.

HE STANDS there with his broken knuckles and his ex-bouncer's face, but he's just 260 pounds of Newburg. His left ventricle is pure fudge, Gleason, Pat O'Brien, Crosby, Hope, the President, the Secretary of State, Baby, his beloved wife, or Rory, No. 1 son will be along any moment. The mortgage? Phooey? Bring me a brandy and send around over there to Tap City corner, ya Nazi.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

Not every bowler can hold his finishing position for a few seconds without hopping around, but it is a goal that should be attained. If you make a gradual, well-timed approach and avoid lunging with the ball at the last moment, you'll be able to hold your final position without effort.

INTERNATIONAL RACE

English Colt Triumphs

LAUREL, Md. (UPI) — England, winner of the inaugural running of the Washington D.C. International in 1952, finally had its second victory today, thanks to a stirring stretch charge by Karabas in the 18th running of the event at Laurel.

The big, husky colt with a grass-cutting stride carried jockey Lester Piggott to a length and one-quarter triumph over Hawaii, one of America's runners, with Czar Alexander, the other, in third place, half a length farther back.

The 1969 renewal of the race was supposed to be a match between the two U.S. representatives to decide the grass course champion of this country. If it did, the distinction went to Hawaii, a South African-born colt owned by Charles Engelhard of Far Hills, N.J.

Worden won the race for France back in 1953.

The victory marked Piggott's second straight triumph in the race. He was aboard Sir Ivor a year ago when that colt won for Ireland by beating Czar Alexander. Piggott was criticized for that ride even though he won when he rode Sir Ivor into a pocket in the stretch and got free only when a horse outside of him tired and stopped.

This time there was nothing to criticize. Piggott dropped Karabas alongside the rail and kept him there all the way. When he made his bid in the stretch the way was open this time, and Karabas roared down the straightaway with a powerful surge, overtaking both American horses on the way to victory. He paid $9.20, $3.60 and $2.80.

Hawaii, who picked up $25,000 for finishing second in the final race of his career, paid $2.80 and $2.20. Czar Alexander, owned by Gustave Ring, paid $2.60 and won $20,000.

Germany's Hitchcock was fourth with Sabinus of Brazil fifth and Don Florestan of Venezuela sixth. Each won $5,000 leaving Takeshiba-o, who finished seventh and last, the only starter to earn nothing.

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 12, the 316th day of 1969 with 49 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1920 Kenesaw Mountain Landis was named the first commissioner of baseball.

In 1925 Josef Stalin became the undisputed dictator of the Communist party in Russia when Leon Trotsky was expelled.

In 1941 Nazi soldiers were halted by the Russians at the outskirts of Moscow.

In 1968 the Supreme Court ruled the Arkansas anti-evolution law unconstitutional.

A thought for the day: Henrik Ibsen said, "The spirit of truth and the spirit of freedom . . .there are the pillars of society."

Safety Checks Block Tourists

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Nearly 5,000 vehicles have been denied entry to the N.Y. State Thruway since the superhighway began spot checks for mechanical defects three years ago.

The Thruway Authority reports it has inspected slightly over 100,000 vehicles during this period and turned back 4.1 per cent of them as unsafe for travel.

The most common defects were badly worn tires, faulty directional signals and defunct brake lights, the agency said.

An Early Squeeze Is Best Plan For Embarassing Foe

An observant child can learn quite a bit even when he is still in the cradle. An aunt of mine used to swoop down on me and hug me when I was less than a year old, and this taught me two useful lessons. First, to beware of aunts. Second, that the early squeeze was an embarrassing weapon. If you're wondering what this has to do with bridge, put yourself in South's place in today's hand.

LOW SPADE

West opened the five of spades, and South had to win with the queen. He saw that he could easily win eight tricks: four clubs, two diamonds and two spades. The hearts looked like the best bet for the ninth trick, so South got to dummy with a club to lead the jack of hearts for a finesse.

West won with the queen of hearts and returned the king of spades. South held up the ace but had to take the next spade. Now South thought of running the clubs, but it was too late. West discarded two diamonds on the third and fourth clubs, trusting to his partner to stop the suit.

South had to lead another heart since he would still make his contract if East had the ace of hearts or if the eight missing spades were divided 4-4. Unfortunately for South, West had the ace of hearts and enough spades to defeat the contract.

CHILDHOOD LESSON

East should have learned during his childhood that the early squeeze is the useful maneuver. After winning the first trick with the queen of spades South should run the four club tricks at once. This doesn't interfere with any of declarer's plans but may embarrass one of the defenders.

CLUB ROUND

West is embarrassed as early as the third round of clubs. If West discards a spade, South loses only two spades and two hearts. If West discards a diamond, declarer leads a low diamond from dummy and eventually gets a trick with dummy's seven of diamonds in addition to the ace and king.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ A Q 7
♥ K 10 6 3
♦ 8 4
♣ K J 10 9.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club.

The hand is just barely worth an opening bid. Start with the clubs on the theory that it seldom pays to open with a weak four-card major suit.

British Hospitals Attract Foreigners

LONDON (AP) — Almost half of the doctors training in British hospitals are from overseas, according to a Government report.

The Digest of Health Statistics said the proportion has risen from 40 per cent in 1964 to 48 per cent in 1969. The main increase was in the Senior House Officer grade which rose from 55 to 66 per cent.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Communication Gap Hits Small Holders

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have just read in a mewspaper column that the small investor doesn't get as much investment advice as the large investor. Well, I am a businessman myself so this doesn't surprise me. But I would like to know some of the options open to the small investor interested in self-education.—S.R.

A. A survey of security analysts employed primarily by brokerage firms, investment banks and mutual funds revealed that 72 per cent had reservations about the advice available to the small investor.

There are certainly many ways to surmount the alleged communications gap, if you are really interested. First, after you have read your newspaper's financial pages, check through the ads. Many of these from advisory services and brokerage houses offer trial subscriptions or special reports at minimal costs; take advantage of them.

Second, there are numerous daily, weekly and monthly publications devoted solely to the investment field, many of which should be available at your local newsstand. Browse through these and select the few that look most promising. It should not take long to determine which you find most helpful.

Your broker, particularly if his firm specializes in retail business, will be happy to give you a back copy of Standard and Poor's Stock Guide. Packed into this little book is a wealth of information, which will help you in comparing companies.

Give some thought as you go through your day to the companies behind the products or services that affect you. Some very profitable investment ideas have their origin in just such situations. By checking the company's record in your Stock Guide you can determine whether your ideas have investment merit. Your broker may then be able to send you additional information or a research brief on a particularly promising company.

If you have any reservations about the merits of an investment, don't make it. There are several thousand other publicly held companies to choose from.

Selective Issues Have A Good Day

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks lost ground today, but selective issues responded favorably to major industry news. Trading was moderately active, helped by some large block transactions which indicated more active participation by institutional investors.

A volume of around 12,000,000 shares ran well ahead of yesterday's pace.

Among the most active issues were city investing, on the strength of an early block of 411,700 shares at 29 3-4 in a cross-transaction, and Textron, which said THT 1969 earnings will be slightly ahead of a year ago.

Storer Broadcasting, which controls 86 per cent of Northeast Airlines, attracted considerable demand after Northeast and Northwest announced a tentative agreement to merge.

Electronics and oil followed irregular paths, with several issues moving a point or better in each direction.

Prices retreated on the American Stock Exchange in moderate turnover.

HEADS REALTY FIRM — Robert Grime of San Rafael has been appointed president of Frank Howard Allen and Co., succeeding Jeffory Morshead, who will remain active in the company's development and syndication divisions. Grimes was a sales engineer for six years at Westinghouse Electric Corp. before entering real estate in 1963. Since 1967 he has been manager of Allen's Kentfield office.

Threat Of Violence Shadows Demonstration

President Nixon, who has said he will not be influenced by demonstrations against the Vietnam War, will have that resolve put to the test for a second time this week end.

A repeat of the Oct. 15 "Moratorium Day" is scheduled Saturday, but with an ominous difference.

Last month's demonstrations were notably peaceful. But, because the New Mobilization Committee has insisted it will stage a march up Pennsylvania Avenue on Saturday despite Justice Department denial of a permit, there is danger that this time the protest may turn violent.

Alert to that danger, the army has placed troop units on notice they may be flown to Washington to put down the dissidence.

THE STAGE THUS is set for what could be a conflict even more disastrous in its consequences than that in Chicago during last summer's Democratic National Convention.

The New Mobilization Committee, which is organizing the Washington march, is not noted for discretion. One of its chairmen is David Dellinger, now on trial on Chicago on a charge of instigating riots at the Democratic convention.

Working with it in what may be a not-too-happy alliance are the Vietnam Moratorium Committee, principal organizer of the Oct. 15 observance, and various other groups opposed to the war. In this area, local demonstrations are being arranged by New Mobilization West and the Student Mobilization Committee, which share the same San Francisco office and telephone number, and the Bay Area Peace Action Council.

Leaders of New Mobilization West include Terence Hallinan, former Marinite who has figured in more than one unpeaceful protest, and Carlton Goodlett, San Francisco publisher who played a prominent role in last year's San Francisco State College disturbances.

NEVERTHELESS, as they did on Oct. 15, many thousands of citizens who can by no means be considered members of the "New Left" or agitators against the American form of government will participate out of deep feelings that they must make known their opposition to continued American war in Vietnam.

These many thousands have been insulted and angered by the administration's response to Oct. 15's peaceful demonstration, a response in which the vice president has been the principal spokesman.

Three times since Oct. 15, Vice President Agnew has taken occasion to insult and castigate those who marched, or sang, or just gathered in silence to make known their opposition to the Vietnam conflict. In his latest speech, on Monday, he called opponents of the war policy "the strident minority who arrogate unto themselves voice, virtue and power out of proportion to their numbers, and even more out of proportion to their abilities."

SUCH BERATING of people who take seriously the American guarantee of freedom of expression does nothing to "bring us together," which is the administration's avowed purpose.

Add to this the denial of a permit for a parade the New Mobilization Committee insists would be peaceful, and polarization and alienation become inevitable.

On Field Guides

For those bird-watchers or botanists who roam Marin, field guide in hand, seeking to identify various plants and animals at risk of being thought a bit eccentric, we found the following bit of information.

The Naturalist at Large writes in the November issue of Natural History: "Field guides are useful for introductions, for assigning names to multihued packages of fur, feathers, scales or chitin. To say nothing of all the leafy stuff. Names to a biologist, of course, are super-important. A biologist isn't really interested in a mushroom or a flea until he can name it. Field guides to him are like rubber stamps to librarians or explosions to hunters. Going to have your hang-ups, got to have your tools."

As his article points out, field guides are important tools for the amateur and the seasoned expert as well. Except for the most committed specialist, such as a beetle man, no one can expect to know everything.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

'Sexy' Cartoon Upsets Reader

Welcome to the era of the Playboy philosophy. We now wallow in an age when it is proper and desirable to virtually expose the naked breasts of voluptuous cartoon characters on the comic page (Nov. 6) per the enclosed clipping. Call the see-through blouse a form of sexual enlightenment if you wish — I call it a hang-up. (Clipping enclosed was "There Ought To Be a Law" cartoon of Nov. 6. — Editor.)

I assume that the screening of materials for publication is a routine procedure. Perhaps you would consider raising your moral standards. If people want to see toilet wall graffito there are surely many places of low repute where this can be done. As it happens, I have no desire to be associated with such shallow mentality.

'Non-Profit' Bonds Draw High Interest

The article carried in the Nov. 4 issue of the Independent Journal concerning Mr. Norman Higby's analysis of the proposed financing of a golf course by the City of San Rafael indicates that the people owe him a vote of thanks.

One factor not mentioned in the article, which Mr. Higby may have been aware of but not discuss, is that bonds sold by a non-profit corporation and paid by a lease agreement with a public agency carry a higher rate of interest than do conventional bond issues. The most economical method available to cities for financing capital projects on a long-term basis is the issuance of general obligation bonds which must be approved by the voters.

These financial facts of life, lower borrowing costs and the need for public subsidy to operate such a golf course in most instances, support Mr. Higby's position that this project should be put to a vote of the people in San Rafael. . .

Cold War Policies At Root Of Evil

There is a great wave of revulsion sweeping the nation against the evil we have done to a pastoral people with our misguided attempt to kill an idea with bombs and napalm. This reflects upon our error of long ago in launching the cold war, brinksmanship, and all that insanity, instead of trying, by demonstration, to show the superiority of our way. Had we made model communities or states thruout the world, we might, at 1/100th the cost, have gained the love instead of the hate of millions of oppressed peoples. And we probably would not have alienated our own youth, nor created a climate for crime in our country.

There is going to be polarization and an unpleasant intensification of our divergent political extremes, which will exceed anything we have known. in spite of statements by Goldwater and Agnew, the native good will of Joe Citizen will recoil from our unfortunate foreign policy and we will rise up against evil at home. But before we do, lines will be drawn, tensions will escalate, names will be called and bitterness, exceeding any we have known will sweep our nation, probably augmented by economic troubles.

It may be well to ruminate upon the fact that the greatest of today's evils, (inflation, economic depression, and youth disenchantment) trace their roots directly to the erroneous policies of the Cold War, wherein it was postulated that military containment, rather than demonstrations through example states was the better path to follow . . .

We All Know Who Moody Is

We notice in last evening's I-J (Nov. 3) a letter from someone named Fred C. Shumaker who, in rather ignorant and back-woodsey language, blasts Wayne Moody — for just what being left up to anyone's guess. We all in Marin County know Wayne Moody; but just who s this Fred C. Shumaker, where from, where going, what profession, what accomplishments show on his record?

We often wonder what the background might be of some of these virulent critics.

Student Shows Her School Spirit

I am a student of San Rafael High School and I am very annoyed with your sports writers!

In the first place I know San Rafael may not have the best football team in the league, but they try as hard as any of the others. Whenever San Rafael loses it nevers fails — it makes the front page of the sports section (headlines and all). But when we do pull through and play a great game you can always be sure to find the article on the second or third page, with some snide remarks like, "For what its worth San Rafael High topped Novato High." or "it was a little like two prizefighters in a pillow fight." We get straight news stories whereas other teams get very detailed stories.

I for one am very proud of san Rafael High School and I know that I speak for many others too. And we are not about to sit back and watch our team get cut down just because the writers may have some preference as to who wins the title.

REMEMBER WHEN?

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York said he wanted no part of second place on the Republican ticket in the next presidential election.

Tobacco-chewing Nellie Fox, the Chicago White Sox' second baseman, was named the American Baseball League's most valuable player for 1959.

20 YEARS AGO

The most costly steel strike in American history ended after a 42-day walkout.

The State Assembly Interim Committee on Governmental Efficiency pushed for a thorough probe of the activities of lobbyist Arthur Samish.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

Mr. Girthman had been talking a blue streak throughout a dinner, but his hostess managed to interrupt long enough to inquire, "How about a little more souffle?" "Good idea," approved Mr. Girthman, "but only a mouthful, I pray you."

"Norma," said the hostess to her maid, "fill up Mr. Girthman's plate."

In a radio audience-participation show in New York recently a Long Island housewife scored the biggest laugh of the day. The M.C. asked her, "How do you feel about Flushing, Long Island?"

The housewife answered innocently, "I think it's a wonderful idea."

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Regional Government Concept Challenged In Lake Tahoe Suit

By HENRY C. MACARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — It was inevitable that eventually, the question of the powers of regional government had to get into the court for a determination of whether such powers extend above and beyond the constitutional authorities of cities and counties.

El Dorado and Placer counties, both bordering Lake Tahoe, where the legislature established a regional government in 1967, have filed suit in El Dorado County Superior Court, challenging the constitutionality of this act, and seeking to have restored to the two counties authority which they claim has been usurped by the Tahoe Regional Agency.

THE SUIT CLAIMS the regional agency law is unconstitutional and is causing the two counties to perform duties, such as collecting taxes, for the benefit of the agency. This constitutes an illegal act, the suit says.

The El Dorado-Placer suit is scheduled to be far-reaching in nature, and run the gamut of all courts.

The issues involved are extensive, and probably will apply not only to the Lake Tahoe Regional Agency, but to others as well where regional government is involved.

The question is whether the legislature can, with no authority other than its own, create a government which is not provided for under the state constitution.

This is what the two counties maintain the legislature has done in creating the Tahoe Regional Agency and providing that the counties are obliged to collect its taxes and enforce its ordinances.

REGIONAL government in California has not found much favor with the public, although certain classes, such as the conservationists, use it to further their own ends.

However, the legislature appears to be urging wider use of regional government, as witnessed by passage of the Tahoe law, and also extension of powers of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission as granted by the 1969 legislature.

In any event, the El Dorado-Placer suit will put to the test the extent of powers that my be conferred by the legislature outside of the authority of the state and federal constitutions.

THE DRUMMONDS

Do-Nothing Congress Fiddles While President, Voters Burn

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Congress has been fiddling for nine months while the nation burns.

It is failing to do its job — failing badly.

Not in this century — not even Harry Truman's whipping-boy, "do-nothing" Congress of the 1948 presidential campaign — has the Congress of the United States shown itself so sterile, so incompetent, so irresponsible as today.

It is simply not transacting the public business.

Its failure is little short of criminal because it comes at a time when such neglect of the crisis problems puts democracy itself in peril.

THE RECORD should dismay, infuriate and galvanize voters to see that something is done about it.

Since this democratically controlled Congress convened last January, it has neglected nearly everything and produced almost nothing.

This is no overstatement. Here are the facts which support it:

FISCAL IRRESPONSIBILITY: The greatest power of Congress is giving or withholding money. The greatest weakness of this Congress is that it doesn't manage the appropriations bills carefully or competently. The government entered the new fiscal year last June 30 without a single appropriation being authorized and now, five months past that date, Congress has acted upon only a small part of the appropriations. This is Congress at its worse. It is heading to a point where the government may not be able to finance itself at all.

STALLED ON CRIME: Richard Nixon, Hubert Humphrey and George Wallace, as well as nearly every candidate for Congress who ran for election last year, pledged to deal with "crime in the streets." But Congress is failing to do so. The Democrats are refusing to enact the President's proposals, are not enacting their own, and the outlook for anything at all is dim.

STALLED ON THE DRAFT: The President is pleading with Congress to approve a more just and more equitable military draft prior to the time when it can be ended. The merit of draft reform is hardly questioned at all. Passing it would do much to take steam out of campus unrest and to deny the militants one of their favorite issues. Congress delays and dallies. Sen. Edward Kennedy has been dragging out his hearings and only when college presidents started to plead for action did the Democrats begin to show signs of approving limited reform.

STALLED ON OTHER URGENT ISSUES: The argument that President Nixon hasn't given Congress anything to do is untrue. He has given Congress a good agenda of innovative proposals and Congress has just yawned and gone back to talking. A detailed blueprint for sweeping reform of the welfare system has been before Congress for weeks, plus proposals for wage supplements, revenue sharing, manpower reform, Social Security reform and grants-in-aid reform. Congress says maybe tomorrow, not now.

STALLED ON ELECTROAL REFORM: For 20 years or more the American people have shown that they overwhelmingly want to abolish the electroal college and choose their President by direct vote. Approval by Congress now is imperative if this crucial reform is to come in time to protect the presidential election in 1972. The President urges it. The House votes it. The Senate dallies.

STALLED ON ETHICS: Congress likes to reform everybody but itself. The Christian Science Monitor does not put it too strongly when it reports that "this year the U.S. Congress has done a lot of shouting about ethics — for somebody else; when it comes to improving ethical standards for itself — silence."

More than silence. It ignores its own conflicts of interest and it rejects mounting demands that its members make public annual disclosures of outside income.

Congress demands that judges do so. It fairly criticizes Judge Clement Haynsworth for "ethical insensitivity" but usually looks the other way when anybody asks: What about you?

Congress better start facing the mirror before it faces the voters next year.

Sen. Kennedy Saves Face And Unclogs Draft Bill

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — President Nixon may be unmoved by the rising tide of anti-war protest which crests here this week, but Teddy Kennedy does not propose to stand against it.

Teddy found a face-saver and switched — from opposition to support of President Nixon's plan for reforming the military draft.

The switch by the young Massachusetts Democrat caused an embarrassing reversal by Sen. Mike Mansfield, Mont., the Senate Democratic leader. Mansfield, who opposes the draft in toto, had to fall in line with Kennedy, the Democratic whip.

KENNEDY HAD been holding out for a broader program of draft reform. He planned to use the House-approved adminsitration reform bill as a vehicle to carry some more extensive Kennedy-authored reforms.

It became clear, however, that Kennedy was in fact building a Senate roadblock for the President's modest lottery proposal which, rather surprisingly, had surmounted opposition in the House.

Then came the suggestion by President Kingman Brewster of Yale University, that Kennedy and his fellow sponsors of broad draft reform were holding the Presidnet's reform plan as a "hostage." Brewster said that tactic would not be appreciated by "this cynical generation of students."

IN HIS testimony, Brewster also provided Kennedy with the face-saver. and capped an interesting series of behind-the-scenes maneuvers:

1. When it became clear last month that House military experts would reluctantly go along with President Nixon's narrowly drawn random selection bill, Senater Democratic Leader Mansfield asked Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, if the Senate could also approve it.

2. Stennis said the random selection provision was acceptable. He added, however, that after an eight-week floor battle over the big military authorization bill he did not have the time for another protracted parliamentary wrangle in which Kennedy and his friends would be free to offer amendments of all sorts.

3. Kennedy took the position that he could not support the narrow Nixon bill. Mansfield then announced that he did not expect action this year on the President's plan.

4. Mansfield's statement came under heavy criticism just as preparations were made for the anti-war mobilization and march here. Alfred B. Fitt, who had been a manpower expert in President Johnson's Pentagon. proposed that Nixon's lottery bill be amended to require further action on draft extension and draft reforms next year.

5. Brewster adopted Fitt's proposal. Kennedy endorsed it and said it opened the way for him to support the President's lottery bill. Stennis said he thought it might open the way for committee action. Mansfield said the Senate would act if the committee approved the bill.

Teacher Tenure Attack: Portent For California?

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

There may be a portent for California in what happened Oct. 27 at the New York State School Boards Association convention.

The association, meeting in Syracuse, voted to ask repeal of New York's teacher tenure law.

It is difficult to imagine the California School Boards Association, as presently constituted, taking any such radical stepm

HOWEVER, it was difficult for most Californians to believe, when the American Federation of Teachers local struck New York City schools in 1962, that teacher strikes would ever hit the Golden State. Yet they have done so repeatedly the last couple of years.

The report of Mayor John V. Lindsay's educational task force, which called for breaking up the huge New York City school system into 30 to 60 districts, was followed a few months later by a bill in the California Legislature to create sub-districts in the sprawling Los Angeles system. New York has gone ahead with creation of neighborhood districts; for Los Angeles, such a move is still in the talking stage.

"Parent strikes" against busing children for integration purposes in New York were followed by similar action in some California districts.

So what happens to schools in New York seems to have a way of spreading to the opposite coast.

THE ANTI-TENURE resolution adopted by the New York State School Boards Association did not spell out an alternative method of protecting teachers against arbitrary discharge.

"We are simply suggesting that there are reaonable alternatives to the present system which would provide the flexibility necessary to grant reasonable protection to the teacher while providing students with protection against minimum teaching efforts," it said.

An amendment was proposed at the convention calling for evaluation of teachers every five years as alternative to permanent tenure. This, however, was voted down overhwlmingly. The association noted that New York's tenure law provides for periodic evaluations "but they are seldom used."

Such a system of periodic evaluations to renew tenure has been rather widely discussed among school trustees in California. A complicated variation of its is the solution to tenure problems proposed by State Supt. Max Rafferty, who has called tenure "the protector of the poor."

What brought about the action by the New York association was expressed by Mrs. Jack Fuchs, a Roslyn, L. I. board member who was quoted in the New York Times as saying people are rebelling against a system that perpetuates teachers in jobs whether or not they are capable. "With the new salaries," the Times quoted Mrs. Fuchs, "the teacher should be compelled to produce." (Teacher salaries in New York are slightly below those in California.)

CALIFORNIA like New York, gives a teacher lifetime tenure when he s rehired by a school system for his fourth year. Thereafter he can be fired only by bringing charge which are subject to a long hearing process plus an automatic court review. The "instant tenure" provision of California law enables the teacher who has less than three years in a district to demand similar hearings; although it does not call for automatic court review, the teacher may carry the case to court if he wishes to do so.

Tenure laws came about because of old-time school board favoritism in hiring which made teachers particularly insecure in their jobs. Many people — as reflected by the New York State School Boards Associaton action — have come to believe that the cure is worse than the disease.

Big Federal Transit Push Is Forecast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With Nixon administration assent, legislation for $3.1 billion in long-range federal financing of mass transit should start moving through Congress soon, Sen. Harrison A. Williams D-N.J., said today.

Williams said Transportation Secretary John Volpe had given administration agreement in principle to obligate $3.1 billion over the next five years for transit improvement.

The legislation will commit federal transit funding during the first year of a five-year period, Williams said in an address prepared for the National Association of Real Estate Boards convention.

The senator said this means that cities and states could make long-range plans for transit projects without agonizing each year for congressional appropriations.

Williams reported that both Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California had endorsed his amendment to transit legislation.

Spending would be limited to $300 million in the first year and increase to $1 billion in the fifth year.

Williams told the realtors that good transit systems were vital in the war on poverty.

He said real estate values increase both in suburbia and the inner city with good transit systems.

Inmate Dies In Quentin Hospital

Jack S. McFee, 42, an inmate at San Quentin Prison, died yesterday in the prison hospital following a brief illness. An autopsy to determine cause of death was to have been performed today.

McFee came to San Quentin Sept. 25 from Los Angeles County where he was convicted on a bad check charge. His family lives in Santa Barbara County.

Next Real Estate Boom Seen In Mobile Homes And Parks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The next real estate boom may be in mobile homes and mobile home parks.

Real estate brokers from Minnesota and Colorado joined yesterday in the prediction at the National Association of Real Estate Boards convention.

With the cost of an average home boosted to $35,000 by escalating land and construction costs, 50 per cent of the nation's families just can't afford a conventional home, said Philip C. Smaby of Minneapolis.

"We're cut off from half our market," he said. "But we used to handle $10,000 homes, and we can go back to handling $10,000 mobile homes."

W. Max Moore of Denver said he expects substantial growth in mobile park developments and a growing volume in selling and reselling mobile homes.

Moore said the profit margins might be small on individual sales, but there would be opportunity for a vast market volume.

Moore said zoning restrictions were a barrier to mobile home parks in Colorado.

He said he expected to see zoning changes in the near future.

"Some Colorado cities and counties are starting to break on zoning. More and more pressure will be building to ease the zoning standards," Moore said.

Smaby and Moore agreed that factory-build homes, now being aggressively developed in a Housing and Urban Development design competition, may provide another answer for low-income families.

The factory-built modular sections include built-in wiring, plumbing and heating systems. The sections can be hauled to a foundation site and fastened together quickly.

Modular home costs are expected to range from 10 to 25 per cent under standard building.

Al H. Jennings Jr., Atlanta real estate broker, said he remained skeptical of the factory-built home.

"After all, it's been the industry's great white hope for 20 years, and it hasn't really come through yet," Jennings said.

Owen E. Hall of Birmingham, Mich., said he didn't expect to see mobile home or factory-built home expansion in Detroit's suburban areas.

He said zoning restrictions likely would stay tight.

Hall said condominium building likely would grow in the Detroit areas as land values increased.

"The American family has a real urge to own its own home," Hall said.

"If a man can't have a house on a lot, he'll buy an apartment in a high rise building."

Hail said condominium building was booming on the Florida Gold Coast, with units in the $10,000 to $20,000 price range.

Mystery Delivery For Slain Man

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A fatally wounded San Francisco man was dropped in front of a fire station yesterday by two men and a woman who fled in a brown automobile.

The victim was identified as James Walker, 26, the 130th person to be slain in the city this year. There were 83 such deaths at this time last year.

Fireman Donald Lustenberg, who was standing in front of Fire Station 42, quoted one of the men as saying, "This man's been shot" before fleeing. Walker died at San Francisco General Hospital.

Israelis Raid Guerrillas In Jordan

TEL AVIV (AP) — An Israeli patrol crossed into Jordan 10 miles north of the Red sea port of Elat today, shot up an Arab guerrilla squad and caused "several casualties," an Israeli military spokesman said.

One Israeli soldier was wounded in the clash "east of the Jordan-Israel cease-fire line," the spokesman said. Informed sources said the Israeli force went a short distance into Jordan to intercept guerrillas on their way to Israeli territory.

A military spokesman in Amman, the Jordanian capital, said Israeli forces opened fire last night on a Jordanian Observation post in the port of Aqaba, which is within sight of Elat. The spokesman said one Jordanian soldier was wounded in the brief exchange, and the Israelis were believed to have suffered some casualties.

In another incident, four Israeli soldiers were reported wounded last night in an exchange of mortar fire with Egyptian forces across the southern sector of the Suez Canal.

A Jordanian state security court sentenced nine Palestinian guerrillas to death for fomenting trouble against King Hussein's regime. It was the first time a Jordanian court had put Palestinian guerrillas on trial.

Eight other guerrillas were sentenced to 15 years at hard labor, six to five years and four were acquitted.

Massachusetts and Minnesota were the first two states to adopt licensure laws for hospitals.

TWO GOLDEN GATES IN THE SUNSET

There used to be only one Golden Gate Bridge to be seen in Marin, but here is a second one, painted faithfully on the car which Terry and Joan MacNeil of Mill Valley parked the other day on the Marin headlands. MacNeil, a songwriter, waiter and rock musician, started painting the car a year ago with an eye to capturing some of the Bay Area's beauty. The bridge panorama continues around the car into a scene on the slopes of Mount Tamalpais. A five-color sunburst adorns the roof, and a "shum" symbol is painted on the nose. "Shum," MacNeil said, means the language of meditation, or "anything uplifting to the nervous system," according to their yoga master. It is also the name of MacNeil's rock group which he formed after leaving the Sopwith Camel. Since investing his time in the painting, Terry has had the car's engine, suspension, brakes and clutch overhauled. "We didn't want to get rid of our paint job," said his wife. The MacNeils now are on their way to India for a nine-week pilgrimage with their teacher, Subramuniya, to study with yoga masters. Most beautiful thing about the car, they said, is the reaction it produces among other motorists and passersby. There has been "not one negative reaction, not even by police," Joan said. Children especially like the panoramic views, she said, and nearly everyone waves at them in passing. On their return from India, Terry said, he will go to work to pay off loans that financed the trip — "and in summertime, I'd like to paint cars."

Antitransfer Protest Going

Sausalito School District residents are being asked to protest transfer of pupils from San Francisco to Sausalito in a handout by Citizens for Excellence in Integrated Education, a local citizen group.

The handout, circulation of which began Monday during the school holiday, includes a coupon addressed to Arnold Dolcini Jr., president of the Marin County Board of Education, asking that the county board deny permission for the transfers.

Transfer of two pupils from San Francisco to Sausalito, without payment to the Sausalito district, was approved by the district board Oct. 27. Intercounty pupil transfers are subject to approval by the county board.

Delta Peripheral Canal Favored

SACRAMENTO (AP) -- The controversial proposed canal around the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta has won endorsement from the state Senate Water Committee — if the area's environment is protected.

The only member who didn't agree to Monday's report was Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, who comes from Contra Costa County where opposition to the project is strong.

The canal would be built by federal and state governments, and carry water from the Sacramento Valley around the delta and into the State Water Project and federal Central Valley Project.

Private and public water users in Central and Southern California would get the water.

TV Film Is Of, And For, The Youngsters

By ANNE BARDWELL

"What makes popcorn pop?"

"Who invented the hot dog?"

"Where did the white line down the center of the highway come from,?"

"How do you like popcorn?"

"Sauteed in a white wine sauce."

That's a little sophisticated, but night club, television and film star Woody Allen, who answered the last question, usually is.

However, the film "Hot Dog," portions of which were filmed Monday at Tamalpais Valley School, isn't going to be sophisticated.

If producer Frank Buxton has anything to say about it, it's going to be charming, interesting educational and fun. After all, it's meant for youngsters.

The film is about the everyday things of life people usually don't consider . . . like hot dogs and popcorn, pencils and glass, and that white stripe down the center of the highway.

It's part of a new series of one-hour children's specials to be aired on NBC Saturday mornings beginning in January. The series is being filmed and produced by Mendelson Films of Burlingame, the same company that has produced all those Charlie Brown specials.

It also is going to star, besides the Tamalpais Valley student body, Woody Allen, Tommy Smothers and Jo Ann Worley.

"We're not doing the offscreen naration bit . . . now you put this piece of clay in that test tube thing . . . The nuts and bolts approach. Kids today are too intelligent for that," Buxton said.

"Kids don't need to be talked to, they need to be talked with," Buxton continued. "They know more at 4 than I did at 21. They're so bright it's astounding."

Buxton, a charming, happy looking young man with short shaggy hair and a shaggy, drooping mustache, speaks with authority. A former producer and original narrator of "Discovery," the multi-award-winning children's television show, he's done a lot of work with young people.

Yesterday, Buxton and his two associates, Charles L. Barbee, associate producer and cinemaphotographer, and Pat Johnson, production assistant, talked with Tamalpais Valley youngsters.

"What makes popcorn pop?" They asked and they got all kinds of answers including, occasionally, the right one.

(For those of you who don't know, it's the moisture in the corn kernel turning into steam from the heat, expanding and finally exploding.)

In the afternoon, out came the cherry picker (a snorkle type truck) and while Barbee sat in the bucket 25 feet off the ground filming, six young boys played basketball.

"It's the introdution to the basketball factory sequence," explained Buxton, as he coached the young team from the sidelines.

"Our light's fading; I hope we can make it," he said, looking worried. Then he brightened, watching the youngsters play, their long shadows moving across the ground.

"That's it, run back and forth. Shoot a few baskets now. Hey, that's two for you . . . ."

And on the side lines, one pintsized critic muttered to a friend, "How freaky, man!"

Handicapped Workers Needed

Volunteers, without previous experience, are needed to help physically handicapped and slow-learning youngsters for one half-day a week in Marin County schools.

Three meetings will be held next week to acquaint persons interested in joining the program. They will be held from 9 a.m. to noon on Nov. 18 at Marin County Schools Office, 201 Tamal Vista Boulevard; on Nov. 19 at Marindale School, 850 Del Ganado Road, Terra Linda and on Nov. 20 at Strawberry Point School, off Tiburon Boulevard east of Highway 101.

Information may be obtained at Marindale School.

Hi again and welcome to another fabulous Disco Bargain Sale...The theme for this sale is a take-off on the new trends that have emerged in the late sixties.

Disco has a well-founded reputation for traditional discounting. That is, continually bringing our customers the lowest possible discount prices in all departments, seven days a week, week after week.....plus running our famous special sales throughout the year. While Disco is traditional, we are constantly doing new things and conducting business with a difference. Our buyers are constantly abreast of new consumer requests. Our buyers listen to you, our customers.

Incidentally, I would like to thank all those customers who took time out to write to me complimenting Disco on our "This is it!" Coupon Book Sale and also our "Home and Housewares Carnival" Sale. Both these sales were tremendously successful and popular, as indicated by your response. In fact, our Merchandising and Advertising staffs are already planning repeats for 1970.

Oh yes....these notes would not be complete without saying how much pleasure we all received from looking at the entries in our $50.00 Savings Bond Coloring Contest for your children. They were just great and it makes us feel good to be able to have fun with your children.....

Being with Disco is just like belonging to one big happy family.

PIGGYBACK COMMUTING?

San Rafael Man Proposes Minibus On A Trailer Rig

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

A plan for solving the commuter problem which involves neither trains, big buses nor ferries was proposed today by Steen Schellenberg, a San Rafael business economist and life underwriter.

If his brand-new approach works as he believes it would, it also would be self-supporting, requiring no continuing public subsidy.

Schellenberg's plan calls for lending Volkswagen minibuses (or similar vehicles) to commuters who would drive them onto tractor-trailers that would haul them to San Francisco.

The same tractor-trailers would make money by hauling containerized garbage, mail, and commercial freight in the off-hours on a three-shift, 24-hour day.

Here's how the plan would work, as outlined by Schellenberg in a proposal sent to Assemblyman William T. Bagley, Sen. Alan Cranston, the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, and the Marin County Transit District:

"We have a special vehicle designed and built. It is a line-haul tractor-trailer combination slightly modified. It is wider. It has a corridor and stairs. It is a double decker. And it will accommodate, on a piggy-back style, five nine-passenger Volkswagen buses. They have sliding doors, remember.

"This van is equipped with lighting, air conditioning and even electric plug-ins for the buses, if need be. Buses drive onto the van under their own power, passengers and all. Van leaves on schedule. While aboard, passengers from one bus may wish to transfer to another bus delivery to U.C. Medical Center, instead of downtown, etc.

"Van arrives at City Hall, San Francisco. Buses drive off van and deliver their loads to downtown office buildings, medical center, etc."

The minibuses would be bought by the transit authority (Schellenberg refers to it as "Transit, Inc.," but it could be the bridge district or a newly

Wider Variety Of Protests Set In Marin's Second Moratorium

Renewed public expression of antiwar sentiment is expected in Marin this week in a series of marches and demonstrations planned to mark the second Vietnam moratorium within a month.

Much of the protest is being directed by a coalition of groups called the Marin Vietnam Moratorium Committee. The coalition was formed after the Oct. 15 moratorium, which saw hundreds of Marin residents and students at Sonoma State College publicly urging immediate U.S. troop withdrawal from Vietnam.

Antiwar activities are scheduled tomorrow, Friday and Saturday. At least four marches are scheduled — at 7 a.m. tomorrow at the Golden Gate Bridge, at 10 a.m. Friday from the Red Hill Shopping Center in San Anselmo to the San Rafael courthouse, at 10 a.m. Saturday from the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo to the courthouse and at noon Saturday in Saturday in Fairfax, with marchers starting at either end of the city and converging for a rally at the city park.

In a countermove, the Novato City Council has declared Saturday as Vietnam Veterans Appreciation Day. Two Novato groups plan to visit Letterman General Hospital at the Presidio of San Francisco and Oak Knoll Naval Hospital in Oakland to distribute gifts to wounded veterans.

City Councilman Joseph Gargiulo, who is planning the program, said public response has been overwhelmong, adding that many gifts for the veterans have been received at city hall.

The peace march at the Golden Gate Bridge is being organized by the Student Mobilization Committee, a member of the coalition. Other coalition members are Women's International League for Peace and Freedom,

9,000 Riot Units Move Into Capital

Pentagon Preparing For Weekend Antiwar Events

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government today began moving about 9,000 riot trained regular troops into the Washington area as a "purely precautionary measure" in advance of this week's antiwar demonstrations.

In the meantime, the Vietnam protesters have won the right to march down Pennsylvania Avenue—a street the government had insisted was off limits—but will avoid the White House, once a prime target of their demonstrations.

The Pentagon announced that paratroopers of the Army's 82nd Airborne Division arrived from Fort Bragg, N.C. A regiment of the 2nd Marine Division from Camp Lejeune, N.C., will arrive tonight.

About 4,000 paratroopers and Marines will be in position at federal military installations today, with the remaining units pulling in tomorrow from bases in Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina.

Jerry Friedheim, deputy assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, emphasized that "this is a precautionary action only," adding:

"No final decision has been made to utilize federal personnel and . . . these personnel will remain on federal installations unless the Department of Justice, coordinating with local civilian officials, requests assistance."

The three-day perior of demonstrations expected to climax Saturday with as many as 200,000 antiwar demonstrators marching through the capital.

At the White House, Mayor Walter Washington of the District of Columbia, said "I don't anticipate at this point any violence."

Until the Justice Department reversed its field yesterday and granted a permit for demonstrators to parade along Pennsylvania Avenue Saturday, Washington said, "an attitude of anger and confrontation seemed to be building."

The mayor said he felt the mood was changing and "it's getting close to" the mood of the Oct. 15 moratorium demon-

SPLIT RULING

Juvenile's Jury Plea Timing Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — Over the dissent of its two senior liberal justices, the Supreme Court declined today to give juveniles accused of man-sized crimes the right to a jury trial.

The 6-2 action, announced in an unsigned opinion, dismissed the appeal of a Nebraska boy whose case once seemed to be the likely vehicle for this civil liberties extension.

The court ducked, however, largely because hearings on his case began March 28, 1969, two months before the Supreme Court May 20, 1968 decision that established jury trials as a constitutional right even for adults.

Justices Hugo L. Black and William O. Douglas, who for more than 30 years have been in the forefront of extending Bill of Rights protections to state defendants, dissented sharply.

"There is, as I see it, no constitutionally sufficient reason to deprive the juvenile of this right," Douglas said.

Black, in a separate opinion, scored the court for giving certain constitutional rights only prospective application, thereby cutting off those citizens who were tried or accused of crime before the date of the high court decision.

The appeal had been made for Clarence J. DeBacker, a Fremont, Neb., boy who was committed to the Boys Training School at Kearney, Neb., last year at the age of 17 on a charge that he forged a $30 check on his father's bank account. Forgery is an adult crime in Nebraska.

The jury trial decision was limited by the court on June 17, 1968 to cases which began no earlier than May 20, 1968. Thus all adults who had been tried before May 20, 1968, without a jury could not use the decision to demand new trials, this time before a jury.

Hijack Pair Nabbed In Air

BULLETIN

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Two dejected teen-age hijackers, bound hand and foot, were returning to Santiago today aboard a Chilean jetliner whose crew outwitted them.

They had been surprised and knocked out by the pilot and copilot after the hijacked plane took off from Antofagosta in northern Chile en route to Cuba.

The adventure began after a LAN Chile twin-jet Caravelle carrying 62 persons had taken off from Santiago on a flight to Puerto Mont in southern Chile. Fifteen minutes later the hijackers struck.

The plane flew the more than

Are Heroin Suspect's Needy Children Real?

A 37-year-old San Rafael blonde, arrested Friday on suspicion of dealing in heroin, had been receiving $228 per month in welfare aid for the care of her two children, aged 12 and 2.

Marin officials were checking today to see if the children really exist.

Rosita Dolores Branstetter of 8 Marian Court had received a total of $798 under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program since she went on Marin welfare on Aug. 1. The last two semi-monthly checks, each for $114, were found uncashed in her wallet, along with $4,000 in cash when narcotics agents raided her apartment Friday.

"We are in the process of looking for the children and have asked the district attorney to investigate," said Donald M. Sanford, administrative assistant to Betty Presley, director of the Department of Public Social Services.

Miss Branstetter moved to Marin in June or July from San Mateo County. "She said she had no income and no employment and had received aid in San Mateo County and in San Francisco," said Sanford. She identified her children as Margo, 12, and Stephen, 2.

"We have not seen the children, and we have scanty information about their parentage," Sanford said. "The district attorney is also looking for the father."

The AFBC grants were authorized on the basis of her statements and the fact that she had been getting similar aid in San Mateo county, Sanford explained.

The department of public social services does not make family checks on each recipient but uses the random spot check method employed by the Internal Revenue Service to check on the accuracy of statements made in the welfare applications.

Marin narcotics agents said they confiscated $11,000 worth of suspected heroin found hidden between the mattress and springs of Miss Branstetter's bed. The suspected drugs were packaged in little red balloons.

Two men found in Miss Branstetter's apartment and a third man who drove away from her home while narcotics agents watched were also jailed.

The blonde, freed on $12,500 bail, was to appear in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Ralph Thomas said this morning he was drafting a formal complaint against Miss Branstetter. "I think we'll charge her with possession of drugs for sale," said Thomas.

BB Shooter Blamed For Wounded Eye

A 12-year-old boy who accidentally shot a Santa Venetia man in the eye with a BB gun Monday has been cited to appear before juvenile officers today.

The boy was firing the gun at the ground about 60 yards away from Joseph P. Mellow, 46, of 9 Sunnyoaks Drive, Santa Venetia when the accident happened, according to sheriff's deputies.

Mello was treated by a private doctor who removed glass splinters from his eye caused by shattered eyeglasses. Mellow said that the eye was already blind from a World War II wound.

Mellow told sheriffs deputies that he was working in a yard in front of 60 North San Pedro Road when he saw the boy and a companion firing a gun. Suddenly he was knocked to the ground, he said, by a shot. He said he chased the youth and caught him about 200 yards away.

Mellow said that the boy told him, "I'm sorry. I didn't mean to do it."

The BB gun was confiscated by deputies.

Senator Holland Will Step Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., announced today that he will not seek reelection next year for a fifth full term.

Holland said his decision resulted from recent attacks of angina, a heart condition that he described as painful and a warning.

Holland, former governor of Florida, has served in the Senate since September 1946.

That Non-Radioactive, Non-New, Non-Dangerous Thing's A Vortex

It looks like a missile, at least from a distance. But it's not.

It looks as if it might be from outer space, but an investigation by brave newsmen found no spacemen around it taking giant steps for anyone.

It looks new, but the government says it's been up there since April 10, 1959.

It says it's radioactive, but the government says it's not.

What is it?

"It" is a white, conical device perched an a ridge above Tennessee Valley in Southern Marin. It belongs to the Federal Aviation Agency. Donald Tom, an electronic engineer at the FAA's area office in Burlingame, says it is one of the agency's vortex — or VOR sites which give airlines and other pilots bearing and distance information.

It does not use roactivity, Tom said, although the letters "danger" and "radioactive" are clearly stenciled on the thing. He said an FAA official in Santa Rosa who has responsibility for such things said those words were there to scare away prowlers.

It appaaently works, he said. "Such a warning has stopped vandalism," Tom said.

Although it does not, according to the government, emit radiocativity, it does emit "R-F signals," Tom said, but all that means is radio frequency signals.

And that's what it is. According to the government.

Leak May Stall Apollo Shot

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — An apparent failure in a hydrogen tank on Apollo 12 was discovered today and threatened to delay Friday's launching of the moonbound spacecraft.

The problem was a failure in a vacuum holding area in one of the two spacecraft liquid hydrogen tanks. It was noticed while crews were loading the hydrogen this morning.

"Project officials are investigating to determine the extent of the difficulty and possible effect on Apollo 12 launch operation," the space agency said.

Liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen are used to provide gases for operation of the spacecraft fuel cells, which produce electricity.

Crews immediately began draining off the hydrogen and prepared for experts to examine the tanks.

The space agency statement said there was "an apparent failure in vacuum holding characteristics," indicating a possible leak in the system.

Leaks and other problems have cropped up in prelaunch preparations on earlier Apollo flights and were corrected in time to meet the launch time.

If the Friday launch is postponed, there will be another opportunity Sunday between 2:09 and 5:26 p.m. That would change the landing point on the moon 360 miles to the west of the target for a Friday launch.

Should a launch Friday or Sunday prove impossible, the mission would be postponed until Dec. 14.

Space agency officials said they would know by late today if repairs can be made in time.

The position of the moon and lighting conditions in the planned landing areas determine the launch opportunities.

Until the malfunction was discovered, preparations for the launch had been going smoothly.

While the liquid gases were being loaded, astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Alan L. Bean and Richard F. Gordon Jr. spent time with the complex flight plan for their 10-day mission and rehearsed in simulators.

In Boulder, Colo., the government's Space Disturbance Forecast Center said a large solar flare that erupted Nov. 2 near the rim of the sun will reappear on Friday.

OVER FOR ANOTHER YEAR—Nationalist Chinese Foreign Minister Wei Tao-ming rests his head in his hands after his nation again weathered its annual crisis in the United Nations—over seating of Communist China and possible ouster of the Nationalist government. The vote last night climaxed an unusually mild debate in which neither Russia nor India backed Peking.

(UPI Telephoto)

Peking Loses Annual U.N. Membership Try

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly voted last night to keep Communist China out for the 19th time, but six more nations changed their votes.

The 126-nation assembly rejected the proposal by a vote of 56 to 48 with 21 abstentions. The vote last year was 58 to 44 and 23 abstentions. The outcome this year was never in doubt.

Although decisively defeated, Peking picked up four nations who swung from the abstention column to the yes cilumn: Libya, Mauritius, Ghana and Nigeria.

Two other nations switched from no last year to abstentions: Italy and Belgium. Both are negotiating to establish diplomatic relations with Peking.

The closest vote was in 1965 when the result was 47 to 47 with 20 abstentions. However, this was a defeat because the assembly has voted every year that the question of China's representation is a substantive issue requiring a two-thirds majority for assembly action rather than a procedural issue requiring only a simple majority.

This year, the U.S.-backed resolution for the two-thirds rule received 71 votes in favor, 48 against and 4 abstentions.

Seventeen Communist or nonaligned nations sponsored the resolution to seat Peking. The Soviet Union was not a sponsor and for the first time did not even speak on behalf of Red China. India, a onetime supporter, also kept silent.

Since Moscow became embroiled in its bitter power struggle with Peking, Soviet support has been growing more perfunctory each year.

It was the mildest debate since the question first came up in 1950. Most of the speakers opposing Peking omitted the usual polemics and dwelt mainly on the issue: How to admit one Chinese government without throwing out the other.

Three Blasts May Tie To Earlier Ones

NEW YORK (AP) — Police are checking possible links between yesterday's explosions at three Manhattan office buildings and earlier blasts, including an attack last month on the Armed Forces Induction Center.

More than 100 telephoned warnings of imminent bombings were received by police yesterday, all of them unfounded.

The explosive devices used yesterday at the RCA Building, the Chase Manhattan Building and the General Motors Building were "high-order explosives on the nature of dynamite connected to a timing mechanism," a police spokesman said.

Similar devices were used at the Whitehall Street induction center Oct. 7, the Federal Building in Foley Square Sept. 19, the Marine Midland Building Aug. 20 and a Grace Line pier in Brooklyn Aug. 9, the spokesman said.

Letters purporting to be from left-wing radicals took credit for the latest blasts. They were similar in style to letters mailed to news agencies after a bomb ripped through Army and Selective Service System offices in the Federal Building.

Special delivery letters were sent to the New York Times and United Press International, postmarked Monday evening.

They said: "During this week of antiwar protest, we set off explosions in the offices of Chase Manhattan, Standard Oil, and General Motors," because America's giant corporations have fomented international problems.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Peking War Jitters

HONG KONG (AP) — Travelers from the mainland report feverish war preparations, including large scale dispersals of city people and factories to rural areas, in Communist China's Fukien Provience, across the narrow Formosa Strait from the Nationalist Chinese island.

The travelers said Fukien authorities told the people that "the dispersal is for implementing Mao's war strategy of transforming the countryside into the ocean of people's war to offset Russian missile attacks against Chinese cities."

In meeting recently, the Fukien officials announced that "the Russian revisionists have made a semiofficial secret agreement with the Taiwan Kuominatang Nationalist China to jointly attack the mainland and restore Kuomintang rule on the mainland," the travelers said.

Long, Flying Drink

WASHINGTON (AP) — A helicopter has been able to hover at altitudes up to 10,000 feet, over a given location, for hours at a time by sipping fuel through a metal hose two miles long, the Navy disclosed today.

The Navy said the "elevated platform" concept has important potential uses, both military and commercial, but it did not identify them.

Feasibility tests using a standard Navy Sikorsky 5H3A helicopter were conducted for the Office of Naval Research by Space Craft, Inc., Huntsville, Ala., in a program called "Operation Long Drink."

Red Author Barred

MOSCO W(AP) — The Russian Union of Writers confirmed today that it has revoked the membership of controversial novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn for "encouraging the anit-Soviet hubbub around his name."

Explusion from the union means his works cannot be published in the Soviet Union. The action, unofficially reported for several days, was another blow to Soviet liberal writers and intellectuals.

Solzhenitsyn's last two major works, "Cancer Ward" and "The First Circle," became best-sellers in the West but are banned in the Soviet Union. His last major work published here, "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich," in 1962, was a landmark in the post-Salin cultural relaxation.

Turks In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Turkish President Cevdet Sunay and a large delegation of government officials arrived in Moscow today for the first Turkish presidential visit to the Soviet Union.

The Turks were met at Moscow's Vnkuvo Airport by President Nikolai V. Podgorny, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, Foreign Trade Minister Nikolai Patolichev and other Soviet leaders.

Famine Feared

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — More than 100,000 persons will die of starvation on the island of Lombok, east of Bali, unless emergency food supplies are immediately sent there, the student newspaper Kami reported today.

It said the local administration and the National Logistics Bureau have failed to stockpile enough rice on the island.

"Unless help comes soon, many will die of starvation in the next two months," Kami reported.

Lombok is plagued by rats, which devastate rice fields, and this year produced only 60,000 tons of rice ,compared ot 100,000 tons in 1968. Thousands of islanders died in a similar rice crisis three years ago.

Poison Admission

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has come close to stating outright that "escaped nerve agents" during an open-air test at the Dugway Proving Grounds in Utah last year killed dozens of range sheep.

"Extensive investigations finally revealed that the sheep probably ingested very low dosages of the agent V (X nerve gas)," the Army said in testimony released by a House Appropriations subcommittee.

The Army has already agreed to pay ranchers for loss of the sheep and conceded the nerve gas might have been responsible for the sheeps' deaths but has never said so unequivocably.

Thai Terror Killings

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Terrorist ambushed a police patrol last night in southern Thailand, killed seven men and wounded two. The attack took place near Wangpar, capital of Songkhla Province.

A government official said there were no reports of terrorist casualties.

Police rushed to the scene of the ambush and began a search in the jungles but reported no contact.

Mrs. Gandhi Gets Boot From Party

NEW DELHI (AP) — The "old guard" majority in the top leadership of India's badly split ruling Congress Party expelled Prime Minister Indira Gandhi from the party today and ordered Congress members of Parliament to elect a new prime minister.

The party's top policy-making body, the Congress Working Committee, took the unprecedented step against Mrs. Gandhi. She was accused of "spreading indiscipline" in the 84-year-old organization.

The action was not expected to affect Mrs. Gandhi's position as prime minister immediately. Her supporters in the party had announced previously they would not recognize any expulsion orders issued by the party president, Siddavanalli Nijalingappa, whom Mrs. Gandhi has been trying to oust.

A meeting of all Congress members in Parliament is to be held tomorrow. It was called in advance of today's action, Mrs. Gandhi was expected to seek a fresh vote of confidence then.

Her supporters claim she has an overwhelming majority among the 431 Congress members in Parliament.

A more serious test is expected after Parliament begins its winter session on Nov. 18. Then Mrs. Gandhi is certain to lose most or all of her 23-seat majority over the opposition parties because of the split within her own party. This will force her to rely on leftist, Communist and independent members to keep her government in office.

The prime minister was giving a luncheon for visiting Hungarian President Pal Losonczi when the expulsion decision was taken, and she was not immediately available for comment.

The Congress Working Committee issued a communique after a three-hour meeting saying the committee was "regretfully obliged" to expel her from the party because she had set up a rival working committee and a rival All—India Congress Committee, which is composed of some 700 delegates from all of the 17 states.

The expulsion was voted by only 11 of the 21 members of the working committee. Mrs. Gandhi and her supporters have boycotted the past three meetings of the committee to protest the party president's dismissal of three of her faction from the group.

Schools War On Vandalism In Cotati

The plans of the Cotati School District to prevent school vandalism won approval last night from its citizen's advisory committee.

The committee, which had been studying vandalism prevention with Superintendent Duncan A. Coleman, recommended that signs prohibiting trespasing after school hours should be posted. Coleman said that police will be instructed to chase persons from school grounds after 4:30 p.m.

The committee, headed by James Uren, recommended that both Cotati and Rohnert Park police be contacted about providing extra coverage for school grounds.

A recommendation that interior school lights be turned on 24 hours a day brought a negative response from the board, saying the plan would be too expensive. They said they would reconsider the light plan if it can be shown to be a preventive factor at certain schools.

The Cotati School District board also:

DONATION — Recevied an additional contribution of $15 from the Thomas Page family to be used at the Thomas Page School library.

INSPECTION — Set an inspection of the new Page school for Nov. 21 with the building committee. A time will be set later.

Pollution Parley Called By Reagan

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — California's pollution problems and what to do about them will be the subject of the forthcoming Governor's Conference on California's Changing Environment, set for Nov. 17-18 in Los Angeles, which is expected to bring together the largest cross section of experts ever assembled at one time in the state.

Gov. Rnoald Reagan, in calling the conference, said, "As California's population continues to grow, the demands of that growth often raise conflicts between preserving what we have and carrying on with the progress which must be made.

"We must seek new ways to protect what God has given us, while, at the same time, making certain that every citizen has an opportunity to enjoy the bounty of our heritage."

The Governor said that to achieve this goal, "we are calling together representatives from every segment of our society . . . members of business, and labor, environmentalists, conservationists, consumers, young people, members of the communications media, and experts on over-population, air, water and land pollution . . . to look for creative and practical solutions to these problems."

After the bridge march, a silent vigil will be held at Fort Cronkite at 10 a.m. Names of California men who have died in Vietnam since the Oct. 15 moratorium will be read.

Also Friday, all-day picketing will be conducted at the College of Marin, leaflets and petitions will be distributed and canvassing undertaken at shopping centers, government buildings and schools. Military bases also will be picketed.

Community potlucks to discuss the war will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday at St. Anselm's Church, San Anselmo; St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church in Marin City and the Mill Valley Community Church. A panel discussion on Vietnam will be held at Congregation Rodef Sholom in Santa Venetia at 8 a.m.

A student rally is scheduled at Redwood High School at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow and a memorial program for Tamalpais High School war dead was set for today at that school.

Car pooling has been organized for persons wanting to participate in the moratorium demonstration in San Francisco at 10 a.m. Saturday. Meeting points are at Congregation Rodef Sholom at 8 a.m. and at Tamalpais High School at 9 a.m.

Persons wishing to march across the Golden Gate Bridge before joining the San Francisco demonstration are asked to meet at Tam High at 8 a.m. Cars will take the participants from the San Francisco side of the bridge to the demonstration in Golden Gate Park.

Project REC Event Success

Response to the first fund raising project by the young people in Project REC was "terrific" among teens and their parents, Robert Schoen, a director of the San Rafael canal area recreation effort, reported today.

The young people held a dance Monday night at the Citadel and more than 250 attended. After expenses, the youth committee of Project REC (recreation, education and couseling) banked $145, he said.

Use of the building was donated by the owner, Irving Litchfield, with the young people taking care of the cleanup, Schoen said.

Realty Panel Adds To Push For Seashore

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The California Real Estate Association today added its voice to those urging congressional action to complete land purchases for Point Reyes National Seashore.

CREA's executive committee, in a special meeting during the association's convention here, endorsed a resolution by the Marin County Real Estate Board calling for such action. It authorized Emmett T. Gatewood of Los Gatos, CREA president, to wire President Richard M. Nixon, the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, and all California senators and congressmen urging an end to "the seven-year delay in acqusition of the seashore land."

The Interior and Insular Affairs Committee is to open hearings tomorrow on House Resolution 3786, by Representatives Don H. Clausen, R-First District, and William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, appropriating $38,365,000 to complete the seashore purchase.

650 miles up the coast from Santiago to Antofagasta to refuel.

Shortly after the landing, the hijackers allowed 12 of the 56 passengers, seven adults and five children, to leave the plane because they showed signs of hysterics.

The plane refueled and taxied to the head of the runway, when the pilot reported a malfunction of the left jet.

It was generally believed the pilot faked the malfunction.

The plane returned to the ramp, and the hijackers allowed the rest of the passengers to get off.

Another Chilean Caravelle, just in from Santiago, was sitting empty in the ramp. The hijackers forced the crew at gunpoint to switch to this plane. It refueled and took off.

The hijackers were identified as Pedro Varas Flores, 16, and Patricio Fernando Degach Vergue, 15, both students.

Vallejo Motorists Injured In Accident

Tommy L. Giles, 23, of Vallejo, was treated for a scraped forehead and chest pains at the Kaiser Clinic in San Rafael yesterday after the car in which he was riding rolled over on the Fairfax-Bolinas Road near Buena Vista Drive, the California Highway Patrol said today.

He was a passenger in a car driven by Isaac Taylor, 24, of Vallejo, which slammed into an embankment and rolled after hitting a wet sopt on a curve at 2:05 p.m., the patrol said. Taylor refused medical aid for a cut finger and chest pains.

TRANSPORT

created agency). It would lend them to commuters without charge.

The communter who agreed to be the local "bus driver" would then do just what he does now with a car pool — pick up his passengers at their homes or pre-arranged stops. But he would deliver them to the tractor-trailer at its highway stop nearest his area, driving the little bus on board. He would pay for gasoline and oil for the minibus; the transit agency would keep it in repair.

Schellenberg describes the typical operation:

"On arrival (in San Francisco) Joe drives his bus to the Russ Building, drops off three or four, on to the Wells-Fargo Building, and parks his vehicle in the garage there . . .

"On holidays, Saturdays and Sundays he has the free use of the bus for pleasure driving."

After the tractor-trailer has dropped off its minibuses in downtown San Francisco, it returns to Marin for a second load. After that load is delivered, it becomes a commercial freight carrier.

"Next it goes to the Rincon (Postoffice) Annex," continues Schellenberg's description.

"A forklift truck loads 10 loaded containers with mail for the airport . . . .At the airport it picks up another 10 when it has unloaded. Brings them to Rincon. Proceeds to the Sunset Scavenger Co.'s lot and picks up a load of containerized garbage. Hauls it to the central destruction plant in Richmond, where it picks up a load of sterilized empty containers from the day before.

"Hauls them to the Safeway distribution center for loading. Picks up a load of containerized groceries for Marin stores, delivers them, picks up Marin garbage containers; goes to Richmond with them, unloads, goes to San Francisco City Hall and picks up a load of Marinbound buses." The tractor-trailer is now hauling the commuters home.

"Joe drives his bus off at San Rafael, now loaded with the same crew he brought in that morning. Drops them off at their door-step. Necessary transfers have been made while aboard the van."

Schellenberg contends the freight revenues could pay for the entire operation. Commuters would ride free.

During the night the tractor-trailers could be put to commercial use hauling containerized freight.

"Don't compete with the truckers," he suggests. "Rent them the use of the van on an hourly plus mileage basis with driver and all. Truckers will eventually need less investment in rolling stock when they see their needs reliably and continually met."

Schellenberg believes the system would provide commuters what they want: door-to-door service, riding with acquaintances as in car pools.

Each tractor-trailer making trips each way daily would take 60 cars off the road and out of downtown parking lots and rush-hour traffic, he points out. They would employ teamsters who now drive Greyhound buses and other vehicles. Only losers would be the gasoline companies, but everyone would be a gainer through decrease in vehicle-caused air pollution.

Such a proposal would, of course, require extensive study. But Schellenberg, instead of proposing a high-cost study by some consultant firm, suggests this be done in the schools.

"We are a wasteful society indeed," he writes. "Will our college students in the statistical field learn statistics less from practicing on these problems than from practicing on those in the professor's textbook? Nonsense! . . .

"I propose that our institutions of college level put the challenges of these required studies to their students, that the board of the bridge district, and the counties of Marin and San Francisco, and the state or perhaps the federal government (mail and military cargoes, and research funds on these problems would help) get behind such a challenge."

Jury Trial Set

A jury trial has been set for the week of March 30, 1970, in Marin Superior Court for Hilton Welborn, 31, of Santa Rosa, who is charged with a felony battery on a police officer when arrested July 30 for driving 80 miles per hour on Highway 101.

stration that was notable for its peaceful nature.

Washington said he felt a key element in persuading the Justice Department to grant a permit was an agreement by mobilization leaders to abandon plans to demonstrate around the White House. The authorized parade route at no point comes closer than one block from the executive mansion.

Former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark told a news conference today there is " no real indication of any significant violence ... and ... the march should go off with dignity—and that's what all Americans should want whether they agree with it or not."

Clark said a lawyers' task force will be on the streets during the three days of activities to monitor the demonstrations and police response. They will be assisted by 75 clergymen.

Deploring predictions of trouble, Clark suggested, "One of the best ways to cause violence is to create the anticipation of it. We ought to talk about free speech and peaceful assembly."

The Veterans Day armistice hammered out yesterday with top Justice Department officials ended a month-long battle and paved the way for what both sides now say will be a massive, but peaceful demonstration.

The government is "not giving anything to which the people are not entitled," said one demonstration leader, Ron Young. But, he added: "We're basically happy and ready to move now."

As Young spoke at a news conference last night, Atty Gen. John N. Mitchell underscored the administration's viewpoint, telling a Milwaukee audience that "the foreign policy of this government cannot and will not be formulated in the streets of Washington—or in any other street of this nation."

But, added Mitchell, "this administration clearly recognizes the right of these people under our First Amendment to peacefully congregate in Washington and to petition the government with respect to their grievances —assumed or otherwise."

Asked if they were disappointed at not being allowed to bring the mass protest directly in front of the White House, protest leaders referred instead to their 40-hour "March Against Death." They plan this protest to send demonstrators single-file from Arlington Cemetery past the White House and to the Capitol beginning tomorrow night and ending Saturday morning. The Justice Department has not objected to this.

Before the Justice Department relented Tuesday, the New Mobilization Committee telegrammed President Richard M. Nixon, asking him to meet personally with its spokesman to break the impasse.

Asked if the President interceded on their behalf, the protest leaders replied "all government officials agreed on this permit. As far as we understand, the President agreed also."

White Blood Cells, Heart Attacks Link

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — White blood cells—the body's shock troops against invading germs —might also be among the underlying causes of heart attacks, a team of New York researchers said today.

The possibility is suggested by research on rabbits, reported Dr. Sanford C. Spraragen and several colleagues of New York City's Veterans Administration Hospital and Downstate Medical Center.

In a report prepared for the annual meeting of the American Heart Association's Council on Arteriosclerosis, Dr. Spraragen stressed that further work needs to be done before white blood cells could definitely be incriminated in human heart disease.

But he said the rabbit research adds up to this:

Certain white blood cells have the ability to invade the inner wall of an artery, lodge there, become fat-filled cells called "foam cells," and apparently can contribute to the process of "antherosclerosis" — a technical term for a dangerous form of hardening of the arteries.

In atherosclerosis, arteries are clogged with particles of fatty substances deposited on the inner lining of the blood vessel. It long has been under suspicion as a major cause of coronary heart attacks. Diets high in animal fats and oils have been blamed by many scientists as being key contributors.

"Foam cells"—whose name comes from their lacy appearance under the microscope—are basically tiny bags of fat which are believed to play a building-block role in the atherosclerotic process.

In the New York experiments, 3-month-old rabbits from the same litter were divided into two groups. Both groups were fed diets rich in cholesterol, a chemical component of animal fats and oils.

After 10 weeks, white blood cells were isolated from one group of rabbits and injected into the other animals. The blood cells were tagged with a radioactive material so they could be located later in the recipients' aortic tissue.

It was found that transplanted white blood cells invaded the arterial wall at the site of aetherosclerotic deposits already formed there, and contributed to foam-cell formation.

A Mix-Up In Veterans Day

Only a few lonely-looking American flags, raised by individual residents, flew in San Rafael yesterday to commemorate Veterans Day.

In past years, the San Rafael Junior Chamber of Commerce has put up 100 flags in observance of the holiday, but these were not in evidence yesterday.

Douglas G. Daily, internal vice president for the junior chamber, said the lack of flags was due to a mix-up, not an oversight. He explained his organization had contracted with a group of high school students to raise the flags Nov. 11, but said, for some reason, the youngsters had failed to perform.

"We don't know why yet," Dailey said, "but we hope to have the flags out on another holiday, probably Thanksgiving to honor our country's veterans."

Small Fights, Toll Light In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — Small scattered actions were reported in South Vietnam today, with 69 enemy, three Americans and one South Vietnamese militiaman killed in clashes in the northern provinces and along Saigon's outer defenses. Thirteen Americans were wounded and two were missing.

Along the central coast near Qui Nhon, a plane with eight South Korean officers on an inspection tour crashed, killing all aboard. Three of the officers were colonels who were promoted posthumously to brigadier general. Bad weather was blamed for the crash.

Fighting was reported on three sides of Saigon but the closest encounter was 28 miles from the city, where U.S. 9th Division infantrymen killed 10 Viet Cong in one firefight.

South Vietnamese militiamen killed 15 enemy soldiers and captured three assault rifles and two grenade launchers in a skirmish 31 miles northwest of Saigon. One militiaman was killed.

American Rangers clashed briefly with enemy soldiers 40 miles northeast of Saigon, killing five. One Ranger was killed and one wounded.

The U.S. Marines reported 25 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese slain in two skirmishes in the northern provinces south of Da Nang. Two Leathernecks were wounded.

Three miles south of the demilitarized zone, infantrymen of the 5th Mechanized Division's 1st Brigade reinforced by armored personnel carriers battled North Vietnamese regulars for 12 hours before the North Vietnamese pulled back, leaving 11 bodies and three field pieces. American losses were two killed and 10 wounded.

U.S. headquarters reported 11 enemy rocket and mortar attacks during the night, but said only five caused casualties. South Vietnamese headquarters said 10 civilians, eight soldiers and one policeman were wounded in mortar barrages.

The South Korean command plane crashed into Mount Bong Chieu, 100 miles south of Da Nang, as it was preparing to land at Qui Nhon.

A South Korean spokesman said the three pilots apparently were unable to spot the Qui Nhon airfield because of heavy rains and cloud cover as they circled the field for nearly two hours. He said radio contact was lost, and the pilots might have been trying to land because they were running low on fuel.

Steps Taken On Curbing Jet Noises

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration announced today a regulation designed to cut in half the noise from jet planes arriving or leaving airports.

The regulation, effective on Dec. 1, applies only to the Boeing 747 and other air-bus and jumbo jet types not yet in service but an FAA spokesman said similar regulations are being considered for current jet planes later next year.

The industry has labelled the proposed new regulation contrary to law "in that it is not economically reasonable and technologically practicable."

VOLPE'S OUTLOOK

Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe said the new regulation "will result in an approximate halving of the noise around airports."

Initially only the 747, due to begin airline operation early next year, and the Lockheed L-1011 and Douglas DC10 coming along a year or two later, are affected by the new rule.

However, Oscar Bakke, FAA associate administrator for plans, said a similar rule for current jet planes probably will be proposed in the last half of 1970, and might go into effect six months or more later.

That rule might require engine-hushing modifications that would cost $665,000 to qualify each Douglas DC8, or $1.2 million for each Boeing 707, he said.

Immediately after the news conference at which Bakke announced the new noise limits, the Aerospace Industries Association (AIA) distributed a statement calling the proposed new regulation contrary to law "in that it is not economically reasonable and technologically practicable."

The AIA proposed less stringent regulations which it asked the FAA to substitute for its own proposal.

Finch Supports Plan On Phasing Out DDT

WASHINGTON (UPI) —HEW Secreta Robert H. Finch has endorsed a report recommending that major use of DDT be brought to an end in the United States over a two-year period, it was disclosed today.

John G. Veneman, undersecretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said Finch had discussed the proposal with two cabinet colleagues, Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin and Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel, and both "were receptive to the idea."

A high Agriculture Department source said the department expects to announce soon a ban on most —but not all — uses of the widely used pesticide.

Veneman said Finch had signed an order for an outright ban since authority to curb use of DDT on crops is under Hardin rather than the HEW secretary.

"What he did was accept a report which concludes that major use of DDT be phased out over a period of two years," Veneman told newsmen on Capitol Hill.

The Agriculture Department source commented that "we have been looking at DDT uses on a use-by-use basis. We do anticipate some action relatively soon on a use-by-use basis."

The source added he could not speculate at this time as to which or how many uses would be affected.

What Finch did was endorse a report by a committee he set up himself to study the problem.

Under federal law, the Agriculture Department is responsible for registering pesticides as safe and approved for individual uses. Finch's department sets safe residue tolerance levels for pesticides in foods.

An agriculture source said the preciese scope of actions on DDT remained hazy because they might depend on what HEW may do about present residue tolerance levels or on whether the White House may decide on broader action to prevent contamination of the environment.

Present Agriculture Department thinking, the source said, was pointed toward permitting continued registration of DDT for uses where it is urgently needed for public health reasons or where it is the only available protector for certain crops.

Woman Senator Due To Lead Murphy Fete

Lowering Vote Age Plea To Marinites

The chairman of a national campaign to allow 18-year-olds the vote came to Marin yesterday to enlist support for his cause and alternately called today's young people "idealistic, the best educated generation in history" and "middle-aged teen-agers," unwilling to take chances.

Twenty-one-year-old Dennis M. Warren, speaking before about 70 persons, mostly young people, at Dominican College, said today's teen-ager is ready to vote because he has been forced to grow up fast.

"There is no longer a child's world," he said. "Even little kids, through television, are aware of what is happening in the world; they have seen people killing people and the bombings and riots."

He said only a small percentage of youth (about 2 per cent) are "radical reformers," the kind of young people who "scare adults in this country."

"Actually, most young people have the same ideologies as their parents," Warren said. He added that a recent national survey had found the "now" generation to be, on the whole "ready to settle for low success, rather than risk high failure, unadventurous, reluctant patriots who would rather compromise than risk all-out war and old before their time."

The young chairman of Let Us Vote (LUV) went on to point out that the youth franchise is not a new idea in this country; in 1619 the Virginia House of Burgesses allowed 17-year-olds to vote.

Warren said 53 U.S. senators favor giving the vote to the young, five Presidents have been for it and "a recent poll showed 64 per cent of the American people" were for the 18-year-old vote.

But he went on to say that the compaign for a younger voting age is doomed in California in the near future "because the political climate is wrong; many older people are fed up with youth."

Warren criticized the news media for what he said was a negative portrayal of young people. "For days on end there are front page stories on violent demonstrations and riots around the country," he said. "But if teen-agers get together and do something positive, then the story is hidden back on page 32, along with the death notices."

He said that when he was to appear on the Joey Bishop television show to promote his vote campaign, a "very important representative of the media in this country told me they would cover the show only if I could promise a violent demonstration."

When asked to name the media representative in question, Warren declined to answer.

He concluded his talk by saying 18-year-olds have all the responsibilities of adults — military service, taxation, adult criminal regulations — but none of the privileges.

"It just isn't fair," he said, and received a warm response from his youthful audience. "Young people want to be involved and I think they should be."

Guidotti Renamed To Bridge Board

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA —The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors has reappointed E. J. Guidotti to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District board after nearly a year's delay.

Guiotti's term expired in December, but the appointment was not made pending the outcome of a state Senate bill to exclude Sonoma County from a bill requiring a member of the board of supervisors and a representative of the cities to serve on the board. Guidotti, of Guerneville, is a former supervisor.

Other Sonoma representatives on the bridge board are L. E. Castner Boyes Springs and William R. Lucius, a Healdsburg councilman.

Crash Results In An Arrest

A San Rafael man was injured and arrested on suspicion of drunken driving yesterday after a two-car collision on H Street, north of Fifth Avenue, San Rafael police reported today.

Albert Frank Schmitz, 64, of 271 Fairhills Drive, was treated for a scalp cut at Marin General Hospital after his car collided with one driven by Gaetan J. Ingrassia, 38, of 3 Lindenwood Court about 6 p.m., police said.

Schmitz was booked into Marin County Jail and released on his own recognizance to appear in Marin Municipal Court on Friday.

Lansing is Michigan's capital.

Youth's Drive Flops On Draft Card Mail

The imaginative attempt by a Terra Linda youth to avoid receiving his draft notice in the mail has flopped.

Robert Blanch, 20, of 899 Greenberry Lane, complained mail from his draft board is obsecene under a recent federal law and asked that no more be delivered.

Postal authorities are not even going to argue the obscenity point, according to Charles Harper, director of management procedures for the San Francisco Post Office.

The new law, Harper said, especifically says that the offending mail must offer something for sale.

A draft notice isn't selling something, Harper indicated. "It's more like Uncle Sam wants to borrow something."

A certified letter informing Blanch of the government's stand was scheduled to be mailed today to the youth.

Blanch said he made the attempt because he believes "a letter which orders people to be trained to kill can easily be classified as obscene."

Identity Wrong In Auto Theft

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting that John Hanley of 14 Magdalena Court, Mill Valley, had been arrested by the California Highway Patrol on suspicion of possessing a stolen auto.

Hanley is the owner of the stolen car.

Warner Bayley Kingsbury, 16, of 8 Magdalena Court, and Robert Dean Phipps, 14, of 5B Oliver Lane, both Mill Valley, were booked onto Marin County Juvenile Hall after they were stopped for a traffic violation on a Highway 101 frontage road while driving Hanley's car.

Cyclist Breaks Foot

Andrew Kephart, 20, of 111 Sleepy Hollow Drive, Sleepy Hollow, was treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for a broken foot suffered when his motorcycle hit a dog at 1 p.m. on San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo police reported.

Social Science Staff To Talk With Parents

Faculty members of the social sciences department will participate with parents in small discussion groups at 7:30 p.m. Monday at San Rafael High School cafeteria.

The session will afford parents a chance to ask questions about what students are being taught, reported Jane Levinsohn, program chairman, San Rafael High School Parent-Teacher Association.

Zodiac Now Says Victims Number 7

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A mystery killer who calls himself Zodiac claims his victims now number seven instead of the five previously blamed on him by police.

The killer had identified himself as the slayer of three young women and two men in a series of letters and phone calls to police and newspapers since August.

In one of two typically unpunctuated notes to the San Francisco Chronicle disclosed in today's editions, he said:

"This is the Zodiac speaking up to the end of Oct I have killed 7 people."

The other note carried the notation "Des July Aug Sept Oct —7." With it came a coded message, so far undeciphered, of 340 characters and a piece of bloody shirt torn from a taxicab driver Zodiac boasted of killing Oct. 11.

Police interpreted "Des" in the list of months as December. One of the previously recorded murders occurred last December, and there also were Zodiac murders in July, September and October.

But the police were unable to link any murders with Zodiac in August.

A newspaper spokesman said the undeciphered code message might contain clues.

Last month Zodiac threatened to flatten the tires of school buses with gunfire and "pick off the kiddies as they come bouncing out." Police assigned 60 men to escort the buses, but the killer did not appear.

In his latest communication to the Chronicle, Zodiac says he is "rather angry with police for telling lies about me" and goes on:

"So I shall change the way the collecting of slaves . . . "

Gina Lollobrigida To Wed Non-Fan

ROME (AP) — Actress Gina Lollobrigida announced today she is going to marry George S. Kaufman, a New York real estate man who said he has never seen one of her movies.

Miss Lollobrigida, 41, made the announcement at a news conference before she and Kaufman, 40, flew to New York from Rome.

The marriage, which Miss Lollobrigida said would take place "as soon as possible," will be the second for both of them.

It will automatically excommunicate the auburn-haired beauty from the Roman Catholic Church and theoretically leave her open to bigamy charges in Italy, which has no provision for divorce.

This is because in the eyes of the Church and of Italian authorities, she is still married to a Yugoslav - born doctor and publisher from whom she was separated in 1967 after 17 years of wedlock. Kaufman is divorced.

"I hope we will be able to marry in the States," said Kaufman, a tall, dark-haired man who looks younger than his 40 years.

"We don't know the where and when, but we will announce it in New York," he said.

Miss Lollobrigida said her lawyers were taking care of legal aspects of the wedding. She is technically still married in Italy to Milko Skofic, a Yugoslav-born doctor and publisher.

They were legally separated two years ago.

Skofic obtained a divorce in Vienna, Austria, last March. It is not valid in Italy.

Kaufman said he was married once and the marriage ended in divorce three years ago. He has two daughters, aged 14 and 12.

He said the daughters — Cynthia and Valerie — "have met Gina in New York and they love her."

Miss Lollobrigida has one child by the Skofic marriage, Milko Jr. He is now 12. Technically in her custody, he is currently living in a boarding school in Switzerland.

Span Leap Stopped

Patricia Rose Blynn, 32, of Alameda, was committed to San Francisco General Hospital for observation yesterday after the California Highway Patrol stopped her from jumping off the bridge, the patrol reported officers said yesterday.

Teen-Ager Given A Year In Jail

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court has ordered Michael Vincent St. Martin, 18-year-old San Rafael youth who admitted two burglaries and two misdemeanor offenses connected with burglaries, to spend one year in jail.

He also placed the youth on three years probation Monday and told him to submit to periodic testing to determine if he is using narcotics.

Warning the youth that he faces state prison if he commits any more offenses, he ordered that St. Martin be given credit for time already served in jail.

Earlier in the same court, St. Martin's older brother, Jeremiah Jerome St. Martin, 23, also admitted taking part in the burglary at a San Anselmo antique shop July 21.

Judge Wilson set sentencing for the older St. Martin for Dec. 22.

A Bomb Threat

A telephoned bomb threat yesat 1 p.m. Monday to Kresky Manufacturing, Second and H streets, Petaluma, caused employees to search the building, police reported. No bomb was found and work was not disturbed.

Bugging The Bug Bugging Phone Lines

As gardeners battle aphids and farmers crop-destroying insects, Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. fights the lead cable borer, nicknamed the "short circuit beetle."

The beetles bug the firm by making holes about one-tenth of an inch in diameter in cables.

"Since moisture is an enemy of telephone wires each beetle hole is a potential danger to telephone calls," explained C. H. Russell, business manager, San Rafael office of the firm.

To track down the beetles' dirty work, the company is using an electronic listening device, similar to the "shotgun mike" television networks use at football games to pick up the sounds of field combat.

There is constant air pressure in the cable, and when a beetle makes a hole, air escapes, Russell reported.

With the ultra sonic device, company employees can pick up the sound of air escaping from a range of about 20 feet. Battery operated and featuring a parabolic reflector, it is aimed at the cable by a maintenance splicer standing beneath the cable.

Once a leak is located, the maintenance splicer reaches the hole by a truck lift, plugs the hole and wraps the cable, sealing it against the weather.

"Each hole located by the maintenance splicer is one less potential source of trouble," Russell said.

Railroads Plea For Freight Rate Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's railroads, seeking support for the third freight rate hike in three years, told the Interstate Commerce Commission today inflation is cutting their profits to "the thinest of margins."

Answering protests filed against the 6 per cent rate hike appeal filed Oct. 10, the Association of American Railroads said unless the request is granted "even the present minimal earnings will disappear.

The total shoreline of the Caspian Sea is 4,000 miles long, most of it in the Soviet Union.

Kappas Is Given Payment Deadline

The Tamalpais Fire District board has given Sausalito houseboat-lord George Kappas two weeks to come up with the money to extend fire protection by the district to his Gate 6½ houseboat colony.

Trustee Benard Lenhart reported that the district board voted Monday to send Kappas a registered letter asking him to submit a check for $585 to cover his share of hydrant fittings and other necessary installations.

Kappas's tenants in the houseboat colony have launched a rent strike against him because of his alleged inaction in improving the property. One of their chief complaints involved the lack of adequate fire protection.

59 Strep Cases

Fifty-nine cases of streptococcus infection, 31 of gonorrhea, two of infectious hepatitis and one each of salmonella and shigella were reported in Marin last week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, County health director.

Boone Promoted To Assistant Post

Wayne D. Boone, assistant principal at San Rafael High School, last night was named assistant superintendent for instructional services, San Rafael City Schools, at a salary of $20,000 a year.

Boone, 43, will take over his new job Dec. 1, succeeding James L. Nelson who resigned in September. His current salary is $18,200 a year.

Supt. John F. Plank reported there were 40 applicants for the post, and eight were interviewed by a screening committee with Boone emerging as the top choice.

The San Rafael Board of Education, acting on the committee recommendation, appointed Boone under a contract until June 30, 1971.

Boone, who has been at his high school post for five years, previously worked in the Oakland Unified School District for eight years, first as a teacher of mathematics and then as curriculum coordinator for a junior high school.

Before his experience in Oakland, he taught music for two years at Midwestern University, Texas.

A native of Durant, Okla., he holds a bachelor's degree from Southeastern State College, Okla., a master's degree in education from Midwestern University, Tex., and is nearing completion of a docorate in education at the University of California at Berkeley.

During World War II, he served in the Navy.

Six Children Die In Ohio Inferno

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Fire swept through a two and one-half story frame house on the city's East Side today, claiming the lives of six children — two girls and four boys.

The victims, ages 3 through 9, were identified as children of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Jackson.

The mother, Shirley, 28, was sleeping on the first floor, firemen said, and managed to escape the fire. She was treated for smoke inhalation and shock at Marymount Hospital.

The father was not at home at the time, firemen said.

Firemen said they were told the children were on the second floor but the fire was too intense to reach them.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Damage to the home was estimated at $15,000. Firemen said only part of the first floor of the house remained standing.

Vermont is also known as the Green Mountain State.

Trustees Rap 'Battle Line' Concept Of Pay

The newly elected president of the Marin County School Boards Association last night opposed drawing "battle lines" between boards and teachers.

Lawrence I. Kramer Jr., a member of the San Rafael Board of Education, last night said he was concerned over the tenor of the main address at the county group's annual meeting last month.

The speaker, Supt. Paul Nielsen of South San Francisco Unified School District, in his talk, "The Developing Clash — What Should a School Board Do?," advised how to deal with teacher negotiating councils.

"Drawing up battle lines strikes me as being ridiculous," said Kramer. In the talk, the effect was "sort of teachers on one side and we on another," he asserted.

Kramer said there is a difference in roles, but the basic aim is the best educational program for students, with the most equitable compensation.

Board Member Paul L. Jones said, "A whole lot more can be accomplished by cooperation, and Board President Herman L. Childress agreed.

Jones felt the address was like "saying have a battle before there's even a difference of opinion."

'Flying Nun' Actress Mother Of Baby Boy

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sally Field, who plays "The Flying Nun" on televisoon, has given birth to a 7-pound, 4-ounce baby boy.

Miss Field and her son, Peter Joshua, who was born Monday were reported doing well at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital. The actress is married to Steve Craig, a photographer.

Russ Assure W. Germany On Atom Ban

BONN (AP) — The Soviet Union has assured West Germany the treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons will not hinder peaceful nuclear research in countries that sign it, Foreign Minister Walter Scheel said today.

He said the Soviet assurance was contained in a written response to Bonn's request for a Soviet interpretation of a number of points in the document.

Speaking during a Bundestag, or parliament, debate on the treaty, Scheel said the Soviet Union assured Bonn also that a U.N. resolution in which nuclear states pledged not to use force against nonnuclear states applies to West Germany as well. West Germany is not a member of the United Nations and has no nuclear weapons.

The debate was on the government's intention to sign the treaty and leave clarification of still outstanding points until ratification.

The opposition Christian Democratic party said West Germany should not sign the document until all outstanding points are cleared up.

Some Christian Democratic politicians have objected to the treaty, claiming it would cut off West Germany from the benefits of nuclear research and endanger security.

The government, therefore, asked the Soviet Union and the United States for interpretations of a number of treaty clauses.

In support of their argument that West Germany should sign the treaty, Scheel and West German Science Minister Hans Leussink announced that Japan has decided to sign the pact.

Tint Tot Room Hit By Vandals

Vandals Sunday hurled a large outdoor light bulb through the closed plate window at the Tiny Tot Room at Albert Park, San Rafael police have reported.

And a rear window at the Short School at 7 Marin Street, was removed during the weekend and cigarette butts were found on the floor, police said.

San Rafael Pupils Do Well In Reading Test

San Rafael Elementary School District pupils, grades one through three, mainly were in the top quarter of a statewide reading test given last May.

The encouraging report was presented to the San Rafael Board of Education last night, but joy was restrained.

The standings were about the same as they have been in the past three years, and board members said they would like to know what gains pupils are making in reading, and what is being done for pupils who were in the lowest quarter.

More than half the students in the three grades were in the top quarter, 54 per cent in the first grade, 56 per cent in the second grade and 52 per cent in the third grade.

In the lowest quarter were 11 per cent in the first grade, 7 per cent in the second grade and 7 per cent in the third grade.

Board member Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. said the results of the Stanford Reading Test, under the state testing program, indicate "we seem to be doing a significant job . . . . but are we getting the job done we feel needs to be done?"

Jack Kirby, director of administrative services, said reading gain for pupils during a school year ranges from two months to 40 months.

Kramer said the results were a signal alerting "us to a group that needs additional help," and Kirby reported there is a program underway for pupils who have difficulty reading.

The San Rafael Board of Education Also:

Principal Frank Stocking said the film was reviewed by the faculty and shown by the school's film club, with attendance voluntary.

BOOK PURCHASING — Received a report from Charles L. Condrotte that the school is purchasing textbooks in the most economical way.

Monty To Sell His Ike Art

LONDON (AP) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery has decided to auction off a portrait of him done by a military colleague, the late Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Montgomery said he sat for the painting while acting as Eisenhower's deputy supreme allied commander in Paris after World War II.

Montgomery said he had decided to sell the painting at an auction Nov. 26 because "an American friend who was visiting me said he thought it ought to be in America."

ACTRESS MERCEDES McCAMBRIDGE
Calls alcoholism treatment 'barbaric'

MERCEDES McCAMBRIDGE

Her Biggest Prize: Beating Alcoholism

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Mercedes McCambridge once won an Oscar, but she said her biggest prize in life was her triumph over alcoholism.

She likes to talk about it; wants to bring it out in the open.

"The way we treat the whole problem is barbaric," she told an interviewer yesterday.

"I knew a woman, heiress to a fabulous fortune, who died in a corner suite of one of our best hospitals. She died of alcoholism and malnutrition after her family—in ignorance—overprotected her."

Nice people don't die of booze, said the 51-year-old character actress, "so it's called something else."

Miss McCambridge, who won her Academy Award in 1950 for her role in "All the King's Men," said her life with the bottle was "a kind of hell."

She blames basic insecurity for getting her started.

"I always compared my worst qualities to everyone else's best qualities," she said.

"I knew there was a rat race going on inside of me, but I thought everyone else had it made.

"Now, of course, I know that everybody has problems."

She said some of her film roles were destructive, too.

"I played the worst harridans, the most hard-bitten women, the absolute heavies, and it just about did me in."

Now she spends much of her time on college campuses, starring in otherwise all-student productions.

People have helped her greatly, she said. She described as "fantastic" some of the letters she received since she told of her affliction last September before a U.S. Senate subcommittee hearing on drug and alcohol abuse.

One came from 79-year-old Rose Kennedy, mother of the late president.

"Have fun, say a few prayers, be determined to know not age or weariness or defeat,' 'Mrs. Kennedy wrote.

Miss McCambridge also cherishes her friendship with the late Adlai Stevenson, who gave her Sir Malcolm—a West Highland terrier who is her constant companion.

A source of pride is her son, John Lawrence Markle, 27, who is styding for a doctorate at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Officials Vote Airlines Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — Northwest Airlines, the nation's most profitable airline in 1968, plans to merge with ailing Northeast Airlines, officials of both companies announced yesterday.

Northeast stockholders would receive one share of Northwest stock for each share they turn in under the tentative merger agreement.

The plan is subject to approval of the Civil Aeronautics Board and directors and stockholders of both airlines.

Northwest turned a profit of $50 million last year, while Northeast complied a $2.4 million deficit. Northeast's deficit for the first nine months of 1969 was reported as $8.7 million. It has lost money in 13 of the last 14 years.

Californians Reflect On Veterans Day

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Veterans Day in California evoked poignant memories for many and sparked antiwar demonstrations among others. But except for a few scattered incidents, it turned out to be a day of solemn reflection — regardless of viewpoint.

Lt. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., the nation's highest ranking Negro officer, unlike some other speakers, did not criticize the voices of dissent in an address in front of the Compton City Hall.

Davis, deputy commander in chief of the U.S. Strike Command at McDill Air Force Base, Fla., said:

"Youngsters see imperfections in our society when they express impatience. They are seeking a cause to which they can dedicate themselves. The imperfections they see hold a high priority, here as well as in South Vietnam."

At Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, the nation's only living five-star general, told a sparse audience that if Americans "lack the belief we are pledged to uphold, then we do not deserve the heritage which is ours."

Actor James Stewart, a World War II bomber pilot who had a step-son killed in Vietnam, was among celebrities who visited ex-GIs in the wards of the Sawtelle Veterans Administration Hospital.

In Hayward, B52 jet bombers flew over a five-hour parade which included 3,000 marchers.

The Committee of Concerned Asian Scholars continued a vigil at Grace Cathedral in San Francisco examining U.S. policy in Vietnam.

Across the bay at the University of California at Berkeley, a group of science teachers and student organizations sponsored a daylong "teach-in" against chemical and biological warfare.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, speaking at Forest Lawn Memorial-Park, termed the day a day of "memory and devotion." He said it was a time to tell our fighting men in Vietnam, "we're behind you."

Rep. John V. Tunney, D-38th District, urged a "systematic withdrawal of all our troops — not just our combat troops — from South Vietnam." The congressman from Riverside spoke to about 300 students and teachers at Loma Linda University.

A group of 17 youngsters unsuccessfully attempted to distribute leaflets at the Presidio of San Francisco, urging soldiers to take part in Saturday's peace march.

Elsewhere in the nation:

Some of the larger crowds—estimated by police at more than 10,000 each—were in Washington, Boston and Tallahassee, Fla.

Massachusetts Gov. Francis W. Sargent—declaring "Veterans are being produced the hard way in Vietnam at this very moment"—led 11,000 marchers in Boston. The Tallahassee parade featured traditional floats and civic displays.

In the nation's capital, organizers of the Veterans Day Freedom Rally at the Washington Monument could claim success as the estimated turnout on a cool but clear autumn day matched their predictions.

The mostly white, neatly dressed gathering in Washington applauded and shouted approval during the two and one-half hours as speaker after speaker attacked leaders of the war protest movement.

Some 35,000 were on the same ground Oct. 15 for music, speeches and the beginning of a candlelight march the night of the Vietnam Day Moratorium. And it was as an answer to this war protest and others that the "freedom rally" yesterday was declared to make something extra of the Veterans Day observance.

Long-haired young people and the freedom ralliers occasionally joined in argument on Vietnam—maybe a dozen small clusters in the mass for the day.

Not far away, the President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon paid a 45-minute visit to a Veterans Administration hospital. Their daughter, Julie, and her husband, David Eisenhower, observed the day in the same fashion by touring a hospital in Northhampton, Mass.

Although the day was dedicated to honoring America's warriors of past and present, many citizens who back Nixon's Vietnam policy and oppose the war protests took advantage of the occasion to show their feelings by showing the flag and driving with their car lights on.

Child In Street Injured By Taxicab

Lynette Irene Caruthers, 3, of 207 G Street, San Rafael, was treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for forehead, face and knee bruises after being struck by a taxicab in front of her home.

Cab driver Dennis Walczak, 25, of 1512 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, was driving slowly and and safely when the accident occurred, according to police.

Sonoma Officials Set Mobile Homes Parley

The impact of mobile homes on the community will be discussed by a panel at the Sonoma County Mayors' and Councilmen's Association meeting at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Green Mill Inn, Cotati.

Participating on the panel will be Walter Dahl, chief of the division of building and housing standards of the State Department of Housing and Community Standards; Norman McAdoo, past president of the Western-Mobile Home Association; Carolyn Wolfe of Sonoma, member of the Sonoma County Planning Commission; and Vernon P. Smith, vice-major of Rohnert Park.

Cluster School At Sonoma State Keyed To Individuality

By BONNIE BARD

A school within a school — offering a small college atmosphere while still benefitting from the resources of a large institution — is the essence of Sonoma State College's cluster school plan.

September saw the opening of the Robert Maynard Hutchins School of Liberal Studies with 100 freshmen embarking on a form of education that stresses individuality and the development of the self-educating student.

Dr. Warren E. Olson, the catalyst and chairman of the cluster college, describes the school as a means of preserving the low student-teacher ratio while still having the rest of the college to draw upon for resources such as the library, administration and cafeteria.

The idea of a string of small, semi-independent schools within the large college framework developed last year as Olson and a student-faculty committee explored the possibility of adapting the British tutorial system to a state college.

A very general and casual curriculum is used with the theme "Images of Man." The five faculty members, representing the fields of philosophy, physics, psychology, English and political science, each bringing a portion of their specialty into the curriculum.

The 100 students are divided into groups of 20 and assigned to a professor for guidance. In turn, these groups are divided into groups of 10, meeting for seminars five or six hours per week.

"In the seminars we try to have the students become more deeply involved in discovering who they are," Olson said. "We try to disentangle ourselves from our culture and to discover the great commonalities of the many diverse cultures of the world."

Coming into play in the session are contemporary problems involving politics, science, philosophy and comparative religion.

"What we're really studying is man's view of himself — the human condition in an absurd world," he said.

Discussions ramble on in the seminars with students freely expressing themselves and trading opinions. "The sessions can be pretty brutal at times," Olson said.

The students range in age from 18 and fresh out of high school to 39-year-old veterans of the business world.

All incoming freshmen were sent information sheets about the experimental school and students were admitted on a first come, first served basis.

"We didn't pick them — they picked us," Olson said, adding that some may be leaving the experimental atmosphere at the end of the semester.

"The students seemed to have a sensation of floating in the beginning with all the free time allotted to them and no one to tell them how to use it," he said.

In between the six hours of seminars and a weekly meeting for the entire class, the students are expected to spend the remainder doing individual research. For some students accustomed to the regimentation of high school, the change has been hard to adjust to.

In selecting an individual research project, a student meets with his professor-counselor to gain direction and set a goal. While many are still floundering and not yet decided on a special interest, Olson said he expects many to produce innovative and original works.

No examinations are administered and all grading is done on a pass-fail basis.

"Extensive written reports on the students' progress will be included in a file and will be more meaningful than a string of grades," Olson said. "I'm also happy to avoid the trauma of agonizing for hours before the awarding of grades."

While other schools are contemplating the cluster school concept, Olson said Sonoma State has a greater chance for success because of its small size and large space available to cultivate the new system of small buildings clustered around the campus resource areas.

"In addition to that, we don't have any old traditions that must be continued at tht cost of educational adventurism," he said, noting that the faculty and administration have shown great support for the plan.

With the cluster concept approved last week by the California College Board of Trustees, faculty members are now planning two additional cluster schools which may open in the fall if funding is available.

They include the Dag Hammarskjold School of the Global Village to specialize in international politics and an environmental school.

Olson said each cluster school will be developed separately and none patterned after the others.

After graduating with a degree in liberal studies and no major field as such, Olson believes the students will discover new vocational careers which might never have occurred to them in the traditional college program. He said he expects many will go on to graduate schools.

Amended Sign Ordinance To Town Council

The Corte Madera Planning Commission has put its final touches on an amended sign ordinance and passed it on to the town council recommending approval.

Only change Monday night was a commission recommendation that the ordinance include a variance procedure.

The commission also recommended council approval of a change in the clearing and grading ordinance, extending grading and clearing limits to all R-1 and R-1-A lots in the town. The limits now apply only to specified areas, secretary Betty Long reported.

The Corte Madera Planning Commission also:

ZONING— Approved retail commercial zoning sought by Atlantic Richfield Company for 5702 Paradise Drive. The area is now in the general commercial district.

BILLBOARDS — At the applicant's request, postponed until Dec. 8 a design review application by H. Koch and Sons, Inc., luggage plant for approval of two existing billboards.

Radio Panel To Eye Student Aid

College of Marin's troubled student aid program will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on the Sounding booard program on radio KTIM.

Speakers will be Ernest N. Kettenhofen, president of the college foundation; Dean of Students Irwin P. Diamond; George Shay, vice president of the student body; George V. Oliva, president of the alumni association, and Elizabeth M. Deedy, vice president of the Marin Junior College District board.

Questions may be phoned into the Thursday broadcast. The show will be repeated at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Audio Equipment Taken From School

Audio equipment including several hand microphones and a cash box containing $50 were stolen Friday night from the audio-vision room at Terra Linda High School, San Rafael police have reported.

Thieves entered the building by smashing a window off the hallway and kicking in the door, the police said.

Judge Wants More Advice On Sentence

A puzzled judge has asked for more suggestions from probation officers about what to do with Lorraine M. Brocco, former Larkspur woman who assaulted her husband with a hatchet last October.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson said Monday that he did not want to send Mrs. Brocco to a state medical facility for a 90-day evaluation period since the state Department of Corrections frowns upon use of its facilities when state prison sentences are not contemplated.

Mrs. Brocco, who was described in a probation report as having a drug problem of long standing, is now living in Sacramento.

She had earlier admitted attacking her husband in their Greenbrae home while he slept in his bed. Both Mr. and Mrs. Brocco, now estranged, are pharmacists.

Both filed suits for divorce last November which are still pending.

Wilson suggested yesterday that the probation department investigate the possibility of local hospitalization for Mrs. Brocco.

He ordered her to return to court next Monday for sentencing.

Communication Course Slated

A four-week course on "Effective Listening and Communication" will begin Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Room CA-6 at San Rafael High School.

This, the third of a series of courses offered by the College of Marin, will be held on consecutive Tuesdays at the same time.

Lothar Salin, San Rafael business man and former international president of the Toastmasters, will teach the class planned to increase listening comprehension, even under distracting circumstances.

Advance registration may be made at the college office of community education on the Kentfield campus.

Discussion Set On Symposium's Impact

The Marin chapter of Zero Population Growth will discuss the impact of the recent College of Marin symposium on ecology at 7 p.m. today at the Mill Valley Public Library.

Information about the meeting may be obtained from Mrs. W. P. Bunnelle at Gate 6 Road, Sausalito.

School Vandalized

Vandals damaged trees, shrubs and broke a concrete incinerator at Petaluma Junior High School Sunday night, police reported. Damage may run as high as $800 school officials

Teen-Agers Held In Burglary Of Surplus Store

Two San Anselmo youths were arrested Monday on suspicion of burglarizing a San Rafael surplus store.

Robert Spencer Griswald, 17, of 506 Fawn Drive and Paul Robert Webb, 16, of 43 Merced Avenue, were arrested at the southeast corner of the Marin Surplus Sales at 2:01 a.m. by police alerted by a tripped burglar alarm.

The youths allegedly entered the building at 49 Simms Street by lowering themselves on a rope through a roof vent police said.

Police found three Boy Scout packs near the scene. A pile articles was found inside the building beneath the vent, police added.

Both boys were booked into Juvenile Hall on suspicion of burglary.

Norman Mailer Lawsuit Target

NEW YORK (UPI)—Author Norman Mailer is being sued for $500,000 by a Manhattan actor, it was disclosed Monday in Manhattan Supreme Court.

The suit became known when Mailer moved for an order dismissing the suit, which charged him with "assault and battery," on the grounds that he was improperly served with a summons.

The action was brought by Lane Smith against Mailer, Jose Torres, a former light heavyweight champion, and Ronald L. Hobbs, otherwise unidentified.

The court papers showed that Smith claims he was attacked on July 22, 1968, and seeks the monetary award as compensatory and punitive damages.

Juan Bautista de Anza found the first land route from Mexico to California in 1774.

OLD-FASHIONED maple and pecan flavors of Maple Pecan Cake are perfect for a buffet dinner. This cake has an added bonus, too—its "tote-able."

Take-Along Maple Pecan Cake

Group outings or church suppers involve many people, and many different dishes contribute to the display of good food. If you're asked to bring a dessert you'll want something that's delicious but easy to carry. Bake "tote-along" Maple Pecan Cake — it's a light, moist sour cream cake that will bring requests for a second piece.

Since Maple Pecan Cake can be cooled and iced right in the pan, it's a perfect tote-along cake. To further enhance the rich flavors of Maple Pecan Cake, cream cheese and maple-blended syrup are combined with confectioners sugar for a creamy frosting.

MAPLE PECAN CAKE
(Makes 8 servings)

¾ cup maple-blended syrup
½ cup sugar
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 egg
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup dairy sour cream
½ cup chopped pecans

Frosting

1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese, soft
1½ cups sifted confectioners sugar
2 teaspoons maple-blended syrup

For cake, heat oven to moderate (375° F.). Beat syrup, sugar and butter together until creamy. Blend in egg. Sift together flour, baking powder, ginger, soda and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with sour cream; blend well. Stir in pecans. Pour batter into greased and floured 11x7-inch baking pan.

Bake in preheated oven (375° F.) 35 to 40 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center of cake comes out clean. Cool thoroughly in pan on wire rack.

For frosting, beat cream cheese until fluffy. Gradually beat in confectioners sugar alternately with maple-blended syrup. Spread on cake.

Here's Fish Dish Family Will Like

Bread stuffing is perfectly delicious with fish.

STUFFED FISH FRANCES

¼ pound (1 stick) butter
1½ cups (2 medium) chopped onion
½ cup diced celery
3 cups herb-seasoned bread stuffing (from an 8-ounce bag)
¼ cup water
¼ cup sliced pimento-stuffed olives
¼ cup chopped dill pickle
4½ pound whole fish (such as whitefish), boned
Paprika

In a 10-inch skillet saute the onion in the butter. Add remaining ingredients, except the fish, and mix well. Stuff into body of fish; sew up or skewer closed. Rub top of fish with oil and sprinkle with paprika. Bake on oiled foil in shallow roasting pan in a preheated 400-degree oven until flesh is opaque through — 40 to 60 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Fondue Is Best At Informal Fete

Fondue parties are a charming Swiss custom which has caught on here as an informal, congenial way of entertaining. They can easily be adapted to large or small groups, and the preparation and serving are so simple that they make small demand on the hostess. Each guest spears a piece of crusty bread and dips it into a fondue sauce which is kept hot in a central dish over a warmer.

Actually, fondue is a French word meaning "to melt" and there are many different recipes for the fondue sauce. Here's a version to suit American tastes: it's a savory mixture of Swiss cheese, onion soup mix and apple juice.

Warn the happy dunkers to be careful not to lose their bread in the mixture: according to custom, they'll have to pay a forfeit if they do. In Switzerland, the losers usually treat the guests to wine, but you can add a bit of fun to the evening by voting on what the "penalty" should be — such as serving the dessert course, or washing the dishes.

Cold drinks should never be served with fondue. So, complete your menu with piping hot tea, and Fruit Orange Shells — hollowed-out oranges filled with a melange of the orange sections, pineapple tidbits and coconut, topped with toasted almonds.

FABULOUS FONDUE

1 envelope (1-⅜ oz.) onion soup mix
2 cups apple juice
1 pound natural Swiss cheese, shredded (4 cups)
2 tablespoons flour
French bread or rye bread, cut into bite size pieces

In medium saucepan, combine onion soup mix and apple juice; heat slowly.

In medium bowl, combine shredded cheese with flour. When juice begins to simmer, add a small portion of the floured cheese and stir constantly until the cheese is melted. Continue to add cheese gradually, stirring constantly, making sure each addition is melted.

To serve: Remove fondue pot, chafing dish, or heated casserole. Spear cubes of bread; then dip and stir into the fondue.

Combine Sprouts, Oranges For Unusual Skillet Dish

Brussels sprouts and oranges combine to make a California-style green and organge skillet dish.

Saute ¼ cup of spiced onion in ¼ cup of butter. Add 2 (10-ounce) package of frozen brussels sprouts, thawed and halved; 1 large navel orange, unpeeled, cut into thin half-slices; 1 teaspoon each of salt and sugar; ⅛ teaspoon of allspice and a dash of pepper. Cover; cook and stir 5 minues until sprouts are tender. Makes 6 servings.

THIS VERSION of fondue, the Swiss national dish, has especial appeal for American tastes: it's easily made with Swiss cheese, an envelop of onion soup mix for a zesty flavor, and apple juice to round out the intriguing mixture. Serve with crusty bread for dunking.

Children's Eggnog

Serve eggnog with a different twist—something that youngsters will especially enjoy—give it a peppermint flavor. In a bowl combine 1 quart chilled dairy eggnog and ¼ teaspoon peppermint extract. Serve in tall glasses with candy canes or peppermint sticks for stirrers. Yield: 4 cups. Eggnog combines the goodness of milk plus egg to make it nutritious, yet it is milk in such a novel form for the young set—they accept it as the party beverage for the holidays. And you still have them drinking a beverage that has good value.

Freeze And Chop

The most efficient and easiest way of all to chop raisins is to freeze them first. Put solidly frozen raisins, ½ cup at a time, in a lightly oiled blender jar and whir at high speed a second or two. Remove from blender jar immediately.

The Big Mixup.

Sometimes our sour cream gets all mixed up.
Sometimes you mix it up into onion dip.
Sometimes you mix it up into mushroom dip.
And sometimes you mix it up into a hot, baked potato.
So don't just sit there over the holidays.
Get in on the Big Mixup.

Starting All Over Again First Means Finding A Home

By JOAN LISETOR

"A mother without her children is a lost individual," says Christine Black, who has been separated from her three children since January.

Ten months ago she and Billy, eight, Laura, seven, and Karen, six years old lived in a lovely home in the Topanga Hills section of Los Angeles. Mrs. Black had just separated from her husband, but the family was getting along fine, when a devastating flood hit destroying their home and most of the homes in their area.

"The muddy water came through the front door and destroyed everything in its path out of the back door," she says. "I guess we were fortunate because another house on the block collapsed killing a husband and wife who were trapped inside."

HAVING LOST all of her possessions, Mrs. Black felt she was reaching the breaking point and that the atmosphere of her despondency was not good for her children. She sent them to stay with her parents in Port Washington, N.Y., until she could get back on her feet and start a new life.

For the past nine months Christine has been slowly working her way to "the promised land" — Marin County, where she wants to study Indian music at the Alla Akbar School of Music in Fairfax and attend classes at the College of Marin. She hopes eventually to earn a teaching credential and teach music.

"I stayed with friends along the way from Southern California," she says. "I knew I was on the verge of a nervous collapse and lived in constant fear of being sent to a mental institution. So many people have helped me get back on my feet and most important — find my identity."

Arriving in Marin three weeks ago, she moved into a San Rafael hotel, went to work as a waitress and began the search for a home so she can send for her children.

"WE ARE NOW strong enough to start all over again; all we need is a home," she says. "A home in the country with trees to climb, a quiet place so we can get together again with our nerves at stable ends is what I am trying to find."

Christine went to the Marin County Department of Public Social Service for help. She praises the department and particularly social worker Michelle Ritchie who has helped in her search for a home and referred her to the Leased Housing Program.

The federally funded Leased Housing Program aids eligible low income families by making up the difference between what they can pay and the cost of their rent.

Christine has qualified for LHP aid but must find either a two bedroom residence for $125 a month or a three bedroom for $165 to receive funds. She must also meet residency requirements which vary from city to city within the county. There are no residency requirement outside of incorporated city limits, so she has narrowed the search to West Marin.

"WEST MARIN has the small town environment my children are used to," she explains, "but I have looked out there and visited at least 20 real estate offices and haven't been able to find anything. Christmas is so close and we are split apart to the furthest ends of the country — New York to California—and here we stay without our arms enclosed," says Christine, who before coming to California five years ago was sales supervisor for the Guggenheim Museum in New York.

"I want to be one of the best mothers in the world," she says. "I have to make a new start in life, offer my children security, enrich their lives and therefore the rest of the world. To do this I need a home."

WORKING AS a waitress in a San Rafael restaurant is Christine Black, former sales supervisor for the Guggenheim Museum in New York. She is attempting to pick up the pieces to her life which was shattered when her home was destroyed in a Southern California flood and her nervous condition caused her to send her three children to New York to stay with her parents. Her hope to be reunited with her children is growing dim as she is unable to find a home for them in Marin County. (Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

John B. Martin, U.S. Commissioner of Aging, has recommended a federally-assisted method similar to the school lunch program to feed the 10 million or more aged who are too poor, sick or lonely to feed themselves.

'Shabu-Shabu' Table Setting

By GEN HUDDLESTON

Decorating an Oriental table for a Japanese meal is a specialty of Mrs. Leslter L. Sullivan, whose entry titled "Shabu-Shabu" will be among the table settings at the annual "Flaming Festival" given Tuesday by the Petaluma Woman's Club.

Her entry is named for a Japanese concoction prepared in a special pot and named for the sound made when beef and vegetables are whisked about in the boiling water. Soup and saki, Japanese wine, are traditionally served with the dish, she explained.

Simplicity is the keynote of Japanese table settings, lending an air of grace and charm to the table, says Mrs. Sullivan.

Mrs. Sullivan and her husband have acquired many decorative and useful objects during their travels abroad. The oriental dishes and decorations in her "Flaming Festival" entry came from her collection, with the antique Japanese salt and pepper shakers and the authentic oriental tablecloth contributed by Mrs. C. Eugene Baldwin, who assisted with the table.

A highlight of the arrangement is the centerpiece featuring six tall, red, tapered candles and Japanese spider mums placed in an oriental container atop a teak wood stand.

A favorite dish in the Sullivan home is barbecued chicken teriyaki prepared in the Japanese manner. For entertaining Mrs. Sullivan prefers a cheese dish served in an authentic Japanese fondue stand.

Talented in the art of Hawaiian dancing, which she once taught, Mrs. Sullivan was invited to dance before an audience of 500 during a luau celebration while she and her husband were in Hawaii last summer. While there she also took lessons in Tahitian dancing.

Other hobbies are bowling, arts and crafts, designing and making her clothes, and crewel work. Reflecting her creative abilities, the Sullivan home contains objets d'art created by the homemaker.

Mrs. Sullivan has been an active member of the Women's Club for 16 years. Native Californians, and Petaluma residents for 20 years, the Sullivans are the parents of Ellis and Jerry Sullivan and the grandparents of Kelly James Sullivan, two years old.

Mrs. Baldwin designs and sews clothes for herself and her daughter Gaylene, 16. The Baldwin sons are Gary, a student at Chico State College, and Wayne, who is in the Navy at Alameda Naval Air Station.

Open to the public from 1 to 4 p.m., the festival will feature a colorful table setting show with the only prerequisite being the use of candles.

Greeting guests at the door will be Mrs. Troy Fortner, president, and Mrs. A. Leroy Jewett.

Other arrangements at the festival will range from elegant teas and dinners to casual outdoor entertaining. Club entrants and their themes are Mrs. George T. De Long, "A Birthday Party"; Mrs. Rutherford Putnam, "Winter Picnic"; Mrs. Troy Fortner, "Big Game Breakfast"; Mrs. Walter C. Roche, "Mexican Coffee Time"; Mrs. Herold Mahoney, "Acorn Harvest Breakfast"; Mrs. Lorry Martini, "Christmas Dessert"; Mrs. Robert S. Lipman, "Hawaiian Theme"; Mrs. Arnold G. Fisher, "After Holiday Dinner"; Mrs. Ralph Bright, "Days of Wine and Roses"; Mrs. Victor L. De Carli, Pre-Holiday Table"; Mrs. John E. Welch, "A Wedding Supper"; Mrs. Walter R. Holman and Mrs. Glen E. Seifert, "A Tea Party for Two Dolls"; Mrs. Abe Solomon and Mrs. Clem W. McCorkle, "A Holiday Scene"; Miss Aletha Olmsted, "Fall Delight."

Members of the Petaluma Newcomers Club who are participating are Mrs. Joseph F. Rodola, club president, "Paliochi"; Mrs. Gregory Suverkrup, "An Autumn Brunch" and Mrs. Duane G. Nelson, "A Formal Dinner."

Another highlight of the afternoon will be the "Holiday Boutique" artistically arranged by Mmes. Sherwood Frische and Lynn J. Stenseth. Featured will be a selection of Christmas gift and decorating items, scented candles, antiqued candelabra and coach latterns to light up a holiday door.

Serving at the tea table throughout the afternoon will be Mmes. Orson Cooper, Barton B. Rearden and Melvin F. Rohde.

Reservations chairmen, Mrs. Charles D. Moore and Mrs. Rohde, said that tickets also will be available at the door. Proceeds are earmarked for the club's philanthropic projects and improvements to the clubhouse.

Military Wife Contestants

Hamilton Air Force Base personnel have selected four candidates for the fourth annual Military Wife of the Year contest. One military wife will be chosen whose actions represent the contributions being made by military wives wherever they are stationed.

Each of the five services will conduct its own contest and select the individual who will represent it in the final contest. The five finalists and their husbands will be flown to Washington, D.C., for the final judging for the Military Wife of the Year.

The four candidates chosen at Hamilton are Mmes. Frank J. Brehmn J. J. Karlonas, Lewie H. Miller Jr. and James E. Newsom. They will compete with other wives in the respective commands.

Patricia Brehm is the wife of Senior Master Sergeant Brehm of the 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron. They have three children. Frank is 15, Stephen 11 and Shawn, 4 years old.

Pat serves as president of the Noncommissioned Officers Wives' club and as assistance coordinator for religious instructions at the chapel. In the local community, she is a volunteer worker at St. Vincent's School for Boys.

Mary Ann Karlonas is the wife of Major Karlonas of the Western Communications Region. They are the parents of Robert, 23, Julianne, 20, Gregory, 17 and John, 12 years old.

HELEN HELP US!

The Spouse That Bows Down And Asks For The Lumps Gets Them

DEAR HELEN:

I read about the deserted woman whose husband said he'd be back at 2 p.m., but didn't say which year.

My wife left for a 30-day vacation two years ago. This after 23 years of marriage. Maybe you have the jump-to-conclusion picture of me as a worthless husband who deserves no better. Believe me, dear lady, I'm not a chaser or a wifebeater. My only vices are cigarettes and a can of beer before supper. I've been mother and father to the children while my wife did the running. Yet I still love her and wish she would come back for more than an occasional weekend.

She got involved in Little Theater and country music several years ago. I took her faithfully to the rehearsals, but she wouldn't let me stay. She would go to music festivals and taverns, then brag about the men who wanted her to run away with them. She didn't want my company.

It isn't that I am a party-pooper. I like to have fun and go places, but she preferred that I stay home.

Perhaps our marriage was doomed from the start. I heard — after the wedding — that she took me on the rebound because the man she loved went off with someone else.

Two lawyers say I have grounds for divorce and could get custody of the children, also the house. Yet I sit here waiting for those few weekends when (probably because she has nothing better to do), she becomes a visiting wife.

I don't want your sympathy, and I doubt if I'd take advice, as two years with psychotherapy (for both of us) hasn't done much good.

I just want you to know that it isn't always the poor wronged woman. Men suffer too. — DESERTED HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND:

True. Woman inflicts as much misery as she takes. And the wronged partner gets his (or her) lumps in direct proportion to how long he bows down and asks for them.

Stop suffering over past hurts and make a new life for yourself — without the woman who only wants you when there's nothing better to do. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am a woman of 25, divorced, and have a child. I'm dating a fellow out of my religion, which, to my parents, is a deadly sin. One night he came over in bell bottoms. They immediately assumed he is a hippie. (He's a respected high school teacher). Because he isn't exactly a Greek god type, they downgrade him further.

Helen, he treats me wonderfully, loves my daughter, and has no strong opinions on religion so there would be no clash. I'm beginning to love him, and I'm sure it's mutual.

But my folks, with whom we live, say if I go ahead with this romance they'll declare me an unfit mother and take away my little girl. I could prove them wrong in court, but think of the bitterness.

Should I buckle under ? — GIRL WITH PROBLEMS

DEAR G WITH P:

A woman of 25 should have broken out long ago. Call your parents bluff — you know they won't bring suit — and, if things get sticky, move to an apartment and establish a separate home for yourself and your daughter. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Look To The Skin For Beauty Ahead

By JANE ROGERS
London Express Service

The dolly girls of today are going to be the prematurely aged looking mums of tomorrow. Who says so? Several people in fact, all of them cosmeticians who are becoming extremely worried about the state of our skin. Today's girl, they say, is so busy putting on masses of eye makeup and lipstick that she is neglecting her skin completely and laying up a great deal of trouble for herself.

Once no make-up was complete without a heavy coating of foundation cream of some kind or other, topped with plenty of powder. Today's trendy teenager seldom bothers to use a foundation cream at all, and would certainly never dream of powdering her face — a gleaming look is definitely in. Whatever you thought of the old mask-like make-up effect it had one very important part to play: it protected your skin against extremes of temperature, and its cold winds and over hot sun that cause problems like thin red thread-veins on your cheeks and dry patches here and there.

IN AN EFFORT to make us all see sense, and avoid becoming wrinkled earlier than we need be, several of the top cosmetic houses have re-thought and re-packaged their ranges with the idea of making foundation and cover creams more attractive and, at the same time, persuading us to look after our skins properly.

At last you can now buy a selection of foundations that do not dry with a matte powdered effect and which come in fashion shades of beige and light sun-tan instead of that inevitable pink. Some of these are to be found in the chain stores. At the other end of the scale cosmetics firms have a selection of sand-beige colors that make a clear film of beige tone over the face without a make-up look.

It's difficult enough to put back the clock once you've allowed tiny crepy wrinkles to appear on your face, though cover-up creams are a great help. But if you start from the age of around 25 with a beauty routine that is planned to help prevent crows feet and wrinkles before they appear, you can cheat Old Father Time for quite a while.

THE DELICATE area of skin under and around the eye is usually the first to show signs of age. Never ever scrub fiercely at your skin at this point — teen-agers trying to remove eye make-up with soap and water often ruin their skins this way. Treat it gently and delicately so that it won't stretch, use the very best eye-make-up remover you can find and start using a very lightweight eye cream under your make-up whenever you are going out into hot sun or cold windy conditions. A useful item for your handbag is an anti-wrinkle stick, which looks just like a lipstick in its case, is a clear cover that you stroke on either under or, in an emergency over your make-up.

If the damage is already done and those tell-tale crows feet are firmly implanted, someone has come out with a new solution to this problem — an anti-wrinkle revitalizing cream which stimulates the blood circulation under the skin, helping it to retain its firmness, activitates the renewal of skin cells to restore vitality and moisturizes the skin too. It can be used at night or during the day as well, under your ordinary make-up.

The acid balance of your skin is vitally important if you are to keep it looking youthful, and to prove the point there is a whole range of special preparations which are designed to make your skin as near perfect as possible by making up its acid balance to the correct proportions. Although it helps the older woman, it's designed too for the bright girl who realized that clever skin care in the twenties and thirties shows a bonus in the forties and fifties.

WE'RE ALL going to be worrying soon about the look of our skins because of a new significant trend in jewelry. Earrings are back, for one thing, particularly the long exotic and dangling variety that focus so much attention on your cheekbones and your jawline.

Another fashion fad that is likely to come in and stay is the jewelled ornament that you wear in your hair, on your forehead, slung on a chain on your brow. Wearing something glittery like this near to your face, or even on it, draws attention to your skin immediately and seems, in an unfortunate way, to highlight any imperfections. The new jewelled look calls for a smooth blemish-free skin to go with it.

Loungewear

Loungewear featured in the first New York showing by the Korean Association of Fashion Design Artists included a multi-striped ensemble in satin. Its sleeveless top, showing bare midriff, was teamed with wide-legged pants.

THE NEW EXOTIC look in jewelry—giant earrings, pendants and crosses to be worn on your head as well as around your neck — call for careful makeup and near perfect skin. At left is an elaborate cross on antiqued silver chain. At right, exotic earrings have a matching belt, ring and bracelet, too.

Fashion's Look At The Nixon Administration

By ELIZABETH WHARTON

WASHINGTON (UPI) —If anybody wants to know what official society is wearing in the nation's capital these days, the answer is anything and everything and in some cases, very nearly nothing.

From the fashion viewpoint, Washington under the Nixon administration is hoplessly schizophrenic.

ON ONE HAND, there's President Nixon himself, who is so conservative in his attire that he wears a coat and tie to the beach.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew shares his boss's passion for dark suits, white shirts and ties so quiet they're almost mute.

Most of the cabinet members are equally "square" in their clothing preferences and hairstyles.

Robert H. Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, occasionally looks a little bit like a guy who once lived in California, but not very much and not very often.

And Defense Secretary Melvin Laird has dared to let his hair grow down by his ears—perhaps because he is unable to get it to grow anywhere else.

ON THE OTHER HAND, there's Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., whose devotion to conservatism stops at the wardrobe door. Goldwater recently showed up at a capital dinner party looking very mod in a pearl grey stile dinner jacket with wide satin lapels, a fine-tucked shirt, and a butterfly tie.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., also keeps abreast of the New York and London fashions in men's attire. And his pretty blonde wife, Joan, would qualify as a swinger even on Carnaby Street. She once attended a formal white house party in a silver miniskirt that bared at least eight inches of shapely thigh.

A few other senatorial and congressional wives — mostly Democrats—make the social scene in pants suits and see-through dresses. But Mrs. Nixon, Mrs. Agnew and the cabinet wives are as sedate in their clothing preferences as their husbands.

On Capitol Hill, during working hours, the chief visual stimulus is provided by young secretaries who get leg cramps trying to maintain decorum while typing in skirts that, even while standing up, invite eyestrain if not riot.

ALTHOUGH MOST lawmakers show up for House and Senate sessions in dark business suits, there seems to be a modest trend toward modishness in hairstyles. At least 30 of the 100 senators, and perhaps 100 of the 435 House members, now sport sideburns. A larger number are wearing their hair longer on the neck. The whole question of hair style is, of course, academic for many of the senior members.

So far, no member of Congress has grown a beard. And there's no one who could be described as a hippie. The man who comes closest to qualifying is Rep. Allard Lowenstein, D-N.Y., and friends say his suits have that slept-in look only because Lowenstein regards clothing as merely a utilitarian necessity.

The only genuinely mod dresser in the House is Illinois Democrat Kenneth J. Gray, a former magician and night club entertainer. He not only wears brightly colored suits and shirts but is generally far in advance of style changes and fashion trends.

Flamboyant Harlem congressman Adam Clayton Powell has showed up in the House in a Nehru jacket, worn with a tan turtleneck sweater with a medallion and chain.

THESE MAY have been the members who inspired California Republican Burt Talcott to make a stern little speech in the House on decorous attire.

He admonished his colleagues to "eschew fancy and flashy garb," and warned that "attire which is acceptable for folk dancing, sailing or the horse races may not be suitable for a session of the House."

The Supreme Court is eternal and unchanging, at least so far as fashion is concerned. The solicitor general still presents the government's views in cutaway coat and striped gray pants. What the justices wear under those long black robes is their own business, but you can safely assume that their legalities are righteously cloaked.

Mrs. Fredrick Koegler of Glendale and Lenor Stetson of Mill Valley are Tinsley's sisters and Mrs. Raymond Judd Loomis of Oakland is his grandmother. He was graduated from Tamalpais High School, attended the College of Marin and is employed as a summer park ranger at Yosemite National Park.

A December wedding is planned.

Chairman Of Mothers' March Sees Success In Birth Defects Fight

Mrs. Ralph Clark Jr. of Terra Linda has again been appointed Mother's March Chairman of the Marin Chapter of the March of Dimes.

This will be the fourth year that Mrs. Clark, attractive mother of three healthy boys, Stephen, Tommy and Jamie, has headed the annual doorbell-ringing campaign by women volunteers throughout Marin. The 1970 Mothers' March is scheduled for Jan. 30 and 31 and Feb. 1.

"Only 12 years ago," according to Margaret Clark, "no one cared much about birth defects. While research in the area of birth defects financed by the proceeds of the annual March has not yet come up with a 'silver bullet,' advances are taking place!

"We are no longer frightened of birth defects and have adopted a realistic approach to the prevention of such defects. Our main goal is to find out what goes wrong and stop it from happening."

"Rh blood disease, which once claimed the lives of thousands of babies born in the United States, can now be prevented by an immunizing vaccine."

"During the last epidemic of German measles of 1963-64, 20,000 babies were born with defects. A vaccine to prevent German measles is now available. Before the next predicted Rubella epidemic of 1970-71, the March of Dimes hopes to assist public health agencies in vaccinating millions of moppets to break the chain of infection."

Margaret Clark also urges parents of pre-school children to make certain their youngsters receive their polio vaccinations.

"Polio is a very real threat to the under five group if they remain unprotected prior to entering school when polio immunization is mandatory," she said.

Chamber Music Concert Sunday In Kentfield

The music of Brahms and French composers Lucien Capet and Ernest Chausson will be heard in the Wynn Westover Chamber Concert at 4:30 p.m. Sunday at the College of Marin fine arts theater. The concert is sponsored by the college concert-lecture series.

Randall Keith Horton will be guest conductor, and soloists will be soprano Joan Smith of Kentfield and pianist Norma Ditano.

Miss Smith will sing "Chanson Perpetuelle" by Chausson and the newly-discovered last songs by Capet.

Miss Ditano and Westover will play Chausson's piano and violin cencert, and Brahms' G Major Sonata.

Horton will conduct the chamber group in a Chausson concerto, and the group will also perform the American premiere of Capet's Quatuor No. 1.

Bank Reverses M-Day Firing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Bank of America stenographer is back on the job after fighting her dismissal for taking a day off last month to participate in the Vietnam moratorium.

The bank said yesterday Margo Pelton, 21, was fired by a "trigger-happy manager" whose decision was reversed by higher management.

The announcement by the bank followed settlement of a suit brought by Miss Pelton who claimed her constitutional rights were violated when she was discharged for taking time off to protest U.S. policy in Vietnam.

The bank said it will allow any employee to take a day off without pay for such activities so long as the bank can still conduct business.

Program Of Music For Youngsters

The Marin Symphony Guild will present a music for minors program, "Sights and Sounds of the Symphony," Saturday at San Rafael High School. There will be a performance at 10 a.m. and another at 11:15 a.m.

Attending will be fourth, fifth and sixth grade students of the Mill Valley, Reed, Sausalito, Larkspur-Corte Madera, Kentfield and Ross school districts, as well as students from St. Patrick's and Mount Carmel parochial schools and Marin Country Day School. Schools from other districts in Marin will be invited to attend programs in the spring.

The program will feature 25 musicians from the Marin Symphony Orchestra, who will present selections from the works of Bach, Beethoven, Dvorak and Ravel, which are to be played at the opening concert of the Marin Symphony on Nov. 30.

Hugo Rinaldi, conductor of the Marin Youth Orchestra, will direct and comment on the slides of pictures of instruments that will be shown.

The orchestra will appear through the courtesy of the Musicians Trust Fund, Local 6.

Japanese Festival Is Set Saturday

A Japanese festival, with traditional and modern Japanese entertainment, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the College of Marin student center.

Members of the Japanese consulate staff in San Francisco have been invited, and light refreshments will be served between performances, students Jiroumaru Nishida and Kiyo Ushiro said.

Hanayagi, a woman who is a master of traditional Japanese dancing, will perform. A band will play modern Japanese music, and demonstrations will be given of Japan's martial arts, karate and kendo.

Another demonstration will show the traditional method of making Japanese rice cakes, and folk songs and dances of Japan will be performed.

The festival is sponsored by Japanese and Japanese-American students at the college, who number 16 to 20, Ushiro said.

The festival will also serve to tell the college community of a 20-day tour of Japan and Expo 70 at Osaka next August which the Japanese students are sponsoring.

Larkspur Board Plans Yule Decor

Downtown merchants have contributed $300 toward the decorations, the Larkspur Lions Club $250 and and the city of Larkspur $500, chamber president Neil R. Brixon reported.

The chamber also named Harlan Barry and Gilbert Dubuc as a committee to nominate 1970 officers. The nominees will be elected by directors at the December meeting, and an installation dinner will be held in January, Brixon said.

Tires, Rims Taken

Two tires valued at $96 and two rims worth $25 were stolen from two cars during the last two days parked in the storage area of Marin Dodge Inc. at 1075 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael police reported today.

Novatans Poised For A 'Far Out Fling'

"Far Out Fling," fall production of the Novato Community Players will be presented at 8:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday, and again Nov. 21 and 22, in the Novato Community House.

Vivienne Terry and Otto Haiungs star as scientists whose secret formula a gang of international spies is trying to steal. The spies are played by Elaine and John Bernardi, John Bonner, Barbara Caruso, Alex Consagra and Ellen Keeler.

The job of an airline ticket girl, played by Marilyn Casady sets the international scene, roving from Kyoto to a Marakesh and Granada, ending with a moon scene and Joseph Jacob playing the man in the moon.

As in all flings, music and dancing make up the biggest portion of the show. "Spanish Eyes," one of the major songs, is sung by J. D. Nichols, Redwood High School music teacher who has sung with the Los Angeles Civic Opera.

Other top songs are: "Sukiyaki," sung by John Bernardi; "China Night," by Jean Teague; "Granada," by Ginny Weaver; "If I Were a Rich Man" by Scott Wright, and "Desert Song," by Max Keeler. Other soloists are Elaine Bernardi, John Bonner and Donald McGillis.

"Lady of Spain" is the top choral number with Sandy Arroyo, Larry Asay, Maxine Buffo, Saunde Brown, Marie Consagra, Doris Cormeir, Mary Grieve, Enid Hindmarch, Mavis Marney, Donald McGillis, Rex Minshall and others.

A Japanese fan-dance number, "I Singa Hi" will feature Georgi Beebe, Claudia Bliss, Jeanne Hall, Elaine Jacob, Arlene Johansen, Sylvia Knutson, Chris Kollgaard, Lei Mann, Sally McGillis, Rosalie Minshall and Shirley Nilsen. Another dance number, "Tonko Bushi" features black lights with parasols.

"Far Out Fling" was written and is directed by Lei Mann; produced by John Prohaska and with the assistance of Jean Teague, Musical director; Elaine Jacob, dance director; Albert Richter, set designer; Jerome London, set construction; Joseph Jacob, stage manager; Nick Carter, sound; Gale Nims, lighting; Arlene Martin, costumes; Nanci and Raymond Mathias, properties; Barbara Carter, publicity, Correne Prohaska, programs; Enid Hindmarch, make-up; Vincent McGovern, house chairman; and Lorayne Crozier at the piano and Jeff Crozier at the drums.

Guest Organist

William McMains will be guest organist at a meeting of the Marin Baldwin Organ Club at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Tamalpais Retirement Home in Greenbrae.

Teens Booked As Suspects In Drug Probe

Three teen-agers, suspected of smoking marijuana under the Novato Creek Bridge, were jailed Monday after a struggle with three Novato police officers.

Dale E. Kush, 18, of 354 Burton Street, Rohnert Park, was booked on suspicion of assaulting an officer, resisting arrest and being in a place where marijuana was being used. His bail is $1,250.

Douglas W. Jerve, 18, of 2033 Center Road, Novato, was jailed on suspicion of marijuana possession, with bail set at $625.

Larry Ricchard Meredity, 18, of 50 Merrydale Road, San Rafael, was booked on suspicion of being where marijuana was being used. His bail is $315.

Off-duty officer Ronald J. Green Jr. spotted the three under the bridge about 1:50 p.m. yesterday and tried to arrest them. When they put up a struggle, he called for police reinforcements. Officers Laurence H. Steffan and Michael Manick came to his aid and helped subdue the trio. Police said one of the youths hit Steffan in the face during the struggle.

All three are scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Wallace Fails To See Thieu

SAIGON (AP) — George C. Wallace wound up a final day of sightseeing, camp inspections and briefings today and prepared to leave Vietnam without seeing President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The former Alabama governor, scheduled to depart for Singapore tomorrow morning, apparently was disappointed that he had not been received by the president.

"We certainly came here with the anticipation of seeing the president," an aide said. "We have asked several times, of both the U.S. Embassy and the Vietnamese, for a meeting with him. They told us one was being arranged but it never seemed to develop."

Students' Strike Leaflet Barred

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Superior Court judged has ruled that San Francisco's public schools do not have to allow distribution of leaflets asking students to stay away from classes.

Robin David, regional organizer for the Student Mobilization Committee, said he would appeal.

Shortly after the ruling Monday by Judge Robert Merrill a petition was filed with the District Court of Appeal. It asked that either the distribution of a controversial circular be allowed or a hearing be set for Tuesday.

The board of education would not allow distribution of the leaflet which urges students to strike Friday.

Violence Erupts In Area Again

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI)—Sporadic rock and bottle throwing erupted for the second night in a row yesterday in the predominantly black west side but quieted down shortly after a curfew was imposed at 9:05 p.m.

Mayor Al C. Ballard ordered the curfew after a 10-square block area was sealed off to traffic during the hit-and-run type disturbances.

A police spokesman said the department hand confirmed reports that at least two Mototov cocktails were hurled at police cars. However, no damage was done to them and there were no injuries.

School Burglary

A burglar who smashed a window to enter MacPhail School in Santa Venetia sometime between Friday afternoon and Saturday morning took a couch and two chairs, valued at $250, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.
